ON THE COVERS:

Front cover: Frank Beamer enters his 27th year as head coach of the Hokies in 2013.

Since 2001, Virginia Tech has the sixth most wins in college football and the eighth most players drafted in the NFL. Of 228 seniors, 213 have graduated in that time.

Pictured on the inside front cover are Virginia Tech's seniors, including 10 players on the 2013 roster who earned their diplomas as of May 2013. They are Coles, Collins, Edwards, Exum, Gregory, Journell, Miller, Thomas, redshirt junior Wang and Wilson.

The inside back cover features five players who have appeared in the Pro Bowl and are active on NFL rosters: Shayne Graham (currently with the Cleveland Browns), Michael Vick (Philadelphia Eagles), Duane Brown (Houston Texans), DeAngelo Hall (Washington Redskins) and Kam Chancellor (Seattle Seahawks).

Back cover: Virginia Tech's facilities for athletics are second to none. The football locker room, Steve Johnson Practice Fields and Rector Field House are all conveniently located near Lane Stadium/Worsham Field.

WHAT IS A HOKIE?

That's a frequently asked question in Virginia Tech athletics, and the answer leads all the way back to 1896 when Virginia Agricultural and Mechanical College changed its name to Virginia Polytechnic Institute. With the change came the necessity for writing a new cheer, and a contest for that purpose was held by the student body. Senior O.M. Stull won first prize for his "Hokie" yell which is still used today. Later, when asked if "Hokie" had any special meaning, Stull explained the word was solely the product of his imagination and was used only as an attention-getter for his yell. It soon became a nickname for all Virginia Tech teams and those people loyal to Tech athletics. The official school colors – Chicago maroon and burnt orange – also were introduced in 1896. They were chosen because they made a "unique combination" not worn elsewhere at the time.

OFFENSIVE LINE

HEADLINES

Key Losses: tackle Nick Becton; tackle Vinston Painter

Key Returnees: center Andrew Miller; guard Brent Benedict; guard David Wang

The Hokies return the middle of their offensive line intact, but have no one with a start or appreciable playing experience on the roster at tackle.

Point of Interest: New line coach Jeff Grimes will find a way to get his five best players on the field. During the spring, 11 of Grimes' 14 linemen worked at more than one position, with five trying out three different spots.

Player to Watch: Caleb Farris was a key player last season helping out where needed in the middle of the Hokies' offensive line. This fall, Farris is definitely in the mix to earn a starting job. The question may be where? During the spring, Farris saw work at both guard positions, as well as center.

TACKLE

Laurence Gibson (r-Jr.) – A natural tackle, though he has played some at guard ... Is coming off a good spring ... Tall, strong and physical ... Has really good power for his size ... Has improved his quickness and body control ... Just needs to become more consistent.

Jonathan McLaughlin (Fr.) – Enrolled in January after spending a semester at Fork Union Military Academy ... Performed well in the spring but still needs to improve his strength and condition his body ... Possesses a great drive to be good ... Has competed every day like he deserved to be competing for a starting job ... Will get a chance to do that in August.

Mark Shuman (r-Jr.) – Worked at both tackle and guard during the spring ... Has the physical capability to play either position ... Possesses a lot of potential and needs to show it ... Will get the opportunity to step up when practice resumes.

Augie Conte (r-Fr.) – Has good physical attributes, including a great frame and great strength ... Played a little bit at guard in the spring but most of his time was spent at tackle ... Still has some things he needs to concentrate on but has a good chance to figure into the depth at tackle.

GUARD

Andrew Miller (r-Sr.) – The Hokies' most experienced lineman ... Started all 14 games at center in 2011 and the first seven games last year before suffering a broken ankle ... Was asked to move to guard midway through spring practice ... Is both physically and mentally tough ... Benefits from his wrestling background ... Has the ability to handle a tackle on his own ... Has a chance to really help the team at guard.

Brent Benedict (r-Jr.) – A tough player who shows up to work hard every day ... Is really strong ... Picked up some valuable experience last season while starting six games at right guard and playing in all 13 ... Still has to improve in certain areas but will do that ... Is definitely in the mix at guard.

Adam Taraschke (r-Fr.) – Got some work at guard and tackle last year ... Appears to be more natural at guard ... Has the kind of build coaches like at the position ... Still has a way to go but the coaches are hoping he has the potential to help this fall.

Jake Goins (r-So.) – A coachable player who played with good effort in the spring ... Has worked some at tackle and guard ... Right now he is more natural at guard but he has the frame to play either.

CENTER

Caleb Farris (Jr.) – A versatile player who is smart, mature and tough ... Is definitely in the mix to earn a starting job ... Started five games at center last fall after Andrew Miller was injured ... Also got some practice time at guard ... Worked at both guard positions and center during the spring ...

Has benefited from the strength and conditioning program.

David Wang (r-Jr.) – Has the skill set to excel, particularly at center, but has struggled to stay healthy ... Started 10 games last season at left guard ... Only played in a combined seven games the previous three seasons and sat out the majority of 2013 spring practice ... Isn't the biggest player, but is really quick and athletic ... Could give the line a boost.

Matt Arkema (r-Jr.) – Has the ability to play guard or center ... Started two games at left guard last season ... Saw action in three other games ... Spent the majority of the spring at center ... A team-first player who excels in the weight room.

COACH GRIMES ON THE OFFENSIVE LINE:

My first objective in the spring was to try to establish a culture, try to build an identity that starts with toughness, aggression and a blue-collar work ethic. I think we made some progress but we still have a long way to go. The next objective was just to teach them the new offense, the new terminology. We are doing some things that are a little bit different, and in the spring we put in part of the offense. I think now that we have the base in, we will be able to go a lot faster once we get to fall camp. What I like about this group is we have some eager kids who want to do well and are coachable, but want to only takes you so far ... we have to get better.

Andrew Miller

RECEIVERS & TIGHT ENDS

WIDE RECEIVER

D.J. Coles (r-Sr.) – A natural pass catcher and leader ... Tech's most experienced receiver ... Sat out last season with a knee injury ... Caught 36 passes in 2011 ... Did a good job in the spring but was playing above his ideal weight ... Needs to become more consistent ... Improving his overall quickness and conditioning will be a point of emphasis during the summer ... A matchup nightmare in the slot.

Demitri Knowles (r-So.) – A talented player who will be counted on for a lot of different things this fall ... Showed in the spring that he is more than just a deep threat ... Is confident in his ability and doesn't let pressure get to him ... Is as fast as you can get ... Developed consistency during the spring ... Will only get better as he continues to put on muscle ... Needs to work hard over the summer.

Joshua Stanford (r-Fr.) – A young player with very little game experience ... Entered spring practice as one of the Hokies' top receivers and stayed that way throughout the session ... His skill set fits the Tech offense really well ... Must continue building confidence and consistency ... Has a chance to become an outstanding player.

Charley Meyer (r-Fr.) – The kind of player you want in your program ... Began the spring in the bottom half of the depth chart ... Opened everybody's eyes with his toughness, route running, ability to catch the football in traffic and his overall consistency ... Is now a guy who will be counted on to play a lot.

Joel Caleb (r-Fr.) – Is still working on the transition to receiver after playing quarterback in high school ... His route running improved throughout the spring ... Has strong hands and seldom drops the ball ... Is tough to tackle ... Plays fast when he's not thinking ... Needs to get in the playbook over the summer and make sure he is doing the little things ... Has all the tools to be a good receiver.

E.L. Smiling (r-Jr.) – Coaches are looking for him to take the next step and help provide good depth this fall ... Did some really good things in the spring ... Needs to put in the work and build on that over the summer and show some strides when he returns in the fall.

Duan Perez-Means (r-Jr.) – Another former defensive end ... Plays with great effort and does his job ... Is still working on some of the mental aspects ... Makes the Hokies bigger and longer at the position ... Has shown promise, but the Hokies are hoping to get more out of him this fall.

COACH STINESPRING ON THE TIGHT ENDS:

I feel better coming out of the spring. From where we started to where we finished, we were much improved. For us, strength is critical. We are only going to be so athletic, but we have to keep working at it. If we had a nemesis in the spring it was that we put too many balls on the ground. We need to catch a lot of balls this off-season. Along with getting stronger, that has to be a top priority for us. In this offense, we will be able to catch a lot of balls.

COACH MOOREHEAD ON THE WIDE RECEIVERS:

Coming off of the spring practices, we were emphasizing a couple of things – overall effort as a position catching the football and establishing a toughness about ourselves. I think the guys did a really good job of that. We had a bunch of good practices and a bunch of good scrimmages where different guys did different things. That was good to see. As we were finishing our last practice, we were getting better and I was actually disappointed that we didn't have another 15 to go.

HEADLINES

Key Losses: split end Marcus Davis; split end Cory Fuller; flanker Dyrell Roberts; tight end Randall Dunn

Key Returnees: split end D.J. Coles; tight end Ryan Malleck

Coles, who had 36 catches in 2011 but was sidelined the entire 2012 season, is the only senior among the receivers and tight ends. Malleck's seven career starts are the only starts among the tight ends and equal the combined career starts among the wide receivers.

Point of Interest: Charley Meyer, an invited walk-on, started spring practice near the bottom of the depth chart at wide receiver but ended it as a player who is expected to get significant playing time come fall.

Player to Watch: Redshirt junior Zack McCray was moved to tight end in practices late last season after spending all his time at defensive end and tackle the past three years. McCray, who was a tight end in high school, was slowed by an early spring injury, but showed enough progress to keep the coaches excited.

TIGHT END

Ryan Malleck (Jr.) – Stepped up big in the spring and separated himself at the position ... Much improved as a blocker ... Is catching the ball with more consistency ... Can play both the Y position (on the line) as well as H-back ... Took advantage of the off-season program in the weight room ... Is number one at TE heading into August.

Zack McCray (r-Jr.) – Moved over from the defense ... Started practicing at tight end late last season ... Missed some valuable time early in the spring but got better down the stretch ... Understands leverage and the run blocking aspect but must be more physical at the point of attack ... Has shown he can catch the ball ... A great move for the Hokies.

RUNNING BACKS & QBs

HEADLINES

Key Loss: fullback Joey Phillips

Key Returnees: quarterback Logan Thomas; tailback J.C. Coleman

Thomas' decision to return to Virginia Tech for his senior season, combined with the debut of three new offensive coaches, including offensive coordinator and quarterbacks coach Scot Loeffler, have brought a new enthusiasm to the Tech offense.

Point of Interest: While Logan Thomas' continued development under a new coach has been of the utmost importance to the Hokies, even more attention might be focused on the quest for better productivity at the tailback position.

Players to Watch: Redshirt freshman Trey Edmunds has garnered much of the public attention as the Hokies attempt to rebuild their running game, but the coaches are also keeping an eye on the status of senior Tony Gregory, who could be an added asset if he is healthy.

TAILBACK

J.C. Coleman (So.) – Had a great off-season in the weight room ... Has gotten stronger and it shows ... Enjoyed a good spring and took on more of a leadership role ... Is good mentally with the new offense and what he is supposed to do ... Ended last fall as the Hokies' starting tailback ... Did a great job of picking up pressure as a blocker ... His 21 pass receptions were fourth-highest on the team ... Has gotten himself in position to be even more of a factor this season.

Trey Edmunds (r-Fr.) – A serious contender for the starting job ... Is still a little raw, but did a lot of good things in the spring ... Brings plenty of power and speed to the lineup ... Coaches were close to playing him last season but opted to redshirt him ... Used that time to learn and get stronger ... Is doing everything in his power to get on the field.

Tony Gregory (r-Sr.) – Someone to keep an eye on ... Did a lot of good things last season when he was healthy ... Was on the verge of becoming the starter when he suffered an injury against Bowling Green ... Missed the majority of spring practice with a rib injury ... Has speed, ability and some toughness ... An x-factor who can help out in space and as a tailback.

Chris Mangus (r-Fr.) – A promising young player who missed last season due to injury ... Showed some flashes of his ability during the spring and made progress from a mental standpoint ... Has a lot of big-play potential, just needs to be more consistent ... Could do a lot of things for the team this fall.

FULLBACK

Riley Beiro (r-Jr.) – Did a lot of good things for the Hokies in a limited role last season ... Is tough and athletic ... Sat out a lot of contact work in the spring while rehabbing from shoulder surgery that ended his season ... Is a top candidate to start but has a lot of ground to make up ... August will be critical.

Fuller Hoepner (r-Jr.) – Brings something to the table ... Moved over from tight end in the spring ... Worked extremely hard in the weight room ... Has some size the other guys don't have ... A former high school quarterback who is smart, tough and athletic.

COACH SHANE BEAMER ON THE RUNNING BACKS:

I'm pleased with the progress we made at tailback during the spring. I thought we got better, but having said that, we are still extremely young. I really like the work ethic of the group, I'm just concerned about the overall lack of experience. Fullback is kind of the same deal. Whoever comes out of the mix will be inexperienced as well. We want to utilize the position, but there has to be a guy who comes out of that group that we can count on. We are going to keep the competition for starting jobs at both positions open over the summer and into the preseason. Competition is good, and whoever comes out of the mix at both positions, we will feel good about.

QUARTERBACK

Logan Thomas (r-Sr.) – Tech's team leader ... Returned for his senior season after seriously considering the NFL Draft ... Was inconsistent last fall following a breakout season in 2011 ... Still managed to produce 3,500 yards of total offense ... Spent the spring working on his fundamentals and mental approach with new quarterback coach and offensive coordinator Scot Loeffler ... Taking care of the football, understanding the ins and outs of the offense and understanding protection calls will be huge ... Picks up things fast ... There is still work to be done but he is improving fast.

Mark Leal (r-Jr.) – A talented player who provides good competition at the position ... Picked up things quickly and had a good spring ... Coaches want to keep developing him ... Has served as the top backup the past two seasons ... His poise and demeanor are real assets ... Possesses a good knowledge of the passing game.

COACH LOEFFLER ON THE QUARTERBACKS:

I felt Logan improved immensely during the spring. Now, what we have to do in the preseason is continue on the process of making plays when plays present themselves and when they don't present themselves handling it without turning the ball over. If we can do a great job of cutting Logan's interceptions down from 18 to five or six, we are going to have a heck of a chance to win with our defense and our special teams. Fundamentally, we wanted Logan to improve, mentality-wise we needed to get him where we wanted him, and we did both. Now, it is the fine details and the tuning. It's getting on the same page with the wide receivers and making the protection calls. So, we've still got a lot of work to do, but the spring was a great start.

DEFENSIVE LINE

HEADLINES

Key Losses: tackle Antoine Hopkins

Key Returnees: tackle Derrick Hopkins; tackle Luther Maddy; end James Gayle; end J.R. Collins

All four starters from last year return with a combined 92 starts between them. The rest of the depth chart, however, includes just two players with starts – ends Tyrel Wilson (5) and Corey Marshall (5).

Point of Interest: Three-year starter James Gayle is settled in at one end position, but a battle is boiling for the other with returning starter J.R. Collins, dynamic newcomer Dadi Nicolas and former tackle Corey Marshall all in the running. The competition for backup duties at the tackle positions also promises to be worth watching.

Players to Watch: A group of youngsters – freshman Woody Baron, redshirt freshman Nigel Williams, redshirt freshman Alston Smith and redshirt sophomore Kris Harley – are pushing for the No. 2 jobs at both tackle positions.

Derrick Hopkins

Alston Smith (r-Fr.) – Coaches like what he did in the spring ... Is tough, quick and easy to teach ... Still has his ups and downs but he works at the game ... Studies video and has a good football IQ ... Needs to shed some weight ... Is in the mix for the backup duties.

Nigel Williams (r-Fr.) – A young player who shows a lot of ability ... Has quickness and pop ... Must develop his strength and consistency ... Will be someone to watch inside if he does ... Coaches feel he could push some players.

COACH WILES ON THE DEFENSIVE LINE:

We've got a lot of experience at our defensive end positions. James Gayle can be as good as anybody in the country and we've got a real battle on the other side that will continue through camp. The one thing that we have to improve is our defensive tackle depth. We've got to get better in our backup positions and develop consistency. Our first two guys, Derrick Hopkins and Luther Maddy, have played really well in there during the season and the spring. It's just the backup spots we have to get ready. Knowing exactly what you are going to get if you put them in a game, a certain performance level, right now we are still a little bit too up and down with our performance to determine where we stand. You just can't afford to be up and down at this level of football; you'll get beat.

END

James Gayle (r-Sr.) – Is highly motivated and has high goals and expectations for himself ... An experienced playmaker who is very productive when healthy ... Can be as good as anybody in the country ... Coaches feel he has a chance to elevate his play and himself into a high-round draft pick ... Needs to keep working on his attentiveness to detail ... Has 30 career tackles for loss and 16 sacks.

J.R. Collins (r-Sr.) – Got complacent at times in 2012 and lost his starting job ... Really flipped the switch after the season and is taking care of business ... Is back in the thick of the battle for starting duties following a good spring ... Has worked to emerge as a leader ... Played some at tackle the past two seasons but has shown he can be extremely productive at DE where he has 23 career starts.

Corey Marshall (Jr.) – Is in the mix for the starting job at the second end position ... Could also see action inside at tackle where he proved to be productive his freshman season at Tech ... Picked up four starts at end last season ... Had 14 QB hurries, third-best on the team ... An athletic player with good ability.

Tyrel Wilson (r-Sr.) – A trustworthy player who the Hokies feel good about ... Missed most of spring practice with a sprained foot ... Plays 15 to 20 snaps a game and is extremely productive ... Contributed a number of big plays that helped win games down the stretch last season ... Has a good football IQ ... Started three games in 2012 and posted 4.5 sacks, third-best on the squad.

Dadi Nicolas (r-So.) – A player who can really change a game ... Has emerged as a playmaker and a disrupter ... Is battling for a starting job after being named the most improved defensive player of spring drills ... Has lots of ability, a great motor and plenty of pop ... Must continue to improve overall, but he shows up.

TACKLE

Derrick Hopkins (Sr.) – A proven veteran who the Hokies will count on for leadership ... Has started 27 consecutive games at tackle ... Really improved over the past year, especially as a pass rusher ... Has always been strong against the run ... Will be looked to for a big season.

Luther Maddy (Jr.) – Moved into the starting lineup full-time last fall after starting seven games as a true freshman ... The more he plays, the better he gets ... Was nicked up at times last season but finished up nicely ... Has worked to improve his practice habits ... Had a good off-season and an exceptional spring.

Woody Baron (Fr.) – Enrolled in January ... Showed quickness and toughness during the spring ... Works well with the coaches ... Watches video and knows the game ... Needs to be more consistent and work on his strength and quickness ... Will battle for backup duties when he returns in August ... Is going to be a good player.

Kris Harley (r-So.) – Has ability and understands the game ... Began 2012 in the two-deep ... Was sluggish at times ... Needs to shed some weight over the summer to be more productive ... Will battle for one of the backup spots when practice resumes.

LINEBACKERS

HEADLINES

Key Losses: mike linebacker Bruce Taylor; whip linebacker Jeron Gouveia-Winslow

Key Returnees: mike linebacker Jack Tyler; backer Tariq Edwards

Tyler is coming off a season that saw him lead the Hokies in tackles (119) and earn first-team All-ACC honors from the league coaches. Tech coaches are looking for Edwards to get back to his form of 2011, after a slow recovery from a leg injury limited his playing time last fall.

Point of Interest: Outside of seniors Jack Tyler and Tariq Edwards – both expected starters – there is only one other upper classman (junior Chase Williams) on the Hokies' linebacker roster.

Player to Watch: If Tariq Edwards is slow returning to form, redshirt freshman Deon Clarke could figure in early at the backer position. Clarke still has some learning and maturing to do, but if he gets comfortable, he has the ability, the explosiveness and the physicality for the job.

MIKE

Jack Tyler (r-Sr.) – Had a great season in 2012 ... Started all 13 games and led the team in tackles (119) on the way to first-team All-ACC honors from the coaches and second-team honors from the media ... Has played a big role in some big games for the Hokies ... A good football player who is very instinctive ... Will be counted on to be a big time leader.

Chase Williams (r-Jr.) – Has played a couple of positions but is more suited for the mike spot and it has shown in his performance ... A heady player with a good understanding of the defense ... Provides stability at the position.

Devin Vandyke (r-Fr.) – An intelligent player with a good football IQ ... Has had limited practice time due to injuries but still has the coaches excited about his future ... Very active despite hamstring issues the spring ... Has explosiveness and a big upside.

BACKER

Tariq Edwards (r-Sr.) – Coaches are hoping he can return to his form of 2011 this fall ... Sat out spring 2012 after surgery to repair a stress fracture in his left leg ... Was slow to recover physically and mentally last season ... Made strides this past spring making plays and getting his timing back ... Will be challenged to get in great shape over the summer ... A long, rangy athletic player who can be good in all aspects of the game for the Hokies.

Tariq Edwards

Deon Clarke (r-Fr.) – An explosive, powerful player with a lot of ability and potential ... Can rush the passer, but needs to continue to grow and learn the position ... Must get better in the passing game ... Could put himself in line for playing time with a good summer preparation.

COACH FOSTER ON THE INSIDE LINEBACKERS:

Right now, I feel real good about our first group. Jack Tyler had an outstanding spring and was voted one of our captains. I'm expecting to see great leadership from him. Tariq Edwards has made good strides and I'm hoping he has a great summer. He is a key guy. At the backup spots there is going to be a tremendous battle still. Chase Williams has solidified himself, but at the same time we've got three youngsters – Devin Vandyke, Deon Clarke and Dahman McKinnon – who I'm really encouraged about from spring practice. I'm hoping they all are going to retain what they learned in the spring and take that next step this fall.

WHIP

Ronny Vandyke (r-So.) – The only returning player at the position ... Was brought along slowly last season, but got a lot of opportunities to get live reps in games ... Has the height, the size and the tools you want at the position ... Must continue to build confidence and show the ability to cover receivers ... Coaches are looking for him to have a good summer and pick up where he left off in the spring when he returns in August.

Josh Trimble (r-So.) – Is competing for a piece of the action after spending time at safety and backer ... Did some things well at whip during the spring ... Needs to continue working to get better and become a leader ... Is tough and athletic ... Moves good in space and has play-making ability ... Is also a valuable special teams performer.

COACH BROWN ON THE WHIP LINEBACKERS:

I like how we finished the spring. The group as a whole got better, performed better and did a lot of things well in the last scrimmages. I'm excited and encouraged about the potential we can have out of the position, and I'm definitely excited about Ronny Vandyke. He is the one returning guy at the position and I think he made some strides in the right direction to becoming a consistent performer.

DEFENSIVE SECONDARY

CORNERBACK

Antone Exum (r-Sr.) – Missed spring practice after suffering a non-football related knee injury in January ... His return date is uncertain ... Capped an outstanding 2012 season by being named the MVP of the Russell Athletic Bowl and earning second-team All-ACC honors ... Started every game, finishing the year at field corner ... Led the team with five interceptions and tied for fourth nationally in total passes defended with 21.

Kyle Fuller (Sr.) – Returns as the starter at boundary corner ... Served as the Hokies' nickel back his first two seasons ... Leads the secondary with 33 career starts ... Was inconsistent at times in 2012 after being the team's top defensive player the year before ... Got got back to focusing on his technique and fundamentals ... Had a great spring.

Donaldven Manning (So.) – Might be slightly ahead at the field corner spot until Exum returns ... Was steady and consistent all through the spring ... Did not give up things mentally and technique-wise ... Added some much-needed weight after being overwhelmed at times last year ... Brings a good football IQ to the field.

Donovan Riley (So.) – A Super Iron Hokie in the off-season program ... Opened spring No. 1 at field corner ... Was productive early but was slowed by inconsistent play ... Returned an interception 53 yards for a touchdown in the spring game ... Can be a tremendous talent down the road once he puts everything together.

Brandon Facyson (Fr.) – Entered school in January ... A tall player with long arms who the coaches think has a great upside ... Worked at boundary corner and made a lot of plays on the ball during the spring ... Named the team's top defensive newcomer.

Davion Tookes (r-Fr.) – Worked at both cornerback spots during the spring to get enough reps ... Got off to a slow start but really came around at the end of spring ... Showed he was tough enough physically and mentally.

FREE SAFETY

Detrick Bonner (r-Jr.) – Moved into the free safety spot and started every game in 2012 ... Did a good job of controlling the defense and getting players lined up ... Has outstanding speed and is great in man coverage ... Continued to take steps forward during the spring.

Der'Woun Greene (r-Fr.) – Showed a lot of promise at free safety during the spring ... Returned an interception 98 yards for a touchdown during the spring game ... Still lacks experience but has shown toughness and an ability to make plays ... Must continue working on his technique and fundamentals over the summer ... A nice addition.

ROVER

Kyshoen Jarrett (Jr.) – Played and practiced fast during an outstanding spring ... Probably the most consistent of the secondary group ... Saw some action at cornerback as a freshman before moving to rover last season and starting all 13 games ... Was second on the team in tackles with 83 ... Is very good at getting to the football ... Also excels as a punt returner.

Desmond Frye (So.) – Saw brief playing time at free safety as a true freshman ... Switched to rover in the spring to be closer to the ball and take advantage of his strength – tackling in tight quarters ... Got his reads fast and played well during the spring ... A smart player who can be productive.

HEADLINES

Key Loss: rover Michael Cole

Key Returnees: cornerback Antone Exum; cornerback Kyle Fuller; rover Kyshoen Jarrett; safety Detrick Bonner

All four starters return, but second-team All-ACC corner Exum sat out the spring due to knee surgery and may not be ready when the season opens. The four returnees have a combined 95 career starts for the Hokies.

Point of Interest: With Antone Exum sidelined for the spring, Coach Torrian Gray gave three unproven young players – Donovan Riley, Donaldven Manning and Davion Tookes – an opportunity to work at field corner during spring practice in case Exum misses the start of the season. Manning appears to hold a slight edge in the competition, which will pick up again in August.

Player to Watch: Freshman Brandon Facyson, who entered Tech straight from high school in January, is already in the current two-deep at boundary corner. Coaches think his upside is such that he's only going to get better.

COACH GRAY ON THE SECONDARY:

I felt pretty good coming out of the spring. I really like our experienced guys. Detrick Bonner, Kyshoen Jarrett and Kyle Fuller all had great springs and all three won spring awards. The biggest thing was finding depth, and I felt we did that to an extent. We still need to find that field corner guy. We are hoping Antone (Exum) is going to get back, but if not, we've got to have somebody who is able to make us feel good about that position going into the first game. I don't feel we have that yet.

SPECIAL TEAMS

HEADLINES

Key Losses: None

Key Returnees: place-kicker Cody Journell; punter A.J. Hughes; snapper Joe St. Germain; punt returner Kyshoen Jarrett; kickoff returner Demitri Knowles

Tech returns experienced players in every area of its special teams, and in most cases, has enough depth to create some healthy competition.

Point of Interest: The Hokies not only have kickers who have performed and been successful, they also have good competition at the positions. That competition figures to get even stronger in August when some new faces join the mix.

Player to Watch: Place-kicker Cody Journell is coming off an outstanding season in which he won three games with field goals and led the team in scoring. During one stretch, he made 12 consecutive field goals.

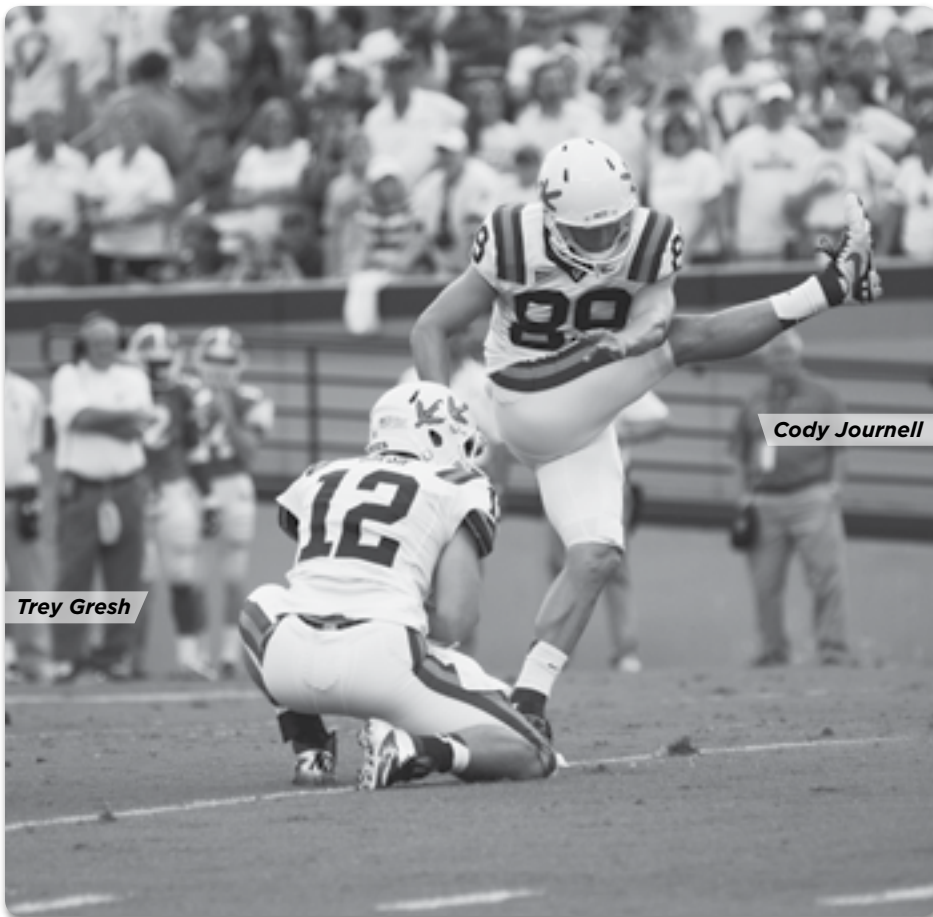

PLACE-KICKER

Cody Journell (r-Sr.) – Returns after a stellar 2012 showing ... Connected on 20 of 25 field goal attempts, including three last-play, game-winning kicks ... Made 34 of his 36 extra-point attempts and led the team in scoring with 94 points ... Kicked off some late in the season ... Made a 55-yard field goal during a spring scrimmage ... A good offensive weapon for the Hokies.

Brooks Abbott (So.) – A high school All-American kicker ... Served as the backup to Cody Journell in the fall ... Handled the majority of Tech's kickoffs in 2012 ... Kicked off 39 times with nine touchbacks ... Had the best average at 61.5 yards ... Was 4-for-5 in field goals during the spring with a long of 45 ... Must continue working on his consistency during the summer.

PUNTER

A.J. Hughes (So.) – Won the punting duties in a close battle during the preseason last fall ... Averaged 40.6 yards on 79 punts, placing 22 inside the 20 ... Had 15 punts of 50 or more yards ... Generally came through when the

Trey Gresh

Cody Journell

Hokies needed a big kick ... Did well in directional punts ... Averaged 41.1 yards on 15 punts during the spring with a long punt of 53 yards.

Hunter Windmuller (r-Fr.) – Another good punter ... Lost a close competition for the punting duties last fall ... Sat out spring practice with a quad injury ... Needs a good summer preparation to make another bid.

SNAPPER

Joe St. Germain (r-Jr.) – Won the starting snapping duties last fall ... Handled all the snaps (130) during the 2012 season ... Did not have a snap that got the team in trouble.

Eddie D'Antuono (r-Fr.) – Served as the backup snapper in 2012 ... Did not see action and was redshirted ... Brings size to the position, which could be valuable ... Will compete for both the long and short snapping duties.

HOLDER

Trey Gresh (r-Jr.) – Returns as the starter after handling all of the snaps on placements the last two seasons ... Mark Leal will handle the backup duties.

RETURN MEN

Kyshoen Jarrett (Jr.), Kyle Fuller (Sr.), Willie Byrn (r-Jr.), Demitri Knowles (r-So.), J.C. Coleman (So.), Tony Gregory (r-Sr.) – Jarrett ranked ninth nationally in punt returns last season with an average of 13.89 yards per return ... He returned a punt 94 yards for a TD at Pitt, the second-longest punt return in school history ... Knowles was 12th nationally in kickoff returns with a 28.3-yard average ... He turned in a 93-yard TD return at UNC and his 595 yards were the most in a season for a Tech player since Billy Hardee set the school record (758) in 1973.

COACH FRANK BEAMER ON THE SPECIAL TEAMS:

Having kickers who have performed and been successful is a gigantic first step. I have always said if you've got good kickers you are going to be good on special teams, and I think that is exactly the case with us this year. Having Cody (Journell) back gives us a confidence there. And I'm interested in Brooks Abbott who continues to improve his consistency. The good competition helps everybody get better. We also have two really good punters in our program. I want to keep that competition going, too, and see who is most consistent this spring. I kind of like where we are.

MEET THE COACHES

HEAD COACH FRANK BEAMER

COACH HAS LED HOKIES TO 20 CONSECUTIVE BOWL APPEARANCES

When Frank Beamer accepted the job as head football coach at his alma mater in 1987, his goal was for the Virginia Tech football program to reach a consistent level of excellence. The Hokies have come a long way since then, and, along the way, Beamer has become one of the most respected and successful coaches on the college football scene. He enters the 2013 campaign – his 27th in Blacksburg – as the winningest active coach in the FBS with 258 career wins.

Under Beamer, Tech football has enjoyed unprecedented success with 20 consecutive bowl appearances, four ACC titles, five ACC Coastal Division crowns, three BIG EAST Conference titles, six BCS appearances, two “major” bowl victories and a trip to the national championship game. Under his guidance, the Hokies have finished in the Top 20 in 16 of the past 21 seasons, including four top-10 finishes during the last nine years.

The Hokies couldn’t have asked for anyone better to guide their football program into the ACC. In 2004 – Tech’s first season in the league – Beamer and his staff led a young team picked to finish sixth in the league to an ACC title and a BCS Bowl. That team also won the league’s 2004 Fall Sportsmanship Award for football, yet another tribute to the program Beamer and his staff have built. A year later, the Hokies produced an 11-2 record, won the ACC Coastal Division title, earned a spot in the inaugural league championship contest and appeared in a bowl game. Beamer was named the ACC Coach of the Year both seasons.

After the 2006 squad went 10-3 with a bowl appearance, Beamer’s 2007 Tech team won the conference title and played Kansas in the Orange Bowl. Beamer was named the 2007 Southeast Coach of the Year by Sports Unlimited magazine and was a finalist for both the Paul “Bear” Bryant and Eddie Robinson Coach of the Year awards.

The Hokies went 11-3 and finished ninth in the final national polls.

The 2008 season may have been Beamer’s finest effort as he took one of the youngest teams in his tenure, played one of the toughest schedules and, despite several setbacks and disappointing losses, led the Hokies to an ACC title and a 20-7 win over Cincinnati in the FedEx Orange Bowl. In 2009, the Hokies kept rolling, winning 10 games including an impressive victory over Tennessee in the Chick-fil-A Bowl.

In 2010, after an unexpected 0-2 start, he led Tech to 11 wins, an ACC title and a berth in the Discover Orange Bowl to cap off another impressive season. He was also named the winner of the inaugural Joseph V. Paterno Coach of the Year Award, recognizing Beamer for his team’s performance on the field, in the classroom and in the community.

In 2011, Beamer led the Hokies to 11 wins and an appearance in the ACC Championship Game after capturing another Coastal Division crown. The Hokies finished with an 11-3 overall mark, including a berth in the Allstate Sugar Bowl against Michigan, Tech’s eighth “major” bowl game appearance. Last year, the Hokies won their final three games, including a victory over Rutgers in the Russell Athletic Bowl, to finish with its 20th-straight winning season.

Beamer, who was the consensus National Coach of the Year in 1999, is the active leader among Division I FBS coaches in victories with 258 over 32 seasons as a head coach. Now entering his 27th year at the Tech helm, his overall record as the head man of the Hokies stands at 216-104-2. He became Tech’s winningest football coach during the 1997 campaign. Counting six years as head coach at Murray State prior to joining the Hokies, Beamer’s overall record is 258-127-4.

A spot in the Nokia Sugar Bowl to play top-ranked Florida State for the national championship focused widespread attention on Virginia Tech and its football program following the 1999 season. Although the Hokies fell short in their bid for the national title, they proved that they belong among the top teams in the college ranks.

For his part in the Hokies’ magical 1999 season, Beamer earned eight national coach of the year awards. He was named the Bobby Dodd Coach of the Year, the GTE Coach of the Year, the Eddie Robinson Coach of the Year, the Paul “Bear” Bryant Coach of the Year, The Associated Press Coach of the Year, the Walter Camp Football Foundation/Street & Smith’s Coach of the Year, the Maxwell Football Club Coach of the Year and the Woody Hayes Coach of the Year. He also was named the BIG EAST Conference Coach of the Year for the third time.

Tech won the BIG EAST title in 1995 and 1999 and shared it in ’96. Beamer was voted BIG EAST Coach of the Year by the league’s coaches each of those seasons.

There have been plenty of other accolades for the Hokies’ coach. Prior to the 2005 season, a Seattle Times poll of more than 40 coaches voted Frank Beamer as the current head coach for whom they had the most respect. When BIG EAST Conference football celebrated its first 10 years of existence in 2000, Beamer was voted the Coach of the Decade by the league’s media. In 1997, he was inducted into The Virginia Tech Sports Hall of Fame.

The rise of the Tech football program has made Beamer a man in demand. It has opened doors to places he may never have dreamed of as a youngster growing up in Southwest Virginia.

In September 2000, Beamer was invited to the White House where he joined a select group that stood in the Rose Garden behind then-

President Bill Clinton as he made remarks on the Conservation and Reinvestment Act. Beamer was one of the keynote speakers at the American Football Coaches Association Convention in 2000; and, in April 2001, he joined former Prime Minister of Great Britain Lady Margaret Thatcher as one of the featured speakers at SUCCESS 2001, one of the nation's most popular business seminars.

In April 2004, Beamer was presented with a Humanitarian Award by the National Conference for Community and Justice for his contributions to fostering justice, equity and community in the Roanoke Valley. An avid NASCAR fan, Beamer has been the official starter for races at Bristol Motor Speedway and Richmond International Raceway.

In 1990, Beamer received a new contract and a substantial pay raise. He refused the raise, however, until a time that all classified and faculty employees of the university could have the same opportunity for pay raises. Most state salaries had been frozen at the time. When offered a pay increase in 2006, he did not sign the agreement until his assistant coaches were taken care of first.

Another indication of Beamer's love for the university came on the night he was inducted into The Virginia Tech Sports Hall of Fame. He called it the biggest honor of his entire career. With the induction, he became the first active coach at the university to be honored in that fashion.

The 66-year-old Beamer, the first alumnus to guide the Hokies since the 1940s, took over the Tech reins from Bill Dooley in January 1987. He began work a few days after the Hokies had beaten North Carolina State in the Peach Bowl. It took a while for him to get the Hokies moving in the right direction because the football program was hit with NCAA sanctions at the time.

But everything came together in the 1990s. The Techmen finished 9-3 in 1993 after beating Indiana, 45-20, in a wild Independence Bowl game. Tech followed up with an 8-4 season in 1994, losing to Tennessee, 45-23, in the Gator Bowl.

The Tech teams in 1995 and 1996 were among the best in school history. The 1995 team swept the BIG EAST Conference championship outright, and the 1996 club tied for the title with Syracuse and Miami.

The 1995 team was 9-2 during the regular season and then came up with a stirring 28-10 victory over Texas in the Sugar Bowl. The 1996 team went 10-1 during the regular season and lost to powerful Nebraska, 41-21, in the Orange Bowl after giving the Cornhuskers a fierce battle for three quarters.

The Hokies fell to 7-5 in 1997 and were beaten badly by North Carolina in the Gator Bowl, 42-3. But they came right back with a 9-3 mark in 1998 that included an impressive 38-7 victory over Alabama in the inaugural Music City Bowl in Nashville, Tenn.

The two winningest seasons in school history followed in 1999 and 2000 with the Hokies posting back-to-back 11-1 records. Tech registered its first-ever 11-0 regular-season record in '99 before losing its national championship battle with FSU.

In 2000, the Hokies' only blemish was a loss at Miami in the ninth game of the season. Both seasons, Tech climbed as high as No. 2 in The Associated Press poll, finishing No. 2 in '99 and No. 6 in 2000. The Hokies climbed as high as No. 5 in the 2001 AP poll and finished 18th. In 2002, Tech was ranked as high as No. 3 in the AP poll

STABILITY AT THE TOP EQUALS SUCCESS

One of the keys to the continuing success of Virginia Tech football has been the stability of the program. That stability begins at the top with head coach Frank Beamer, whose 26 years at the Hokie helm have helped the program develop a sense of the stability and consistency currently enjoyed by just a handful of other Division I-A schools. None of the 124 Division I-A head football coaches has been at their current schools consecutively longer than Beamer, who enters his 27th season at the helm of the Hokies.

COACHING EXCELLENCE

Virginia Tech defensive coordinator Bud Foster won the prestigious Broyles Award as the nation's top assistant coach following the 2006 season. Foster was a finalist for the award in 1999, 2001 and 2005. He was also named the No. 1 defensive coordinator in Division I-A by rivals.com prior to the 2005 season.

THE HIGHEST COMPLIMENT

In a Seattle Times poll of more than 40 Division I-A head football coaches prior to the 2005 season, Virginia Tech's Frank Beamer was picked as the most respected coach among current I-A head coaches.

after posting consecutive wins over nationally ranked LSU (14th), Marshall (16th) and Texas A&M (19th). The Hokies' youthful team finished the season ranked 18th.

During the 2003 season, the Hokies ended No. 2 Miami's 39-game regular-season winning streak with a 31-7 victory. The 'Canes were the highest-ranked opponent Tech had ever beaten on the gridiron. The Hokies climbed as high as No. 3 in the polls before falling victim to inconsistent play during the final month of the season. Still, Tech earned eight wins for the 10th time in 11 seasons.

The 2004 season saw the Hokies bounce back to win their last eight games of the regular season, including victories against three nationally ranked teams – No. 6 West Virginia, No. 16 Virginia and No. 9 Miami.

Beamer's early Tech teams also registered many exciting victories. One of the most impressive came in 1990 when the Hokies capped the year with a 38-13 victory over arch-rival Virginia. During the 1989 season, Tech knocked off ninth-ranked West Virginia, 12-10, in Morgantown.

During his undergraduate days at Tech, Beamer started three years as a cornerback and played on the Hokies' 1966 and 1968 Liberty Bowl teams.

He received a B.S. in distributive education from Tech in 1969 and a master's in guidance from Radford in 1972. Then came the start of the Beamer coaching career.

He began as an assistant at Radford High School from 1969 through 1971. Then, after one season as a graduate assistant at the University of Maryland, he went to The Citadel where he worked five seasons under Bobby Ross and one year under Art Baker. His last two years at The Citadel, Beamer was the defensive coordinator. In 1979, he went to Murray State as the defensive coordinator under Mike Gottfried. He was named head coach at MSU in 1981 and went on to compile a six-year record of 42-23-2.

The Tech coach was born in Mt. Airy, N.C., and grew up in Hillsville, Va. At Hillsville High, he earned 11 varsity letters as a three-sport athlete in football, basketball and baseball.

Beamer is married to the former Cheryl Oakley of Richmond, Va. They have two children, Shane, a former member of his dad's football team at Tech and now the associate head coach at Virginia Tech; and daughter Casey, a 2003 graduate of Tech. He has two grandchildren, Sutton and Olivia, daughters of Shane and his wife, Emily.

ACCOMPLISHMENTS

Frank Beamer, the first Tech alumnus to guide the Hokies' football program since the 1940s, has won more games at Tech than any other head football coach. Prior to Beamer, no other grid coach in Virginia Tech history had served more than 10 seasons as head coach. Beamer is also the most-tenured active FBS head coach, having been at his current school consecutively longer than any other coach in the nation.

With last season's visit to the Russell Athletic Bowl, head coach Frank Beamer has led the Hokies to 20 straight bowl games, making him one of four coaches all-time in college football history to accomplish that.

NATIONAL COACH OF THE YEAR

Coach Frank Beamer was tabbed the consensus national football coach of the year for 1999 after leading the Hokies to an 11-0 regular season and a berth in the national championship game.

TECH OFFENSE

“Our objective from the beginning was to create a mindset that we want here at Virginia Tech. We want a mindset of toughness across the board, a mindset of playing with enthusiasm and high energy, a mindset of playing hard, of playing through the whistle. We want to have that type culture, and I think we are heading in the right direction. We need to have a great training camp in terms of fine-tuning the offense, being able to run the ball and being able to protect the ball. If we do that, we’ve got a shot because of how we play team football here at Virginia Tech.”

Bryan Stinespring, an integral member of the Virginia Tech staff as both a coach and recruiter, is in his first season as recruiting coordinator at Virginia Tech while also overseeing the tight ends.

This move comes after 11 seasons overseeing the Hokies' offense. Stinespring was promoted to offensive coordinator in December 2001 and began those duties during the Hokies' Gator Bowl game against Florida State on New Year's Day. He also coached the tight ends and offensive tackles along the line.

The 2013 season marks Stinespring's 21st year as a full-time coach on Frank Beamer's staff at Tech. In 2006, he returned to coaching the tight ends after eight seasons as the offensive line coach.

During his time as the offensive line coach, one of Stinespring's star pupils, center Jake Grove, won the 2003 Rimington Trophy and became the university's third unanimous All-American. He was the first center taken in the 2004 NFL Draft.

In 2011, junior tailback David Wilson broke the school's single-season rushing record en route to ACC Player of the Year honors and becoming an NFL first-round draft pick, while sophomore quarterback Logan Thomas set a new school record for total offense in a season. His offense also featured the top two receivers in school history and Jacobs Blocking Trophy recipient Blake DeChristopher at tackle.

In 2010, Stinespring's offense flourished and was led by ACC Player of the Year Tyrod Taylor who quarterbacked the Hokies to an ACC title. In 2009, freshman Ryan Williams led a rushing offense that ranked 14th in the country; and, in 2007, Stinespring had four players from his offense taken in the NFL Draft, including offensive tackle Duane Brown in the first round. In 2005, three of his linemen were named to the All-ACC team with two of them earning first-team honors.

Stinespring took over the offensive line duties in the spring of 1998 and helped mold Tech's young line into a unit that showed steady improvement during the '98 season. Two members of that line – tackle Derek Smith and guard Dwight Vick – went on to sign with NFL teams.

In 1999 and 2000, the offensive line helped clear the way as the Hokies set new BIG EAST rushing marks in back-to-back seasons. Center Keith Short, guard Matt Lehr and tackle Dave Kadela all earned second-team All-BIG EAST honors in '99. Lehr repeated as a second-team pick in 2000, while Kadela moved to first team. In 2002, tackle Anthony Davis earned all-conference honors as the offensive front cleared the way for record-setting tailbacks Lee Suggs and Kevin Jones, who combined for over 2,100 yards.

Prior to taking over the O-line duties, Stinespring coached Tech's tight ends and assisted with the offensive line for five seasons. He was the Hokies' recruiting coordinator for eight years (1994-2001) and continues to be instrumental in helping attract top high school talent to campus. In 2001, he served as Tech's assistant head coach along with his other duties.

Stinespring initially joined the Tech staff in 1990 as a graduate assistant coach and spent two seasons in that capacity helping with the offensive line. After serving as the director of sports programs in 1992, he was elevated to a full-time coaching position prior to the 1993 season.

A native of Clifton Forge, Va., Stinespring was a walk-on player for James Madison University in the early 1980s. He is married to the former Shelley Franklin of Richmond, Va. Bryan and Shelley have a son, Daniel, twin daughters, Caroline and Olivia, and another daughter, Ella.

Former Virginia Tech long snapper and receiver Shane Beamer is in his third season on the Hokies' coaching staff as the associate head coach and running backs coach after spending four seasons at the University of South Carolina.

In his first year back in Blacksburg, he provided mentorship to David Wilson, who broke the school's single-season rushing record and was named both an AP All-American and the ACC's Player of the Year and went on to be taken in the first round of the NFL Draft by the New York Giants.

Beamer coached several spots for the Gamecocks, including the spurs and strong safeties, as well as serving as the special teams coordinator in both 2009 and 2010. Beamer was also Carolina's recruiting coordinator, duties he took on following the conclusion of the 2008 regular season.

In 2009, Beamer's special team units recorded five blocked kicks, tying for the SEC lead and tying for the eighth-highest total in the nation. Beamer helped coach a defense that ranked third in the SEC and 15th in the country in total defense and second in the league and eighth in the land in passing defense.

Beamer's first class as the recruiting coordinator (2009) was ranked the nation's 12th-best class by both Rivals.com and Scout.com and the 2010 and 2011 recruiting classes were again ranked among the nation's top 25. Beamer was nominated for the 2009 Frank Broyles Assistant Coach of the Year award following the season.

Beamer joined the South Carolina staff in 2007, coaching the outside linebackers and serving as the co-coordinator of special teams in his first season in Columbia. He worked with the cornerbacks in his second campaign. That 2008 unit was one of the most productive on the field as they were part of a defensive squad that finished the regular season ranked second in the nation in pass defense and 13th in total defense.

Beamer went to South Carolina after spending the previous three seasons at Mississippi State University. He was hired by Sylvester Croom in January 2004 to coach the Bulldog cornerbacks under defensive coordinator Ellis Johnson. In his first two seasons at MSU he guided three defensive backs to Freshman All-SEC accolades. He made the move to running backs coach in the spring of 2006. He also served as the program's recruiting coordinator.

Beamer went to Mississippi State from the University of Tennessee, where he spent three seasons as a graduate assistant helping with the cornerbacks, coaching the place-kickers, punters and long snappers and assisting in all special teams areas.

He also oversaw game opponent scouting while at UT and earned a master's degree in sport science in December 2003.

Prior to joining the staff at Tennessee, Beamer worked one season (2000) as a graduate assistant at Georgia Tech, helping with the Yellow Jacket quarterbacks and wide receivers.

Beamer earned his bachelor's degree from Virginia Tech in 1999 and was the Hokies' starting long snapper for three seasons. He also contributed as a wide receiver. He played on four bowl teams and three Big East Conference championship squads.

He concluded his college playing career by helping the 1999 Hokies to a No. 2 final regular-season ranking and a berth in the national championship game played against Florida State in the Sugar Bowl.

Born in Charleston, S.C., Beamer is the son of longtime Virginia Tech head football coach Frank Beamer. He is married to the former Emily Gladney, a Starkville, Miss., native. The couple has two daughters, Sutton and Olivia.

Scot Loeffler brings 15 years of coaching experience on the collegiate and NFL levels to his first year as offensive coordinator at Virginia Tech. Loeffler, who served as offensive coordinator and quarterbacks coach at Auburn in 2012 and in the same role at Temple in 2011, has tutored six college quarterbacks who went on to play in the NFL: Tom Brady, Tim Tebow, Brian Griese, Chad Henne, Drew Henson and John Navarre.

At Auburn, his pro-style offense produced a 1,000-yard rusher in Tre Mason, who started six games after mid-season. Under Loeffler, Mason became the first non-QB to lead Auburn in total offense for a season since Bo Jackson in 1985.

At Temple, Loeffler guided the 9-4 Owls' offense that was seventh nationally in rushing averaging 256.5 yards per game and 39th nationally in scoring (30.6 ppg). Running back Bernard Pierce was sixth nationally in rushing, averaging 123.4 yards a game.

Loeffler spent the 2009 and 2010 seasons at Florida as the quarterbacks coach. He led a Florida quarterback unit that led the nation in pass efficiency (167.3) in 2009, after they passed for 3,305 yards for 28 touchdowns with just five interceptions. In his first season at Florida, the Gators ranked second in the SEC in passing offense with an average of 236.1 yards per game. Loeffler guided Tim Tebow in his final season at Florida, during which he passed for 2,895 yards and 21 touchdowns, finishing his senior year with a passing efficiency of 164.17. Tebow left Florida with five NCAA, 14 SEC and 28 UF records.

Loeffler spent the 2008 season with the NFL's Detroit Lions, where he guided a quarterback unit that threw for 2,960 yards.

For six seasons (2002-07), Loeffler coached the quarterbacks at Michigan, his alma mater, including second-round NFL draft pick Chad Henne, who became the first true freshman quarterback to lead his team to a Big Ten title and start in a BCS bowl game. Henne set school marks in career passing yards (9,715), touchdowns (87), completions (828) and attempts (1,387). Loeffler also helped develop John Navarre into Michigan's first All-Big Ten first-team quarterback since 1997. The quarterbacks he coached at Michigan have gone on to play in 318 regular-season NFL games, including 291 starts and earn four Super Bowl rings as pros.

Loeffler served as Central Michigan's quarterback coach for two seasons in 2000-01.

A quarterbacks for the Wolverines from 1993-96, Loeffler received his bachelor's degree in 1996. As a student and graduate assistant coach at Michigan, he worked with two future NFL quarterbacks in Tom Brady and Brian Griese and was part of the Wolverines' 1997 undefeated national championship season.

Loeffler, a native of Barberton, Ohio, and his wife, Amie, have two children, son Luke and daughter Alexis.

After a successful four-year stint instructing a unit that paved the way for Auburn's offense, including a national championship run in 2010, Jeff Grimes begins his first year as offensive line coach and running game coordinator for the Hokies.

During Auburn's 2010 national championship season, Grimes' coached an offensive line that set school records for total yards of offense (6,989) and points (577) for a second consecutive season. The Tigers led the Southeastern Conference and were fifth nationally in rushing yards per game (284.8) and led the SEC in scoring (41.2 ppg).

The 2010 Tigers set school records for rushing touchdowns (41), passing touchdowns (31), rushing yardage (3,987) and had three offensive linemen earn individual honors. Tackle Lee Ziemba was a consensus All-America selection and earned the Jacobs Trophy as the SEC's best blocker before he was selected by the Carolina Panthers in the NFL Draft. Guard Byron Isom was named second-team All-SEC and center Ryan Pugh earned third-team All-America honors. Following the 2011 season, tackle Brandon Mosley was selected by the New York Giants in the fourth round of the 2012 NFL Draft after earning All-SEC honors his senior season.

In his first season with the Tigers, Grimes helped establish a unit that set numerous school records, including points in a season (433), most total yards of offense in a season (5,613) and most plays in a season (914). Auburn's 266 first downs in 2009 was the second-best total in school history, and its average of 431.8 yards per game ranked fourth. The Tigers also had the seventh-most rushing yards (2,756) in a single season in Auburn history.

In addition, Grimes coached both Ryan Pugh and Lee Ziemba to second-team All-SEC honors during the 2009 season.

Prior to his stint at Auburn, Grimes served as the assistant head coach, running game coordinator and offensive line coach at Colorado for two seasons from 2007-08. Two of his CU linemen from his first season, Tyler Polumbus and Edwin Harrison, were on NFL rosters in 2008.

A 20-year coaching veteran, Grimes went to Colorado from Brigham Young, where he coached the offensive line for three seasons from 2004-06. His 2006 BYU linemen were a large part of the Cougars' Mountain West Conference championship team, which finished 11-2.

Grimes' success continued at Arizona State as four of his 2001 seniors were drafted into the NFL; it marked just the second time that had been done at any school since the NFL adopted the seven-round draft format in 1993.

In one season at Boise State in 2000, Grimes' offensive line helped the Broncos lead the nation in scoring offense and accumulate 175 rushing yards per game.

Grimes began his coaching career in 1993 as a high school coach at Riverside High School in El Paso. After two years there, he moved on to the college ranks, first working as a graduate assistant at Rice (1995) and then at Texas A&M (1996-97).

Grimes earned four letters as an offensive tackle for UTEP between 1987 and 1990, including three years under former BSU and ASU head coach Dirk Koetter when he was UTEP's offensive coordinator and two years under current Kansas City Chiefs' head coach Andy Reid.

He was in training camp with both the Los Angeles Raiders of the NFL and the San Antonio Riders of the World Football League before entering coaching.

Grimes, a native of Garland, Texas, and his wife, Sheri, have four children, daughters Bailey and Jada and sons, Garrison and Greydon.

Former Illinois standout and Super Bowl champion Aaron Moorehead enters his first season on the Virginia Tech coaching staff after spending the previous three seasons as an offensive assistant at Stanford.

At Stanford, he worked with the wide receivers, helping coach a team to three-straight BCS games, including wins in the Orange and Rose Bowls. Under his tutelage, the duo of Doug Baldwin and Ryan Whalen combined for 99 catches for 1,296 yards and 10 touchdowns in 2010, leading to NFL roster spots for both. Additionally, Chris Owusu was picked up by the Tampa Bay Buccaneers in 2012 following his senior season at Stanford and Drew Terrell was second on the team in touchdowns catches last year for the Cardinal.

Prior to his time at Stanford, he spent the 2009 season as a graduate assistant coach at the University of New Mexico, where he worked with the wide receivers.

Following his collegiate career at Illinois, Moorehead spent five seasons (2003-07) in the NFL with the Indianapolis Colts, including an appearance in Super Bowl XLI when the Colts beat the Chicago Bears. In five seasons with the Colts, Moorehead appeared in 36 games, including one start, catching 31 passes for 330 yards and one touchdown.

Moorehead's father, Emery, played 12 seasons (1977-88) in the NFL with the New York Giants, Denver Broncos and Chicago Bears and was part of the Bears Super Bowl-winning team following the 1985 season. The Mooreheads are the only father-son combination to play in, and win a Super Bowl.

A four-year letterwinner at Illinois from 1999-2002, Moorehead caught 85 passes for 1,293 yards and nine touchdowns.

A native of Deerfield, Ill., Moorehead attended Deerfield High School where he participated in football, baseball and track, finishing fourth in the state 110-meter high hurdles as a senior. He is the cousin of Brad Daugherty, the former North Carolina and NBA standout.

TECH DEFENSE

"I'm hoping we are going to continue where we left off in the spring. I have high expectations for our first unit and am excited about them. Obviously, as we go into fall camp, we need our backup defensive tackles, our backup linebackers and our backup secondary to continue making strides to where they can be competitive and make an impact on the field. Just developing some depth and continuing to grow and improve in all aspects is important."

Regarded as one of the top defensive minds in the game, Bud Foster enters his 27th season at Virginia Tech. The 2006 Broyles Award winner has helped mold nationally ranked defenses on a yearly basis during his 18 years as a coordinator.

Foster, who was a finalist three previous times (1999, 2001, 2005) for the award given to the nation's top assistant football coach, has gained a well-deserved reputation as one of the nation's most respected defensive coaches while serving on Frank Beamer's football staff at Tech.

After an off year by Foster's standards in 2010, the Hokies roared back to form in 2011 despite starting nine freshmen or sophomores for most of the season after injuries claimed three starters for the year. His defense finished seventh in the country in scoring defense and 10th in total defense. Last year's squad finished the season strong, placing 14th in pass efficiency defense and 18th in total defense.

In 2008, despite losing seven starters to NFL camps from the 2007 team, his young and inexperienced group finished seventh in the nation in total defense and in the top 20 of five other categories. In 2009, his group rounded into form late and finished 12th in the country in total defense and was led by All-American Cody Grimm. His young group led the nation in 2010 in turnover margin and tied for second in the country in passes intercepted (23) with All-American Jayron Hosley leading the way as the Hokies claimed another ACC title.

The 2007 group was also among the nation's elite, featuring a pair of first-team All-Americans in Brandon Flowers and Xavier Adibi, along with six all-conference selections.

The 2006 unit led the nation in total defense for the second straight year. The unit also led the nation in passing and scoring defense. The 2005 squad led the country in total defense and ranked among the top three teams in three other categories. It produced two first-team All-Americans along with four all-conference players. Tech's 2004 defense ranked in the top five nationally in total defense, pass defense, scoring defense, interceptions and turnovers gained.

After helping Tech to the national championship game in 1999, Foster was recognized as the 2000 Division I-A Defensive Coordinator of the Year by American Football Coach magazine. Tech's 1999 defensive unit led Division I-A in scoring defense and ranked third in two other categories.

Following numerous seasons, Foster has been pursued by big-time programs for their defensive coordinator position, but he has opted to continue his long-standing football association with Beamer. That association dates back to 1979 when Foster was a strong safety and defensive end at Murray State and Beamer was the defensive coordinator. Foster began his coaching career as a graduate assistant at MSU in 1981, Beamer's first season as the head coach.

Since coming to Tech in 1987, Foster has worn several coaching hats. He coached the inside linebackers for one year in 1987, then tutored the outside linebackers for the next five seasons. Foster assumed responsibility for both sets of linebackers prior to the 1993 season and also took over special teams coaching that year. The following year, he coached the inside linebackers and special teams. Foster assumed the position of co-defensive coordinator in 1995 and took over as the sole defensive coordinator in '96. The inside linebackers continue to be his primary responsibility.

A 1981 graduate of Murray State, Foster was an outstanding strong safety and outside linebacker from 1977 to 1980. After two years as a graduate assistant at his alma mater, Foster was elevated to a full-time staff position. The Nokomis, Ill., native coached outside linebackers for three seasons before taking over the inside and outside linebackers in 1986. He also served as MSU's recruiting coordinator and worked with special teams.

Foster and his wife Jacqueline have three children: Amy Porter, Grant and Hillary. Daughter Amy has a 5-year-old daughter, Jaiden Olivia.

Former Virginia Tech All-American and Tech Sports Hall of Fame member Cornell Brown is in his third season on the Hokies' coaching staff, working with the outside linebackers and helping out with the defensive ends.

The Lynchburg, Va., native joined the coaching ranks in 2005 as a coaching assistant working with linebackers for the Cologne Centurions in the NFL-Europe League. Brown became a full time defensive line coach for the Frankfurt Galaxy the following year and helped the team to back-to-back World Bowl appearances, winning the league title in 2006. While coaching the defensive line, he helped develop free-agent tackle Remi Ayodele of the Super Bowl Champion New Orleans Saints.

NFL-Europe's schedule allowed Brown to also work as a graduate assistant coach at Virginia Tech during the Hokies' 2006 and 2007 seasons. He helped develop defensive units that led the nation in total defense and scoring defense in '06 and were ranked third and fourth, respectively, in those categories in 2007. He had a helping hand in developing draft choices Chris Ellis, Carlton Powell and Jason Worilds.

Brown attended Virginia Tech and played defensive end from 1993 through 1996, helping the Hokies to a bowl game each season.

Brown became the first Virginia Tech football player to gain consensus All-America honors as a junior when he was named to five first teams in 1995. Brown was a first-team All America pick by AP, UPI, the Football Writers Association, The Sporting News and Football News. He finished the year with 103 total tackles, including a BIG EAST-leading 14 sacks.

He was selected National Defensive Player of the Year by Football News and was one of five finalists for the Defensive Player of the Year. In 1996, Brown missed three games, but still earned first-team honors from Walter Camp and second-team recognition from AP. He posted eight sacks, five other tackles behind the line, 19 quarterback hurries and 58 total tackles during the '96 season.

Brown had his Tech jersey retired on Nov. 20, 2002, during the West Virginia game. He was also inducted into the Virginia Sports Hall of Fame in April of 2013.

A sixth-round draft pick of the Baltimore Ravens, Brown played seven seasons in the NFL and was a member of the Ravens' Super Bowl XXXV championship team.

Former Virginia Tech defensive standout and NFL product Torrian Gray, who is in his eighth season as the Hokies' defensive secondary coach and first season as the passing game coordinator, has made a big impact on Tech's defense.

In 2011, all four members of his secondary made the All-ACC squad. That secondary helped Tech finish 14th in the country in pass efficiency defense and tied for 18th nationally in passes intercepted. Corner Kyle Fuller led the team with 14.5 tackles for loss and the secondary combined for 10 of Tech's 16 picks. Last year, the secondary helped pace a defense that finished 14th in pass efficiency defense once again and 24th in passing defense.

In 2010, the defense – led by first-team All-American Jayron Hosley – finished tied for second in the country in passes intercepted. Hosley led the nation with nine picks and combined with Rashad Carmichael for 13 total interceptions, the most in the nation for a cornerback combo. Carmichael went on to be drafted by the Houston Texans in 2011 and Hosley was taken by the New York Giants in the third round of the 2012 Draft.

His 2009 group finished 11th in the country in pass defense and eighth in pass efficiency defense and was led by eventual NFL draft pick Kam Chancellor. In 2008, led by All-American Victor Harris, Gray's secondary was ranked among the nation's leaders in pass defense (129.1 ypg) and interceptions (20).

In 2007, Gray oversaw a pass efficiency defense ranked fifth in the country, led by three All-ACC performers in Harris, Brandon Flowers and D.J. Parker. Flowers thrived under Gray, earning All-America honors for the second time, including first-team honors en route to becoming a second-round pick in the NFL Draft. In 2006,

Gray led a secondary that ranked as the nation's No. 1 pass defense and the No. 2 team in pass efficiency defense.

Prior to coming to Blacksburg, Gray spent the previous two seasons as assistant defensive backs coach with the NFL's Chicago Bears. During the 2005 season, the Bears ranked fifth in the NFL in passing defense and finished tied for second in interceptions (24) as defensive backs Nathan Vasher and Mike Brown were both elected to the Pro Bowl.

Gray began his coaching career at the University of Maine, serving as defensive backs coach for two seasons (2000-01). Gray spent the 2002 and 2003 seasons as defensive backs coach at the University of Connecticut.

During his playing career at Virginia Tech (1992-96), Gray helped the Hokies to four consecutive bowls for the first time in school history. He played on 97 percent of the Hokies' defensive plays over his last three seasons, starting at rover in 1994 and '95, and handling the starting free safety duties in 1996.

Gray was named All-BIG EAST all three seasons and helped Tech to conference championships his last two years. He shared the team lead in interceptions in both 1993 and 1994 and was named the Hokies' Outstanding Defensive Back in 1996. Gray earned a bachelor's degree in consumer studies from Tech.

He was drafted in the second round of the 1997 NFL Draft (49th overall) by the Minnesota Vikings. He started five games as a rookie, including two playoff contests. He contributed as a starter in the nickel package and as a special teams player before retiring in the spring of 2000 due to a knee injury. The Vikings advanced to the playoffs in each of his three seasons.

Charley Wiles, a former All-America player for Frank Beamer at Murray State, has produced five All-Americans of his own since joining Beamer's Virginia Tech staff as defensive line coach in 1996. This year, he adds the title of running game coordinator for a defense that has been stout against the rush the past few seasons, finishing in the top 30 nationally the past two seasons.

Among the top players Wiles has helped develop during his 18 seasons directing the Tech line are ends Corey Moore and Cornell Brown.

Last season, he started four underclassmen for the most part along the line, and that group played a big part in finishing 19th in the country in sacks per game and tied for ninth in tackles for loss per game.

In 1999, Moore won the Mike Fox/Bronko Nagurski Award as the nation's best defensive player and the Lombardi Award as the best lineman. He also became Tech's second unanimous All-American and was chosen the BIG EAST Defensive Player of the Year two consecutive years. Brown was a two-time All-America pick, taking consensus honors as a junior in 1995 when he was named the National Defensive Player of the Year by Football News and the BIG EAST Defensive Player of the Year.

In 2005, Wiles helped mold end Darryl Tapp into a first-team All-America selection, a first-team All-ACC selection, and a Hendricks and Lott Awards finalist. Tapp now plays on Sundays for the Washington Redskins.

Wiles also coached John Engelberger, who was named to the second team on The Associated Press All-America team, and tackle David Pugh, who was a third-team All-America pick by The Sporting News. In 2008, end Chris Ellis and tackle Carlton Powell were both taken in the NFL Draft. In 2009, Jason Worilds flourished under his guidance and was drafted in the second round by the Pittsburgh Steelers. Two other players also signed NFL free agent deals.

In all, 20 of Wiles' players have won all-conference honors, including Tapp, who was a first-team All-ACC pick during each of the Hokies' first two seasons in the league. In 2008, ends Orion Martin and Worilds both earned second-team honors and were among the league leaders in sacks and tackles for loss.

During the 1999 season, Wiles coached a veteran line which he helped mold into what The Sporting News rated as the best Division I-A defensive line in the college ranks prior to the season. That line helped the Hokies finish first in the nation in scoring defense and third in rushing defense and total defense. Tech's 2001 defensive line was rated as the fourth-best in Division I-A by The Sporting News.

Wiles is on his second tour of duty at Tech. He originally joined Beamer's Tech staff as a graduate assistant in 1987 and worked in that capacity for two years. Wiles first had a player-coach relationship with Beamer, when Beamer was the head man at Murray State. Wiles won Kodak Division I-AA All-America honors as an offensive lineman in 1986.

When he left Tech after the 1988 season, Wiles spent a year on the staff at East Tennessee State. He then returned to Murray State for a six-year coaching tenure, winding up as the Racers' co-defensive coordinator. In 1995, he helped coach the Racers to an 11-0 regular-season mark and a berth in the NCAA Division I-AA playoffs. Wiles also served as MSU's recruiting coordinator, helping land many of the Racers' top players.

When Wiles rejoined Beamer at Tech in 1996, he fulfilled a goal he had set during his first stint in Blacksburg. The Hokies have competed in bowl games during each season since he rejoined the staff.

A native of DeLand, Fla., and a three-sport star at DeLand High School, Wiles is married to the former Andrea Wilder of Booneville, Ind. They have a daughter, Kendell, and a son, Eric.

ASSOCIATE ATHLETICS DIRECTOR FOR FOOTBALL OPERATIONS

The Virginia Tech athletics department could choose no better person to head up all football operations than associate athletics director for football operations Dr. John Ballein, whose rich history with the university makes him the perfect person for the job. Ballein, who received his doctorate of education from Virginia Tech in 2006 and worked on Coach Frank Beamer's first Virginia Tech staff in 1987 as a graduate assistant coach, handles all administrative and operational duties dealing with the football program and is considered Coach Beamer's right-hand man.

Ballein served as departmental recruiting coordinator prior to being promoted to assistant director of athletics for football operations in 1996 and, in 2000, received another promotion to his current position for his excellent work throughout the years with Tech football.

A native of Bentleyville, Pa., Ballein's accomplishments as a multifaceted athlete at Bentworth High School in football, baseball and wrestling, led to his 2013 induction into the Pennsylvania Sports Hall of Fame (Washington-Greene Chapter). Ballein excelled at football where he starred on the defensive side of the ball, setting several Bearcats records, including single-game tackles, single-season tackles and most points earned on defense for tackles, assists and interceptions. Ballein was named Bentworth's Outstanding Defensive Player, and was a Tri-County all-star and the winner of the Paul Silver All-Around Athlete of the Year award in 1979.

Ballein went on to play linebacker at Indiana University of Pennsylvania, where he graduated with a degree in health and physical education in 1983. He later earned his master's in education from Old Dominion University in 1987. In 1983-84, Ballein served as a teacher and a football coach at Woodrow Wilson High School in Portsmouth, Va., and then at Western Branch High in Chesapeake, Va., in 1985-86.

What makes Ballein so important is the rapport he has with all the players. His office, adjacent to Coach Beamer's, is a preferred hangout for the players, and he is one of the most beloved and respected members of the staff.

"At Virginia Tech, Coach Beamer talks a lot about family," former Hokie standout and San Diego Chargers wide receiver Eddie Royal said. "One of the main reasons that the program truly feels like family is John Ballein. I don't know how he does it, but he doesn't miss a thing. If you've messed up, he's the first person there to help you get back on track. If you've done something special, he's the first person there to shake your hand and tell you great job. Now that I'm away from the program, he's the person who checks in to make sure I'm doing okay. The reason he's so popular with all the players is because you can tell he's genuine. He really cares about us, and that makes it easy to really care about him."

Ballein is married to the former Stephanie Green, a Hokie basketball player in her undergraduate days. They have two daughters, Jordan Gray, 17, and Jalyn Ann, 15.

FOOTBALL SUPPORT STAFF

BRUCE GARNES DEPUTY DIRECTOR OF FOOTBALL OPERATIONS

Bruce Garnes, a 1994 graduate of Virginia Tech, is in his 15th year assisting with operations for the Hokies' football office and his second as deputy director.

For 14 years, he has served as the liaison between the academic community and football and has helped the Hokies with their recruiting efforts. Garnes also assists

Dr. John Ballein, the associate athletics director for football operations, with Tech's coaching clinics.

A native of Martinsville, Va., Garnes graduated from Tech with a bachelor's degree in sport management. He received a master's at Tech in counseling education in 1996.

A 1989 graduate of Magna Vista High School in Ridgeway, Va., Garnes, 42, is engaged and enjoys golf, jogging and watching all Virginia Tech athletic teams compete.

LESTER KARLIN DIRECTOR OF EQUIPMENT SERVICES

Lester Karlin, a veteran of 35 years as the Hokies' equipment manager, is one of the most popular people on the Virginia Tech athletic staff.

Karlin is a certified equipment manager and a member of the Athletic Equipment Managers Association. In addition to ordering equipment for the football team, he is responsible for the day-to-day operations of the equipment room.

A native of Norfolk, Va., Karlin graduated from Tech in 1974 with a bachelor's degree in health and physical education. From 1971 to 1973, he served as the student assistant in the football equipment room.

Karlin worked for two years in the World Football League, serving as the equipment manager for teams in Houston, Texas, and Shreveport, La. He returned to Blacksburg and his alma mater in 1978.

Karlin, his wife Suzie, and their daughter Sarah live in Blacksburg. Their daughter Rachel and her husband Christopher Potter, live in nearby Christiansburg with their son Caleb, who was born in June, 2010.

Karlin is a life member of the Blacksburg Volunteer Rescue Squad and a member of the Blacksburg Volunteer Fire Department. He spends his spare time either working in his yard, or at the rescue squad or fire department.

GIVING COACHES AND PLAYERS AN EDGE IN PREPARATION

To ensure athletes have all the information they need to be ready on game day, the video office equips Hokie football players and coaches with everything required to scout opponents and to improve personal performance.

Virginia Tech's XOS Technology, a system also utilized by NFL teams, gives the coaching staff a wealth of information at its disposal in a matter of seconds. During the week, the department gathers video of Tech practices and games in addition to opponent footage and labels every play in terms of down, distance, formation, protection and end result. This information is matched with video and then entered into a computer database accessible to coaches and players at any time.

"Players at this level have to realize that there is a lot more involved than just playing the game," Tech defensive coordinator Bud Foster said. "(The XOS Technology) has been a great tool. Besides the quality, it's right there at your fingertips."

To fully utilize the upgraded technology, Tech upgraded every meeting room with high-definition laptops and projectors to provide the best quality video for the players and the coaches. Each meeting room is connected to the computer database, giving coaches and players 24-hour, easy access to information. All of the coaches' offices are also equipped with computers, so that each member of the staff can instantaneously pull up footage of any scenario. In addition to the video provided in the meeting rooms, the players and coaches also have access to video of practice, teaching tapes and opponent games via iPads, which allows them to study video anytime and anywhere.

"The greatest teaching tool is the ability to show someone what they're doing, right or wrong," head coach Frank Beamer said. "With our video equipment, we can do that quickly. The ease with which we can do these things and the way we can put certain plays and scenarios together makes us more efficient in preparing for games on Saturday."

KEVIN HICKS DIRECTOR OF BROADCASTING AND VISUAL MEDIA

Responsibilities: Hicks serves as the director of broadcasting and visual media, responsible for organizing video to aid the coaching staff in preparation for upcoming games, producing highlight videos of each sport, running the video board at Lane Stadium and overseeing a staff that includes five full-time staff members, as well as undergraduate student assistants and graduate assistants.

Joined VT Staff: May 1998; 16th year.

Record at Virginia Tech: Hicks spent four years as a student intern while pursuing an undergraduate degree from Tech. He was hired as assistant video coordinator and promoted to head video coordinator within a year.

Prior to Virginia Tech: Hicks is a 1994 graduate of Tabb High School in Yorktown, Va.

Education: Virginia Tech, 1998 (communication studies).

Family: Hicks and his wife, Kristen, reside in Blacksburg with their daughter, Cassidy, and son, Kollin.

WALK-ONS AT VIRGINIA TECH

From walk-on to NFL draftee. Sound improbable? Not at Virginia Tech, where it's happened numerous times.

Take John Engelberger for example. The San Francisco 49ers selected Engelberger as the 35th overall pick in the 2000 NFL Draft.

Engelberger, who arrived in Blacksburg as a walk-on in 1995, was following in the footsteps of tight end John Burke, who graduated from Tech's walk-on program as a fourth-round draft pick of the New England Patriots in 1994.

Seven years ago, Will Montgomery was taken by the Carolina Panthers in the seventh round and ended up starting four games at offensive guard as a rookie and almost every game for the Washington Redskins each of the past three seasons.

And in April of 2010, Cody Grimm completed his fairy tale story by being selected in the seventh round by Tampa Bay. He arrived at Tech as an undersized walk-on who played special teams for three years, earning a scholarship along the way for his hard work. But he had a breakout senior season, one in which he earned All-America honors and caught the eyes of NFL scouts in the end. He has started several games at safety for the Bucs in his first three seasons, returning an interception for a touchdown.

Walk-on players are an important part of Virginia Tech football. With scholarship reductions, not all high school football players earn scholarships to compete in college. But that doesn't mean there isn't an opportunity for those individuals, especially at Virginia Tech, where walk-on athletes have a history of contributing.

The walk-ons at Virginia Tech are treated in the same first-class manner as the rest of the squad. Former walk-ons have eventually earned scholarships, earned starting positions, gained all-conference and All-America honors and some eventually played pro football.

"The important thing for a walk-on is to know he's going to be given a chance," Tech head coach Frank Beamer said. "The way you track that is to look at programs around the country to see how many scholarships are given to walk-ons.

"We're one of the top two or three programs in the country in that category. So for a guy who's interested in walking on, there's not a better place than right here at Virginia Tech. We give people a chance and we treat them the same as everybody else."

Engelberger was a recruited walk-on, meaning he was invited to try out for the team. He arrived in Blacksburg in 1995 as a 6-foot-4, 210-pound tight end and got into the weight room, transforming his body into that of a big-time college football player. After his redshirt year, he earned a scholarship for his tireless work ethic. Thanks to endless hours of work on the practice field and in the weight room, Engelberger finished his career as one of the best defensive ends in Tech history. His dedication to the game paid off as he played nine years in the NFL as a starting defensive end for the San Francisco 49ers and Denver Broncos.

Burke walked on in 1989 and eventually earned a starting position for the Hokies. He was a four-year letterman at Virginia Tech (1990-93) where he caught 21 passes for 303 yards and two touchdowns. Burke was drafted by the New England Patriots in 1994 and was a member of the Patriots' 1997 Super Bowl XXXI team. He also saw action with the New York Jets, San Diego Chargers and the Oakland Raiders.

Burke, Engelberger, Grimm and Montgomery aren't the only Hokies to excel in the walk-on program. Tech had five walk-on players start or see playing time in the 1996 Orange Bowl against Nebraska. All five of those former walk-ons earned scholarships and paid big dividends for Tech in the 1996 season.

None of these players would have lived their dream and reached their potential if Virginia Tech hadn't extended the opportunity they were seeking. Their eventual success has become a cherished part of the Hokie football tradition and heritage.

"Our walk-on program is so successful for two reasons," said Dr. John Ballein, the associate athletics director for football operations, who directs the program. "First, our coaches work at it. When they're out on the road, they're looking for players who can fit into our program. Secondly, we have a head coach in Coach Beamer who is loyal to each player in this program."

Tech's walk-on program has provided countless young men a chance to play collegiate football and prove that the evaluation and recruiting process is far from flawless. It allows a young man to mature physically, improve his football skills and contribute to the success of Virginia Tech football.

"No one really knows the difference between a walk-on and a scholarship player because each person is treated exactly the same," Ballein said. "Players know they have an opportunity to earn a scholarship and that they'll be in the best weight program in the country. Combine all those factors and you have the reason why Tech's walk-on program has been successful."

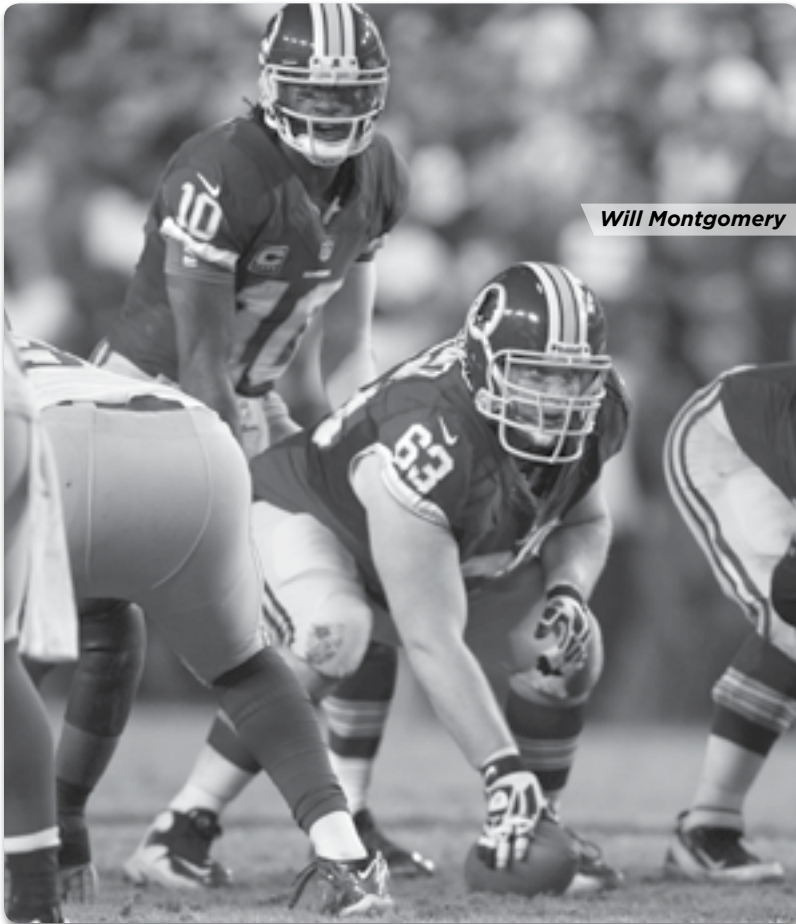

There are two types of walk-ons at Virginia Tech: the invited walk-on and the true walk-on. The invited walk-ons are players recruited by coaches to come into the Tech program. The true walk-ons are students already enrolled at Tech who try to earn a spot in the program. Tech has two workouts (one in the spring and one in the fall) for these players. From there, some are invited back to try and earn a spot on the team.

Hokie walk-ons not only get the chance to play in one of the best programs in the nation, they get a chance to play for one of the best coaches in college football as well.

"I think our walk-on program is successful because we work at it," Beamer said. "We work at recruiting guys who will have a chance to be a player in our program. We evaluate them very carefully. We only have so many spots for walk-ons now and so it is very important that we get kids who have a chance to earn a scholarship.

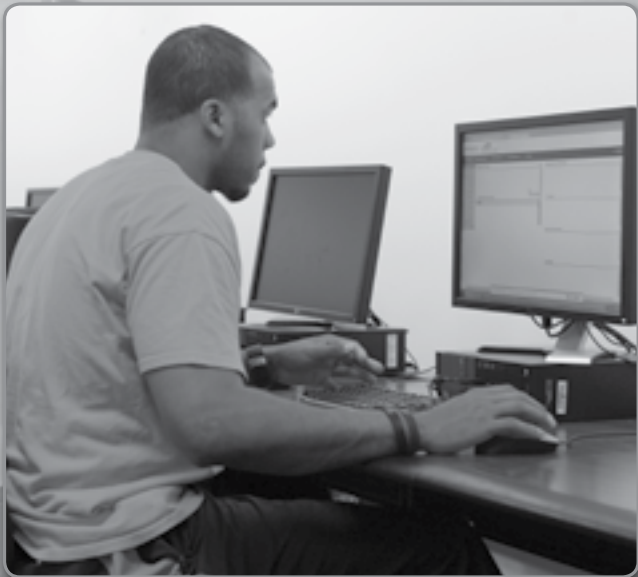

"I've always liked walk-ons because a lot of them have something to prove and they work harder and they go right by some scholarship guys as far as playing time."

The success of the Tech walk-on program continues to grow right along with the success of the football program. This year the Hokies will welcome another class of walk-ons who are anxious to prove they could be the next great walk-on story at Virginia Tech.

STUDENT-ATHLETE ACADEMIC SUPPORT SERVICES

PROVIDING THE TOOLS NEEDED FOR SUCCESS IN THE CLASSROOM

Student-Athlete Academic Support Services (SAASS) is committed to providing a comprehensive academic and personal development program with counseling and advising for student-athletes, offering academic counseling to ensure students receive a complete system of support consistent with university and NCAA policies.

Student-athletes have access to the department's spacious facilities, located in the West Side of Lane Stadium. Opened during the 2006-07 academic year, the SAASS suite, located in the Quillen Family Academic Center, features 18 private tutor rooms, a state-of-the-art classroom, a 36-station computer lab with printer access, a conference room, three quiet areas for reading and studying and a reference library. The office is available between classes, after practice and in the evenings. Hours of operation are flexible and may be tailored to maximize the student-athlete's limited time. The collection of SAASS programs housed in Lane Stadium guarantees that all student-athletes achieve success during their time at Virginia Tech.

JERMAINE HOLMES

DIRECTOR OF STUDENT-ATHLETE ACADEMIC SUPPORT SERVICES

Responsibilities: As director, Holmes provides leadership for SAASS and, along with his staff, oversees the development and execution of programs aimed to help Hokie student-athletes balance their academic and athletic demands and achieve success in both areas.

Joined VT Staff: January 2009; fifth year.

Education: B.S. Virginia Tech, 1996 (business); M.S. Virginia Tech, 1998 (resource management).

Of Note: A former Hokie himself, Holmes was a member of the Tech football squad from 1991-1996.

Before Virginia Tech: Holmes served as director of student life at Virginia Tech before taking an athletic academic counselor position at Cal State Fullerton. He then returned to Tech in 2009 after serving as assistant director of Student-Athlete Support Services at The Ohio State University. He started with the Buckeyes in 2004 as an athletic academic counselor and was promoted to assistant director of a support unit that served nearly 1,000 student-athletes. Holmes managed that department's day-to-day activities, office operations, facilities and staff, in addition to overseeing the academic support programs for all student-athletes and serving as the academic counselor for Ohio State's football and track programs.

Family: Holmes and his wife LaTanya reside in Blacksburg with their son Aiden and daughter Ava.

ATHLETICS OFFICE OF STUDENT LIFE

ASSISTING IN THE DEVELOPMENT OF THE TOTAL PERSON

At Virginia Tech, student-athletes don't just play sports. With help from the Athletics Office of Student Life, Hokie student-athletes work outside the athletic venue to develop into responsible adults who are assets to their communities.

Led by the Virginia Tech Student-Athlete Advisory Committee, Hokie student-athletes volunteered countless hours in the local community last year. In addition, almost 400 Virginia Tech student-athletes and support group members earned a 3.00 grade-point average during one or both semesters, while achieving great success within athletics as well.

Inspired by the NCAA Student-Athlete Affairs commitment areas, the Athletics Office of Student Life creates programs designed to enhance student-athletes in five areas: athletic excellence, academic excellence, personal and leadership development, community outreach and career development. In 2006, the program was recognized as a Division I-A "Program of Excellence" for establishing student welfare as the cornerstone of its operating principles.

STUDENT-ATHLETE ADVISORY COMMITTEE

The Student-Athlete Advisory Committee (SAAC) is a committee made up of student-athletes assembled to provide insight on the student-athlete experience. It also offers input on the rules, regulations and policies that affect student-athletes' lives on NCAA member institution campuses. Two members of each sports team serve on SAAC each academic year.

PERSONAL DEVELOPMENT

The Office of Student Life aims to help student-athletes lead balanced lifestyles, encouraging emotional well-being, personal growth and decision-making skills. Each team is required to attend two personal development programs during the year to educate student-athletes.

CAREER DEVELOPMENT

Virginia Tech student-athletes go through their collegiate athletic experiences with the understanding that they will need to secure a job upon graduation. The Office of Student Life works to enhance student-athlete career development by collaborating with the Virginia Tech Career Services Office. Student-athletes also receive assistance in learning about majors and minors, preparing for career fairs, and obtaining postgraduate scholarships and internships.

ACADEMIC EXCELLENCE

The Office of Student Life is also responsible for nominating student-athletes for academic honors and awards. Athletes are nominated for on-campus, Atlantic Coast Conference and national awards. Student-athletes with a 3.0 GPA are rewarded and honored on the Athletic Director's Honor Roll. In 2012-13, 395 student-athletes and support group members were named to this prestigious list, just a few short from the 401 who were honored during 2011-12.

COMMUNITY OUTREACH

Virginia Tech student-athletes are now involved more than ever in the local community. In conjunction with the mission of the Office of Student Life and the Ut Prosim motto, student-athletes are encouraged to volunteer throughout their college experience. Each team partners with a local community organization and volunteers time at community-wide events. Along with large volunteer efforts, student-athletes engage in community support with visits to local hospitals and elementary and middle schools. Community organizations can also request Tech student-athletes to attend local outreach events. Involvement in this program helps maintain and improve the positive relationship between student-athletes and the surrounding community.

In 2012-13, the Virginia Tech football team once again partnered with The United Way of Montgomery, Radford and Floyd to raise funds for local programs and services.

Student-athletes D.J. Coles, Duan Perez-Means, Antone Exum and Bruce Taylor helped pack Thanksgiving baskets at Blacksburg High School which were then delivered to families in Montgomery County in time for Thanksgiving. Coach Beamer and senior football student-athletes also traveled to the Salem Veterans Administration Medical Center to visit local heroes and show their appreciation for military service.

Fans were encouraged to donate new and used books at the Sept. 8 home game and proceeds from sales went to Herma's Readers, a non-profit organization formed as a tribute to Coach Beamer's late mother that promotes the power of reading and literacy to youngsters during their formative years, grades K-3. Helmets worn during the game were auctioned off and proceeds from sales, including those donated at the game, made it possible for over 10,000 books to be donated to elementary school children across Virginia.

ATHLETIC PERFORMANCE

ONE OF THE NATION'S TOP PROGRAMS HELPS STUDENT-ATHLETES GET BIGGER, FASTER AND STRONGER

Before the lights ever come on, before the players run out of the tunnel for the first game and before the first touchdown is ever scored, college football players work on getting themselves physically and mentally prepared for the rigors of a five-month season. Crucial to this process is the athletic performance program, which includes strength and conditioning, sports nutrition and sport psychology.

Thanks to the direction of Associate Athletics Director for Athletic Performance Mike Gentry, the Virginia Tech athletic performance program is among the best in the nation, helping to make the football program one of the best as well.

One of the main support centers of Tech football is the strength and conditioning program. The results of hard work by the staff and the student-athletes have paid huge dividends as the Hokies have pushed their streak to 20 consecutive bowl game appearances.

The Tech football strength program centers around four major lifts. The bench press and squat are lifts for building all-around strength; the push jerk and power clean help players develop explosive power. Gentry's program also includes conditioning and speed development, which the players do in the speed and agility room, Rector Field House (Tech's indoor practice facility) and on the Hokies' track facilities.

Each player has personal goals which he works to achieve. The team is broken down into four groups based on positions relevant to the players' body size. The players work to progress from Maroon, Orange, Hokie, Iron Hokie and Super Iron Hokie status to the Excalibur Award.

The Excalibur Award was created in 2000 in order to recognize the elite performers in a comprehensive battery of physical performance tests. These tests include: the previously mentioned weightlifting exercises, as well as 10- and 40-yard sprints, vertical jump, stand and reach flexibility test and the five-ten-five yard shuffle. All players are evaluated in this system during each evaluation period and ranked from superior to poor in each event. Players achieving a mean score of superior across all events earn the Excalibur Award. Among current players, only James Gayle has achieved this recognition.

Assisting Gentry in the weight room this year are four full-time assistant strength and conditioning coaches. Former football players Jarrett Ferguson and Keith Short serve as the director and coordinator, respectively, of strength and conditioning for football. Former Hokie players John Graves and Mark Muncey are the graduate assistants for football's strength and conditioning program.

DR. MIKE GENTRY

ASSOCIATE ATHLETICS DIRECTOR FOR ATHLETIC PERFORMANCE

Responsibilities: As associate athletics director for athletic performance, Gentry's duties include overseeing the strength and conditioning training of athletes in all 21 varsity sports at Virginia Tech, and he is directly involved in training the football team. Gentry also supervises the sports nutrition and sport psychology programs.

Joined VT Staff: 1987; 27th season.

Record at Virginia Tech: Gentry was inducted into the USA Strength and Conditioning Coaches Hall of Fame in 2010. He was named the second-annual Samson Strength & Conditioning Coach of the Year in the March 2005 issue of American Football Monthly.

In May 2003, Gentry was honored by the Collegiate Strength and Conditioning Coaches when he was named a Master Strength and Conditioning Coach. Gentry was one of only 36 coaches in the country to have received the CSCC's highest award when he was honored. In 1995 and 1996, Gentry was recognized by the National Strength and Conditioning Association as a finalist for the National Strength and Conditioning Professional of the Year.

Prior to Virginia Tech: Gentry worked as an assistant strength coach at UNC and as the head strength and conditioning coach at East Carolina University prior to coming to Virginia Tech in February 1987.

Education: Western Carolina, 1979 (physical education); UNC Chapel Hill, 1981 (master's degree); Virginia Tech, 1999 (doctorate; curriculum and instruction with emphasis in motor behavior).

Family: Gentry has a son, Roy Christopher (Bo), a former member of the Hokie football team from 2008-2011. Gentry is married to the former Wendy Ann Williams.

The football strength staff for 2013: (l-r) John Graves, Mark Muncey, Mike Gentry, Jarrett Ferguson, and Keith Short.

THE FOOTBALL PROGRAM BOASTS TOP-OF-THE-LINE FACILITIES AND TRAINING PROGRAMS

- The team trains in the 17,000-square foot training center on the first level of the Merryman Athletic Center. The weight room facility features free-weight equipment, a full line of Hammer Strength equipment, 12 platforms and a 6,000-square foot state-of-the-art speed and agility room.
- Tech also uses a 10-by-40-yard sand pit located outdoors and adjacent to the weight room for resistive running drills to improve speed. The Hokies also have the practice fields for use in running drills.
- Players can also train in a brand-new, state-of-the-art weight room located on the second floor of Cassell Coliseum. The new weight room, opened in June of this year, is a two-level, 7,800-square foot facility that cost $1 million to build. It features 10 weight stations, a new sound system, televisions, a plyometrics and agility platform, new offices and the latest in weight room flooring. With the two facilities, the Hokies have more than 24,800-square feet of strength and conditioning training space.

ATHLETIC PERFORMANCE

MAJOR IMPROVEMENTS HIGHLIGHT THE SUMMER FOR STRENGTH AND NUTRITION FACILITIES

Keeping Tech among the best in the nation in facilities and student-athlete care, the Athletic Performance department has used this offseason to make some upgrades that will be ready for the start of the 2013 season. The Nutrition Oasis has moved into a bigger space, now occupying the front two-thirds of the old football lounge area. The newly renovated Nutrition Oasis acts as a fueling station for athletes to “bookend” their training with pre-exercise and recovery fuel. By upgrading and quadrupling in size, this space offers a smoothie bar, recovery beverages, fresh fruit, nuts, bagels and Gatorade products, as well as space for nutrition education and food demos.

The strength and conditioning department has also made improvements between seasons. During the offseason, Tech has replaced the floors in the 17,000 square foot training center to match that of the brand new W.A. and Mae Street Olympic Sports Complex that opened a year ago in Cassell Coliseum. The Everlast UltraTile is the latest in weight room flooring and now covers the floor and weight rack areas of both of Tech’s weight rooms. The Hokies now have more than 30,000 square feet of strength and conditioning space through the two performance centers and a 6,000 square foot agility room, which had a new Mondo turf floor installed to revamp the room and change the color and design as well. This is the first time that either area has been resurfaced.

SPORT PSYCHOLOGY

Virginia Tech offers another important service to all of its student-athletes – sport psychology. Dr. Gary Bennett coordinates the sport psychology department, which offers psychological and performance enhancement services for student-athletes. Bennett works to serve the needs of Tech student-athletes. He is also affiliated with the Cook Counseling Center on campus.

The sport psychology department offers an injury group to afford injured athletes the opportunity to meet with a sport psychologist and other injured athletes and talk about the recovery process. On average, Bennett conducts over 50 individual sessions per week and meets weekly with teams as the need arises.

The response to the sport psychology program has been positive. The student-athletes are very receptive to the services offered by the doctors. The sport psychology office reaches out to student-athletes who may not have considered going to the counseling service that is offered to all students at Virginia Tech.

DR. GARY

SPORT PSYCHOLOGIST

Responsibilities: Bennett meets with student-athletes on an individual basis for personal counseling and to discuss the mental aspects of the game. He also works on team building, communication and performance enhancement. Bennett has taught and supervised pre-doctoral level interns.

Joined VT Athletics Staff: 2000 (full time since 2007); 14th year.

Record at Virginia Tech: Bennett began working at Virginia Tech in 1995 at the Cook Counseling Center. Now, as the sport psychologist, he also serves on the committees for nutrition, performance and substance abuse; and the planning committee for the “Summit for Student-Athlete Success” events. He also works with various teams in the area of performance enhancement.

Education: Centre (Ky.) College, 1981, B.A. English, where he played baseball; University of Kentucky, 1988, master’s in rehabilitation counseling; UK, 1995, Ph.D. in counseling psychology.

Of Note: Bennett is licensed as a clinical psychologist and has additional training in sport psychology. He is certified as a sport psychology consultant by the Association of Applied Sport Psychology and is a member of Division 47 (exercise and sport psychology) of the American Psychology Association.

Personal: Bennett lives in Blacksburg and enjoys playing golf and basketball, as well as hiking and skiing, in his spare time.

SPORTS NUTRITION

Eating healthy and making food functional for athletic performance are important aspects of a Virginia Tech student-athlete’s life, and that’s why the athletics department implemented the sports nutrition program in July of 2002. Jennie Schafer is the department’s director of sports nutrition.

The sports nutrition program offers a wide variety of services that aim to enhance the performance of each student-athlete. Services include individual assessments, team talks, body composition analysis using the Bod Pod, grocery store tours, supplement management and education, disordered eating counseling, travel meal arrangements, and football training table menu planning and management. Schafer works closely with coaches, team physicians, athletic trainers, strength coaches and the sport psychologist to address any performance concerns. She directs the nutrition and performance committee that meets monthly to discuss student-athletes of concern.

The sports nutrition staff manages two facilities, the Nutrition Oasis and Fueling Station, that provide athletes fuel in between workouts, classes and meals. Each facility has chocolate milk, lactose-free recovery beverages, Gatorade, fresh fruit, bagels, and nuts along with nutrition handouts and bulletin boards. Gatorade bars and multivitamins are also available in the sports nutrition office.

Responsibilities: Schafer is responsible for all nutrition and performance related concerns for varsity student-athletes including individual counseling, team talks, body composition analysis using the Bod Pod, recovery nutrition plans, grocery store tours, training table menu planning, travel meal arrangements, managing the Nutrition Oasis and Fueling Stations, and supplement education.

Joined VT Staff: 2011; third year.

At Virginia Tech: Schafer worked as the sports nutrition graduate assistant under former director Amy Freel, before being hired as director. She directs the nutrition and performance committee.

Education: Roanoke College, 2005 (B.A., in sociology) while competing in basketball for four years; Virginia Tech, 2009 (B.S., in human nutrition, foods and exercise: dietetics option); Virginia Tech, 2010 (dietetic internship); Virginia Tech, 2013 (master of arts in education).

Of Note: Schafer is in her third year as director. She is a member of the Collegiate and Professional Sports Dietitians Association (CPSDA) and Academy of Nutrition and Dietetics.

Family: A native of Centreville, Va., Schafer currently lives in Christiansburg.

SPORTS MEDICINE

PROVIDING THE HOKIES WITH EXPERIENCED, PROFESSIONAL CARE

The Sports Medicine Department at Virginia Tech is constantly evolving to incorporate new ideas utilizing state-of-the-art resources for the betterment of all Hokie student-athletes. Under the leadership of Associate Athletics Director for Sports Medicine Mike Goforth, the department is constantly improving and developing new strategies to provide the most current and comprehensive care.

The team of certified athletic trainers, orthopaedic surgeons, Board Certified primary care physicians, chiropractors, physical therapists, sport psychologists, nutritionists, massage therapists and orthotists are available on site to manage the health care needs of Tech athletes. The staff continually looks for ways to enhance the services provided for its athletes as evidenced by its participation in local and national projects pertaining to related topics such as concussion management, prevention of antibiotic resistant types of staph infection (MRSA), high ankle sprains and collegiate health care management strategies. Research is considered instrumental to the sports medicine department. The department has participated in several projects with the engineering department and school of education, respectively.

Tech is entering its 10th full year in the 4,300-square-foot Eddie Ferrell Memorial Training Room, which consolidated the training rooms that existed in the Merryman Center and Cassell Coliseum. The facility gives the training staff a centralized area to care for the needs of all Virginia Tech student-athletes. There is top-of-the-line equipment and a unique style of architecture, developed by Glenn Reynolds, AIA and Larry Perry as the consulting engineer.

Reynolds helped Tech spearhead another expansion project that will double the size of the existing training room and unite the entire medical staff, putting both the athletic trainers and doctors under one roof. Construction began in the summer of 2013 to convert the current training room into a functional rehabilitation space for preventative and post injury care, while also adding doctor's offices adjacent to a new treatment area.

Tech has more than 10,000 square feet dedicated to sports medicine, placing it in the top five percent nationally. The training room also has offices for the staff, dozens of training tables, two cold tubs, whirlpools, an underwater treadmill, a Biodex System 3 and various other pieces of rehabilitation equipment and treatment modalities.

In addition, a training room has been constructed in Rector Field House to serve the football team when it practices indoors, and the Gordon Family Mobile Sports Medicine Unit is a portable training room that can be transported to various venues.

Athletes have many options to help prevent or protect them from injuries. The sports medicine staff takes great pride in treating athletes year-round. Special attention is paid to offseason activity. The staff will analyze past injury data from each participant and construct a preventative program that is followed over a nine-week period between the end of the season and the beginning of spring practice. This same procedure is followed during the summer.

A vital part of student-athlete medical services is access to the LewisGale Hospital at Montgomery's SWVA Center for Orthopaedics and various specialty services offered through HCA Southwest Virginia and its affiliated hospitals.

"We are privileged to have access to the finest physicians and services that HCA has at its disposal," Goforth said. "It is comforting knowing that our local hospital has the best care available in this region of the country for our student-athletes."

If physical therapy is needed, student-athletes can be seen in the Ferrell Training Room by physical therapists Chris Rogers, Erin Gibson and Katie Rogers, who play a large role in the overall program developed to return an injured athlete to 100 percent. Team chiropractor, Dr. Greg Tilley, provides Tech athletes with specialized treatment for spine-related conditions and plays a huge role in performance enhancement through various chiropractic techniques.

"As certified athletic trainers, for us to have the resources of folks like Erin Gibson, Chris Rogers, Mario Travis, Katie Rogers, Greg Tilley and Gary Bennett is a tremendous asset," Goforth said. "The knowledge and skills that they bring are invaluable."

MIKE GOFORTH

ASSOCIATE ATHLETICS DIRECTOR FOR SPORTS MEDICINE

Responsibilities: As associate athletics director for sports medicine, Goforth oversees healthcare needs of all student-athletes and organizes all trainers and doctors while supervising all other services Tech offers.

Joined VT Staff: 1998; 15th year.

Prior to Virginia Tech: Goforth came to Tech from the Hamilton Medical Center/Bradley Wellness Center in Dalton, Ga., where he was the director of wellness and sports medicine. He has an extensive background in sports medicine, working at East Tennessee State University, William Fleming High School, Tusculum College, Greene County Sports Medicine/Industrial Cooperative and Pioneer Sports Medicine/Physical Therapy Clinic. He also has numerous opportunities to consult on program development throughout the country.

Education: East Tennessee State University, 1991, physical education; Virginia Tech, 1995, master's in sport management.

Family: Goforth and his wife, Tracy, a teacher at Blacksburg Middle School, have two sons – Ethan, 16, and Luke, 12.

Team orthopaedic surgeons Dr. Marc Siegel and Dr. James Farmer bring a wealth of experience and skill to assist when athletes need orthopaedic consultation for certain types of sports-related injuries. Both surgeons bring a unique skill set and have an excellent bedside manner that ensures that athletes and parents alike are comfortable and confident whenever surgery may be indicated.

Over the past 14 years, Tech has developed the reputation for producing top-level certified athletic trainers. Graduates are now employed in positions across the country at various levels of the profession.

VIRGINIA TECH LEADING THE WAY IN HEAD IMPACT RESEARCH

In 2003, Virginia Tech was the first school to use the HIT System to monitor head impacts experienced by its football players. The HIT System consists of a sensor array that integrates into existing football helmets. This device measures head acceleration for every impact that players experience during each game and practice that they participate in. After each impact is recorded, data is sent to a computer on the sideline for real-time feedback.

While researchers have used the HIT System to better understand the biomechanics of concussion and head impact exposure in football, the athletic training and medical staff have used the system as another tool improve concussion identification in athletes. The 2013 football season will be the 11th year that Virginia Tech has collected head impact data from its players. To date, over 165,000 head impacts have been collected and analyzed. The head acceleration data collected at Virginia Tech using the HIT System has allowed researchers to quantify the head impact exposure that collegiate football players experience. In addition, these data have produced valuable insight to the head accelerations associated with concussion.

Knowing the location, severity, and frequency of head impacts experienced during a season of collegiate football, Virginia Tech researchers developed the STAR, an acronym for the Summation of Tests for the Analysis of Risk, Evaluation System. This system evaluates the ability of football helmets to reduce the probability of concussion, and disseminates the results to the public so that consumers can make informed decisions when purchasing helmets.

The STAR Evaluation System involves a series of 20 drop tests consisting of different impact locations and energies that represents impacts experienced by collegiate football players. Each drop test is weighted based on how often a player experiences that impact scenario throughout a season of play. For each test, risk of concussion is determined based on the head acceleration produced by each helmet.

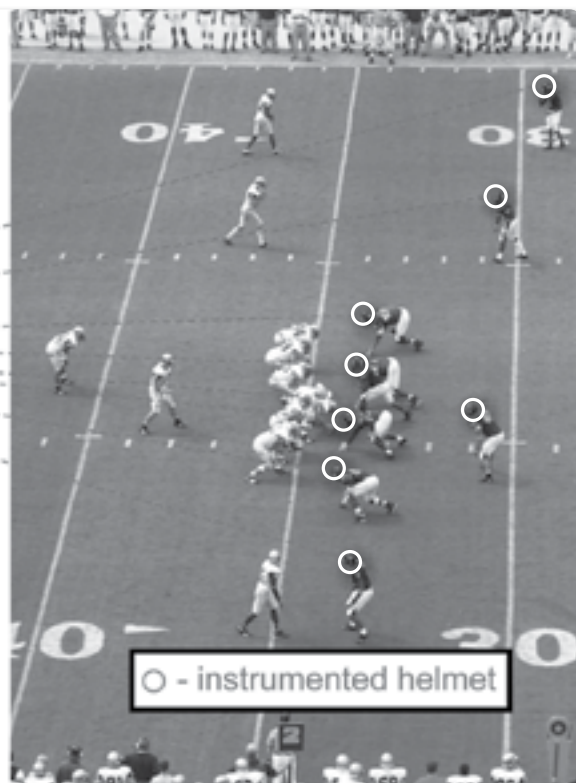

An overall predicted incidence of concussion is calculated for each helmet for the given impact exposure to assess helmet performance. This is the first tool to assess helmet performance and make the results available to the public, allowing consumers to make informed decisions when purchasing a new helmet. Led by Dr. Stefan Duma, this work has resulted in a paradigm shift in the way consumers purchase helmets, as well as how helmets are designed.

Duma's work and data has been featured nationally on ESPN and NBC, as well as in the New York Times and other nationally recognized media outlets.

EXPANSION, IMPROVEMENTS BENEFIT ALL STUDENT-ATHLETES

The Hokies will see big changes in the Ferrell Training Room in the coming year. Following the completion of the new Nutrition Oasis this summer, construction will begin on expanding the existing training room. The project will double the size of the current training area and unite the entire medical staff in one area. The existing training room will become a new functional rehabilitation space with rubber flooring and a brand new rehab track where student-athletes can utilize a new training center as well as hydrotherapy to do even more preventative work and post injury rehabilitation. The expansion will also include the addition of individual offices for each trainer, a conference room and a larger treatment area that will nearly double the number of tables and space for work.

The new space will also bring together the training room and the doctor's offices, which were previously located in neighboring buildings. The plans call for four physician's offices to be added in the training room expansion and have x-ray, ultra sound and EKG capabilities. The new accommodations will integrate all parts of Tech's medical staff, creating a more cohesive unit working to keep all of Tech's student-athletes in top condition throughout the year.

TECH IN THE 2012 NCAA RANKINGS

2012 SEASON IN REVIEW

HOKIES REGISTER AN OVERTIME WIN IN 20TH STRAIGHT BOWL GAME

Virginia Tech entered the 2012 season ranked No. 16 in the nation, then capped off its rollercoaster year with a last-minute win over Rutgers in the Russell Athletic Bowl, continuing its streaks of winning seasons and bowl appearances.

Kicking off the season in an unusual way, the Hokies hosted Georgia Tech on Monday night of Labor Day weekend. The Coastal Division clash was decided on the late heroics of place-kicker Cody Journell, who forced overtime and eventually won the game for the Hokies. Kyle Fuller ended the Yellow Jackets' chances when he intercepted a pass on 3rd and goal, and opened the door for the Hokies to march all the way down to the Georgia Tech 1-yard line and clinch the 20-17 win. Junior linebacker Jack Tyler led the Hokie defense with 17 tackles in the nationally televised game.

Moving up a spot in the rankings and remaining in Lane Stadium, No. 15 Tech kept things rolling just a few days later, taking down Appalachian State 42-7 the following Saturday. The Hokies allowed just 222 yards of total offense and used a 28-0 start to cruise to victory. Logan Thomas threw for 212 yards and 2 TDs, while Michael Holmes rushed for two scores of his own and finished the game with 40 yards.

The Hokies hit the road for the first time in 2012, traveling to soon-to-be conference foe Pittsburgh on Sept. 15. Earning a No. 13 ranking after the lopsided win, Tech suffered its first loss of the season and snapped a 13-game road winning streak. Kyshoen Jarrett earned ACC Specialist of the Week honors after a 94-yard TD punt return in the game, while Thomas finished the game with 265 passing yards and Marcus Davis tallied 129 yards receiving.

Looking to bounce back, the Hokies returned to Blacksburg to host Bowling Green a week later. The Hokies responded in a big way, shutting out the Falcons 37-0. Tech rushed for 265 yards in the game and had three players with 50-plus yards. With a 21-0 lead at the half, the defense, too, did its part in the win, holding Bowling Green to just 266 yards of total offense.

In search of back-to-back wins, Tech shipped up to Landover, Md., to take on the Cincinnati Bearcats at FedEx Field. After multiple lead changes, Tech seemed to have the win in hand, but an 85-yard drive for the Bearcats put them up 27-24 and gave them the lead with just 13 seconds on the clock. Despite the loss, Davis finished the game with 101 yards on five catches and Thomas finished the game with 242 yards passing.

Tech then traveled to North Carolina to face the Tar Heels on Oct. 6. Logan Thomas had a career day in the eventual 48-34 loss, throwing for 354 yards on 26-for-34 passing and a pair of touchdowns. Dimitri Knowles also impressed with a 93-yard kickoff return for a touchdown, while Corey Fuller finished the game with 143 yards on five catches.

The Hokies returned home the following weekend to break up the slump. Displeased with Duke's game-opening 20-0 lead, Tech used a big third quarter from Davis and J.C. Coleman to cruise to victory. Davis finished with 144 yards on five catches, including a pair of 40-plus yard touchdown receptions. Coleman gave the Hokies their first 100-plus yard rushing game of the year as he exploded for 183 yards on 13 carries. He scored twice in the outing, most notably on an 86-yard run in the fourth quarter.

Back on the plus side, Tech looked to take its momentum on the road and keep it going at No. 14 Clemson. The Hokie defense made five sacks and an interception in the outing while the offense out-gained Clemson 406-295 in total offense, but Clemson shut the Hokies out in the third quarter to help it earn the 38-17 win.

Following its bye week, Tech went on the road for a Thursday night game at Miami. Logan Thomas racked up 323 total yards of offense, but some costly miscues in the red zone prevented the Hokies from putting points on the board. The Hurricanes got out to a 14-3 lead in the first quarter, helping them to a 30-12 win. Thomas finished the game with 124 rushing yards and 199 passing yards.

No. 8 Florida State made the trip to Blacksburg on Nov. 8 for a Thursday night game. It was a nail-biter under the lights in Lane Stadium as things came down to the final seconds. Tech had the 22-20 lead with 2:19 left in the game after a Journell field goal. The Hokies left too much time on the clock and Florida State regained the lead and got a stop on Tech's final drive to seal the 28-22 victory.

The Hokies hit a turning point when they traveled to Boston College on Nov. 17. Tech used a strong second half to make up for the 13-3 halftime deficit and forced overtime after Journell put a 41-yarder through the uprights. With the first possession in overtime, the Hokies went up 7 on a Randall Dunn touchdown catch and Alonzo Tweedy made the 30-23 win official with an interception on a BC fourth-down pass attempt.

In the regular season finale, the Hokies became bowl eligible and extended their bowl streak to 20 straight when they defeated rival Virginia, 17-14. The low-scoring game seemed it would end in Tech's favor when Antone Exum intercepted Virginia with less than three minutes remaining. Journell eventually nailed a 29-yard field goal as time expired to decide the game.

Taking on Rutgers in Orlando, Fla., for the Russell Athletic Bowl, the Scarlet Knights got out to a strong start in the low-scoring affair. Rutgers carried a 10-0 lead into the fourth quarter, but Journell eventually got the Hokies on the board late in the game. Minutes later, Exum made an interception to set up a Corey Fuller touchdown that tied the game. As Tech headed to overtime for the third time this season, it was again Journell who helped the Hokies seal the victory, making it 20-straight winning seasons as the Hokies finished the year at 7-6, 4-4 in the ACC.

2012 RUSSELL ATHLETIC BOWL

Virginia Tech kicker Cody Journell drilled a 22-yard field goal in overtime, and Rutgers kicker Nick Borgese misfired from 42-yards out on the Scarlet Knights' possession, enabling the Hokies to rally for a 13-10 overtime victory in the Russell Athletic Bowl on Dec. 28 at the Florida Citrus Bowl.

The Hokies closed the season by winning their final three games and finished the season with a 7-6 overall mark, thus extending their streak of consecutive winning seasons to 20 and avoiding their first losing season since 1992. Tech also snapped a modest two-game bowl losing streak.

Tech entered the fourth quarter down 10-0 and with just 79 yards of offense. But the Hokies' defense got stop after stop in the second half, and both sides of the ball came up with huge plays.

The first came when Logan Thomas completed a 32-yard pass to Dyrell Roberts and followed that with a 25-yard completion to Corey Fuller. Those two plays set up a 25-yard field goal from Journell that cut the Rutgers lead to 10-3 with 12:14 left in the game.

The second – and arguably the biggest – came moments later when cornerback Antone Exum intercepted a pass by Rutgers quarterback Gary Nova and returned it 32 yards to the Rutgers 21. That put the Hokies in perfect field position with 11:11 remaining.

Tech's defense played outstanding in this one, holding the Scarlet Knights without an offensive touchdown – Rutgers' only touchdown came when Khaseem Greene recovered a botched snap by Tech's Caleb Farris in the end zone on Tech's second offensive play. But the Hokies' defense was particularly good in the fourth quarter and overtime, as that unit gave up just one first down in that span.

The Scarlet Knights finished with just 196 yards of offense, including only 67 on the ground. Tech sacked Nova, who completed just 17 of 40 for 129 yards, three times and intercepted him once – though the Hokies dropped at least three interceptions in the game. Tech finished with 12 tackles for a loss.

HOKIE ALL-AMERICANS

VIRGINIA TECH'S UNANIMOUS ALL-AMERICA SELECTIONS

JIM PYNE
Center • 1993

In 1993, Jim Pyne achieved something even Bruce Smith failed to do – earn unanimous All-America honors. Pyne helped pave the way for an offensive unit that set school season marks for total offense and scoring in 1993.

The Hokies averaged 444.1 yards and 36.4 points per game and finished 14th nationally in total offense, 11th in scoring offense and 10th in rushing.

Pyne was named first-team All-America by the AP, UPI, Walter Camp, the Football Writers Association and the Football Coaches Association (Kodak). He was one of the 12 semifinalists for the Lombardi Award, which goes to the nation's top lineman.

In four seasons at Tech, Pyne played more than 2,700 snaps and allowed just one quarterback sack. He started 35 consecutive games and 41 of the 42 games in which he played.

COREY MOORE
Def. End • 1998, 1999 (Unanimous)

Following an outstanding senior season in 1999, Corey Moore was voted first-team on all six major All-America teams to become the Hokies' second unanimous All-American. He was selected first-team by the AP, the Football Writers Association, the Football Coaches Association, Walter Camp, The Sporting News and Football News.

Moore posted a BIG EAST record 17 sacks during the '99 season to go with 11 other TFLs and 60 total tackles.

He also earned All-America honors in 1998 when he led the BIG EAST with 13.5 sacks. He gained first-team All-America recognition from the Football Coaches Association. Moore was a second-team pick by the AP and The Sporting News and a third-team choice of Football News.

JAKE GROVE
Center • 2003

Jake Grove became the third unanimous All-American in Tech football history when he was named to the first team of all five recognized All-America squads: the Football Writers Association of America, the American Football Coaches Association, The Sporting News, the Walter Camp Football Foundation and the AP.

As a senior, he was named first-team All-BIG EAST and was presented the Rimington Trophy in Lincoln, Neb., honoring the nation's top collegiate center.

In 13 regular season games, Grove graded out at 91.8 percent on over 700 offensive plays and led the offensive line in knockdowns with 48.

He went on to be drafted in the second round by the Oakland Raiders in the 2004 NFL Draft as the first center taken.

JIMMY WILLIAMS
Defensive Back • 2005

Jimmy Williams became Tech's fourth unanimous All-American in football history when he was named to the first team of all five recognized All-America squads: the Football Writers Association of America, the American Football Coaches Association, The Sporting News, the Walter Camp Football Foundation and the AP.

As a senior, he was named first-team All-Atlantic Coast Conference and was one of three finalists for the Jim Thorpe award, honoring the nation's top collegiate defensive back.

In 13 games, he recorded 44 tackles, including two for loss and a sack, along with 14 quarterback hurries, five pass break ups and an interception.

He went on to be drafted in the second round by the Atlanta Falcons in the 2006 NFL Draft.

THE HOKIES' OTHER FIRST-TEAM SELECTIONS

CARROLL DALE
E • 1959

After earning second-team Associated Press All-America honors as a junior in 1958, Carroll Dale went on to become the first Virginia Tech football player to earn first-team All-America honors following the 1959 season. Dale was named to the Football Writers Association (LOOK Magazine) and Newspaper Enterprise Association first teams as a senior and was once again a second-team choice by the AP. He led Tech in receiving four straight years and finished the '59 season with 17 receptions for 408 yards and six touchdowns.

BOB SCHWEICKERT
QB • 1964

One of the finest triple-threat quarterbacks in the history of the Southern Conference, Bob Schweickert was named to the LOOK All-America team picked by the Football Writers Association following the 1964 season. Schweickert fought off injuries during the '64 season to rush for 576 yards and nine touchdowns and pass for 833 yards and nine more TDs. He also handled the punting duties with a 37.7-yard average. As a junior in 1963, Schweickert earned third-team All-America honors from The Associated Press.

FRANK LORIA
S • 1966, 1967 (Consensus)

Safety Frank Loria was the first Tech football player to gain first-team All-America honors in back-to-back seasons and became the Hokies' first consensus All-America pick in 1967. As a junior in 1966, Loria helped Tech to the Liberty Bowl, contributing three interceptions and returning three punts for touchdowns. He was named to first-team A-A squads picked by The Associated Press and the Football Writers Association and was a second-team selection by the Helms Athletic Foundation. Loria was named to six major All-America squads following the 1967 season. He finished the year with three interceptions and 420 yards on punt returns, including a 95-yard return for a TD against Miami. His first-team honors came from the AP, United Press International, NEA, the Football Coaches Association, the Football Writers Association and the Walter Camp Foundation.

MIKE WIDGER
LB • 1968

Mike Widger capped an incredible junior season by earning first-team All-America honors from The Associated Press and the Football Writers Association. Widger compiled a record 825 tackling points and was among the national leaders in pass interceptions (7) and return yardage (203 yards). He returned two of his interceptions for touchdowns and scored another TD after pulling the football loose from a Kansas State running back and racing 46 yards to the end zone.

BRUCE SMITH
DT • 1983, 1984 (Consensus)

Bruce Smith was named to first-team All-America squads picked by the Football Coaches Association and the Newspaper Enterprise Association after registering an incredible 22 quarterback sacks as a junior in 1983. Smith, who also was named to The Associated Press second team that year, finished with a total of 55 tackles, 31 of which were behind the line of scrimmage. As a senior in 1984, Smith accumulated 16 sacks and nine other tackles behind the line. He finished the year with 69 total tackles and was a consensus All-America pick, making first teams selected by the AP, the Football Writers of America, Kodak and Walter Camp.

EUGENE CHUNG

OT • 1991

When Eugene Chung was named to the Football Writers Association All-America team following his senior season, he became the first Tech offensive lineman to win first-team All-America honors. Chung started every game at tackle for the Hokies in 1991, allowing just one quarterback sack in 730 plays. The Washington Gridiron Club honored Chung as the National Lineman of the Year.

CORNELL BROWN

DE • 1995 (Consensus), 1996

Cornell Brown became the first Virginia Tech football player to gain consensus All-America honors as a junior when he was named to five first teams in 1995. Brown was a first-team A-A pick by AP, UPI, the Football Writers Association, The Sporting News and Football News. He finished the year with 103 total tackles, including a BIG EAST-leading 14 sacks. He was selected National Defensive Player of the Year by Football News and was one of five finalists for the Defensive Player of the Year. In 1996, Brown missed three games, but still earned first-team honors from Walter Camp and second-team recognition from AP. He posted eight sacks, five other tackles behind the line, 19 quarterback hurries and 58 total tackles during the '96 season.

BILLY CONATY

C • 1996

Considered one of the top offensive linemen in school history, Billy Conaty saw action on 98 percent of Virginia Tech's offensive plays in 1996 and went on to earn first-team All-America honors from The Sporting News. Conaty helped the Hokies to a 10-2 record and a trip to the Orange Bowl that season, grading a winning percentage in 10 of the 12 games and leading the squad with 65 knockdown blocks. He finished his career by setting an all-time school record for starts and consecutive starts with 48.

MICHAEL VICK

In a spectacular freshman season that saw him lead Virginia Tech to its first ever 11-0 regular season and its first appearance in the national championship game, Michael Vick became the first Tech freshman football player to earn first-team All-America honors. Vick was named first-team by The Sporting News. He also was a second-team pick by The Associated Press. The redshirt freshman quarterback was third in the voting for the 1999 Heisman Trophy and second in the voting for the AP Player of the Year. Vick led Division I-A in passing efficiency (180.37), setting an NCAA record for a freshman in the process. He completed 59.2 percent of his passes for 1,840 yards and 12 touchdowns. He also contributed 585 yards and eight TDs rushing.

ANDRÉ DAVIS

PR • 2000

André Davis finished the 2000 season second in the Division I-A ranks in punt returns and earned first-team All-America honors on the American Football Coaches Association team as a return specialist. Davis returned 18 punts for 396 yards for a school-record average of 22 yards per return. He tied another school season mark when he returned three punts for touchdowns. His 87-yard TD return against East Carolina was the second-longest in school history.

KEVIN JONES

RB • 2003 (Consensus)

One of the highest-rated recruits ever to sign with Virginia Tech, Kevin Jones rushed for a school-record 1,647 yards, including 241 yards against Pittsburgh, on 281 attempts with 21 touchdowns as a junior in '03. He went on to earn first-team All-America honors from The Sporting News, The Walter Camp Football Foundation, FWAA and AFCA. He was named to the second team by AP.

DARRYL TAPP

DE • 2005

Considered one of the best defensive ends in school history, Darryl Tapp capped an incredible career, earning first-team All-America honors by AFCA and second-team honors by The Associated Press. During his senior season, Tapp, who started all 13 games, recorded team-bests for sacks, tackles for loss and forced fumbles. He recorded 10 sacks, 14.5 tackles for loss and three forced fumbles. Tapp was also fifth on the team in tackles. He won the Dudley Award, given to the state's top player, and was a Lott Trophy finalist.

XAVIER ADIBI

LB • 2007

Xavier Adibi teamed with fellow linebacker Vince Hall throughout his career to form what was arguably the best linebacking duo in school history. Though he enjoyed a breakout season as a junior, Adibi put up eye-popping numbers as a senior on his way to first-team All-America honors from the American Football Coaches Association. He led the team with 115 tackles, including 12 tackles for loss, while chipping in three sacks and two interceptions – one of which he returned for a touchdown. In addition to being named first-team All-ACC, Adibi was also awarded a spot on The Associated Press All-America third team.

BRANDON FLOWERS

Despite leaving a year early for the NFL, cornerback Brandon Flowers became only the seventh Hokie to be named a two-time All-American when he was placed on the American Football Coaches Association first team after his junior season. He was also named second team by both The Associated Press and the Walter Camp Football Foundation. Flowers was a third-team AP honoree as a sophomore. In 2007, he placed third on the team with 86 tackles from his secondary spot, adding eight tackles for loss in the process. After leading the ACC in 2006 in passes broken up and passes defended, opponents shied away from him as a junior, but he still managed nine breakups, 14 passes defended and a career-high five interceptions.

VICTOR "MACHO" HARRIS

CB • 2008

One of the nation's top cornerbacks, Victor Harris earned first-team All-America honors from Sporting News and was a second-team pick by The Associated Press after a stellar senior season. Harris considered entering the NFL Draft following his junior year, but decided to return, earning his degree along with A-A honors. He tied for 11th nationally in interceptions with six, two of which he returned for touchdowns. A two-time first-team All-ACC selection, he finished fourth in the league in interceptions and passes defended, and third in punt returns. His 15 career interceptions rank third all-time at Tech, while his four career TDs on picks are an all-time record for a Hokie.

JAYRON HOSLEY

CB • 2010

Jayron Hosley tied a 43-year old Virginia Tech season record for interceptions on the way to being selected first-team on the Walter Camp All-America squad. Hosley led the nation in interceptions with nine and tied for third in most passes defended with 17. The sophomore cornerback was also a second-team A-A pick by The Associated Press and earned the National Defensive Back Trophy from the College Football Performance Awards. Hosley was named first team All-ACC after topping the league in both interceptions and passes defended. He also ranked second among ACC players in punt returns.

NATIONAL HONORS

JAKE GROVE WON THE RIMINGTON TROPHY IN 2003

Jake Grove arrived on the Virginia Tech campus as a lightly recruited guard from Forest, Va. He left as a unanimous All-American, winner of the Rimington Trophy as the nation's top center and a second-round draft pick of the Oakland Raiders.

Heading into his junior season, Grove made the switch over to the center position and became a natural fit. By the time he headed into his final season, he was gaining headlines and recognition for his play. He was rewarded by being named to all five major All-America first teams. He was awarded the Dave Rimington Trophy, given to the nation's top collegiate center.

COREY MOORE EARNED THE LOMBARDI AND NAGURSKI AWARDS IN 1999

In three years on campus, Corey Moore amassed 35 sacks for losses, totaling 292 yards. He left Tech as the most decorated player ever to put on the Hokie uniform. He won the 1999 Bronko Nagurski Award as college football's Defensive Player of the Year. Moore also won the 1999 Lombardi Award as college football's lineman of the year. He became Tech's second-ever unanimous All-American, joining Jim Pyne. Moore won the Dudley Award as the top college player in Virginia, the BIG EAST Defensive Player of the Year award and was selected as Football News' Defensive Player of the Year.

MICHAEL VICK WON AN ESPY AS THE NATIONAL PLAYER OF THE YEAR IN 1999

When Michael Vick took to the field against James Madison on Sept. 4, 1999, little did people in attendance or watching on television realize they would be witnessing the beginning of the most exciting two years in Virginia Tech football history.

In 1999, Vick led the Hokies to a perfect 11-0 regular season and a berth in the national championship game, both firsts in school history. The Hokies lost that game to Florida State, but all the talk was about the performance the redshirt freshman put on in that game.

For his accomplishments that year, he was awarded an ESPY by ESPN, given to the nation's top college football player. Vick was awarded the trophy at the ESPY ceremonies on Feb. 14, 2000, in Las Vegas as he mingled with some of sports' all-time greats.

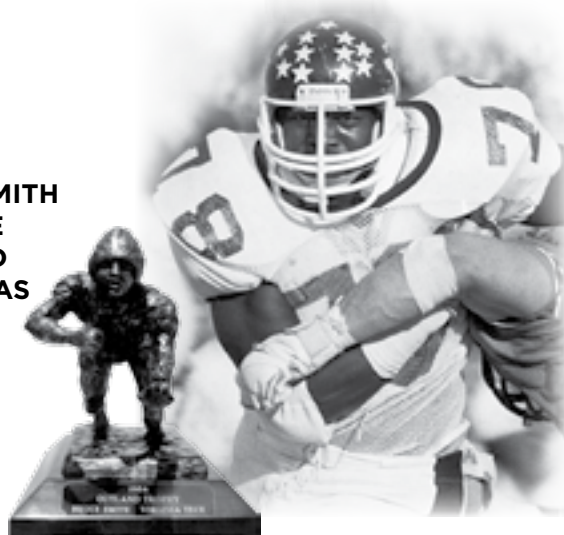

BRUCE SMITH WON THE OUTLAND TROPHY AS THE TOP LINEMAN IN 1984

Bruce Smith, "The Sack Man" of Virginia Tech football, capped his sensational college career in 1984 by winning the Outland Trophy as America's top lineman.

The big announcement was made by Wilt Browning at a press luncheon in Tech's Bowman Room. Browning, a sports columnist of The Greensboro Daily News and a committee member of the Football Writers' Association of America, began by reading a long list of former Outland Trophy winners. He then said, "Add to that list today, the 1984 winner – Bruce Smith of Virginia Tech."

"The one thing though, that stuck in my mind was the statistic on his tackles for losses," Browning said. "In four years at Virginia Tech, he accounted for losses totaling more than five times the length of a football field (504 yards). That's amazing."

Smith was a consensus All-American and was the first Virginian to win one of the national awards (including the Heisman and the Lombardi).

RETIRED NUMBERS & JERSEYS

84 CARROLL DALE

A native of Wise, Va., Carroll Dale entered Virginia Tech in 1956 as an offensive and defensive end. After seeing varsity action as a reserve in the first game of the '56 season, Dale went on to start the remaining 39 games of his college career and became Tech's first bona fide All-American. As a junior in 1958, he was named the Southern Conference Player of the Year. In 1959, Dale was captain of the Tech team and earned first-team A-A honors. Dale led the Hokies in pass receiving each of his four seasons and finished his Tech career with 67 catches for 1,195 yards and 15 touchdowns. He went on to a pro football career that lasted more than a decade and was inducted into the College Football Hall of Fame in 1987. His Tech jersey was the first to be retired.

78 BRUCE SMITH

Known as "The Sack Man" of Virginia Tech football, Bruce Smith capped his sensational college career in 1984. As a Tech player, Smith had a career total of 71 tackles behind the line of scrimmage for losses totaling 504 yards. Smith had 46 career quarterback sacks, including 22 during his junior season in 1983 when he was named first-team All-America. In 1984, the Norfolk, Va., native won the Outland Trophy as America's top lineman and was a consensus All-American. Smith was the No. 1 player picked in the 1985 National Football League draft. During his pro career, he established himself as one of the greatest defensive players ever to play the game. He ended his career in 2003 as the NFL's all-time sack leader with 200.

10 FRANK LORIA

Despite his 5-9, 175-pound frame, Frank Loria was one of the most tenacious football players ever to play for Virginia Tech. Loria, who started every game at safety from 1965-67, rapidly established himself as one of Tech's all-time greats. During his junior year, he earned first-team All-American honors. As a senior in 1967, Loria became Tech's first consensus All-American, making seven first-team All-American squads. He finished his Tech career with seven interceptions and a number of punt return records. He went on to coach at Marshall. In 1970, at age 23, he died in an airplane tragedy that claimed the lives of the Marshall football team and staff. He was inducted into the College Football Hall of Fame in 1999. His number was retired prior to the 1971 season.

73 JIM PYNE

Center Jim Pyne became Virginia Tech's first unanimous All-American when he made all five major teams that were selected in 1993. In addition to All-America honors, Pyne was named winner of the Dudley Award as Virginia's Player of the Year. During his four seasons at Tech, he established himself as one of the Hokies' top linemen of all time, leading the charge for the 1993 team that rewrote the school record books for scoring and total offense. Pyne started 35 consecutive games and 41 of the 42 Tech games in which he played. He allowed just one quarterback sack by the man he was assigned to block during more than 2,700 career snaps. Pyne spent nine seasons as an NFL lineman before becoming an assistant coach in the pro ranks.

BEAMER AMONG FIVE WHO HAVE HAD JERSEYS RETIRED

In 2002, the Virginia Tech Athletics Department developed a new policy on retiring football jerseys. This special honor is bestowed to acknowledge an individual who has won an established national award in their sport, while allowing the number to continue to be worn by others. Tech no longer retires numbers. That year, three jerseys were retired in ceremonies. The jerseys of Frank Beamer, Cornell Brown and Michael Vick were the first to be honored. In 2006, Jake Grove had the same honor bestowed upon him. Corey Moore's jersey has been retired since 2009.

Frank Beamer
Sept. 12, 2002
Winner of eight national coach of the year awards following Tech's 1999 season.

Michael Vick
Sept. 1, 2002
Won 2000 ESPY as College Football's Performer of the Year.

Cornell Brown
Nov. 20, 2002
Named 1995 National Defensive Player of the Year by Football News in 1995.

Jake Grove
Sept. 23, 2006
Winner of the 2003 Rimington Trophy, given to the nation's top collegiate center.

Corey Moore
Oct. 23, 2010
Winner of the 1999 Lombardi and Bronko Nagurski Awards

BEAMERBALL

- During the Frank Beamer era at Tech, putting points on the scoreboard has always been a team effort – the offense, the defense and the special teams. It's called BeamerBall, and what sets it apart are the contributions of the defense and special teams.
- During Beamer's time at Tech, a player at every position on the defensive unit has produced at least one touchdown, and 37 different players have scored touchdowns while playing on Tech's special teams. Altogether, the defense and special teams have combined for 132 TDs since Beamer arrived in 1987, including 115 in Tech's past 245 games.
- Under Beamer, Tech's defense has scored 82 TDs, with 54 coming on pass interceptions, 26 on fumble returns and two on fumble recoveries. The special teams have added 50 TDs, including 17 on blocked punts, 19 on punt returns, nine on kickoff returns, four on blocked field goals and one on a fumble recovery.
- Fittingly, the trend started in Beamer's first game as Tech's head coach when true freshman Jon Jeffries returned a kickoff 92 yards for a touchdown against Clemson. It was the Hokies' first TD under Beamer, and it was the first of many scored by the special teams.
- Under Beamer, 83 different players on defense and special teams have scored TDs. Twenty-three of those players – Don Stokes, Jock Jones, Roger Brown, Lawrence Lewis, Antonio Banks, Jim Baron, Keion Carpenter, Pierson Prioleau, Anthony Midget, Cory Bird, Kevin McCadam, Willie Pile, Jimmy Williams, Roland Minor, Vince Hall, D.J. Parker, Brandon Flowers, Chris Ellis, Vincent Fuller, Eric Green, Rashad Carmichael, David Wilson, Jayron Hosley – scored twice.
- Eddie Royal, Xavier Adibi, Jason Lallis, Ike Charlton and Ricky Hall each had three scores; André Davis had four; Victor Harris had five, and DeAngelo Hall had seven.
- Since the start of the 1993 season, Tech is 75-15 in games it scores at least one TD on defense or special teams. Tech is 79-25 under Beamer when scoring a non-offensive touchdown.

BEAMERBALL II

- Tech's tradition for blocking kicks is another part of BeamerBall. It was carried to new heights in 1998 with 10 blocks during the regular season and two more in the Hokies' Music City Bowl game against Alabama.
- Tech now has 129 blocks in Frank Beamer's 322 games as the head coach. The Hokies have blocked 64 punts (17 returned or recovered for TDs), 38 field goals and 27 extra points.

Demitri Knowles returns a kickoff for a touchdown at North Carolina last year.

- The most prolific kick blockers under Beamer have been defensive lineman Bernard Basham (7 kicks) and safety Keion Carpenter (6 kicks). Basham blocked three field goals and four PATs, while Carpenter blocked six punts.
- Tech blocked more kicks in the 1990s than any other Division I-A team. The Hokies blocked 63 kicks during the decade – 31 punts, 18 PATs and 14 FGs. Tech had 46 blocks in the last decade.
- During the Beamer era, Tech has blocked two kicks in a game 22 times, winning 16 of those games. Tech blocked two kicks against four different teams in 1998.

Kyshoen Jarrett's 94-yard punt return for a touchdown helped him earn ACC Specialist of the Week honors.

TECH DEFENSE

"I believe in an attacking, aggressive style of defense. We want to put speed and athleticism on the field and use that to attack and pressure opposing offenses."

– Bud Foster

DURING BUD FOSTER'S TENURE AS DEFENSIVE COORDINATOR, TECH HAS ...

- had at least one defensive player earn All-America honors in 16 of 18 seasons. Four players gained A-A recognition in 1999 and three in 2001.
- been nationally ranked in the top five of a major defensive category 35 times.
- produced its first Lombardi Award winner and its first Nagurski Trophy winner in Corey Moore.
- had 45 different defensive players score touchdowns.
- held opponents to an average of 108.0 yards rushing and 16.8 points per game in 232 games.
- had 35 players drafted by NFL teams.
- produced two BIG EAST defensive players of the year – Corey Moore, who earned the honor in both 1998 and 1999, and Cornell Brown, who won it in 1995.

UNDER THE DIRECTION OF '06 BROYLES AWARD WINNER BUD FOSTER, THE 2012 HOKIE DEFENSE ...

- finished in the top 30 nationally in six major categories, including 18th in total defense and tied for ninth in tackles for loss per game.
- also finished 14th in pass efficiency defense, 19th in sacks per game, 24th in pass defense and 29th in rushing defense.
- placed two members of the defense on the All-ACC squad.
- had seven different players combine to record the Hokies' 13 interceptions on the season, including three players with multiple interceptions.
- started 10 players who will return in 2013 in the bowl game, but still held Rutgers to just 196 yards of total offense.

TECH'S BOWL HISTORY

NATIONAL CHAMPIONSHIP APPEARANCE HIGHLIGHTS BOWL STREAK FOR THE HOKIES

The Virginia Tech bowl tradition dates back to 1947 when the Hokies appeared in the Sun Bowl, and in the 66 years since, more than one million fans have passed through the turnstiles to witness Tech compete in 26 bowl games in 12 different stadiums and in seven states. The closest distance Tech has traveled for a bowl game was to Atlanta, Ga., which is 413 miles from Lane Stadium, while in 2003, the Hokies traveled to San Francisco for their farthest game, 2,440 miles away.

No matter the mileage, members of the Hokie Nation have always showed up in droves to show their support. Tech's invitation to the Russell Athletic Bowl in Orlando, Fla., extended its bowl appearance streak to 20 consecutive years, the third-longest active streak in the country.

1947 SUN BOWL

The first bowl bid that Tech received followed the 1946 season, when the Hokies played Cincinnati in the Sun Bowl in El Paso, Texas. An early snow covered Blacksburg that year and threatened to end all football practices. Bulldozers and snowplows were used to clear a practice area on the Drillfield and the Hokies got in their bowl preparations. The Tech team encountered more snowy weather when it reached El Paso. The Cincinnati team handled the weather and the Hokies, winning 18-6.

1966 LIBERTY BOWL

It was not until 1966 that Tech received another bowl bid. The Hokies were chosen to participate in the Liberty Bowl in Memphis, Tenn., against Miami (Fla.). The Hokies were 8-1-1 entering the contest and were led by All-American defensive back Frank Loria.

Miami, ranked ninth nationally, won 14-7 in a hard-hitting defensive struggle. The Hokies scored first on a 2-yard plunge by Tommy Francisco. But the Miami defense held Tech to only one first down in the last three quarters.

1968 LIBERTY BOWL

Tech returned to the Liberty Bowl two years later in 1968 and squared off against Mississippi. The Hokies were 7-3 after a rocky 2-3 start and were led by another defensive All-

Chris Kinzer's 40-yard field goal as time expired in the 1986 Peach Bowl gave Virginia Tech its first bowl victory.

American, linebacker Mike Widger. Ole Miss had a quarterback by the name of Archie Manning and he sparked the Rebels to a 34-17 victory after Tech had taken a 17-0 first-quarter lead.

A member of Tech's 1966 and '68 bowl teams was none other than current head coach Frank Beamer, who was a starting defensive back. He was credited with three tackles in the 1968 game.

1980 PEACH BOWL

Tech next went bowling against Miami following the 1980 season and lost 20-10 in a hard-fought Peach Bowl contest. That Hokie team sported an 8-3 record and featured one of the finest defensive units in college football.

Tech tailback Cyrus Lawrence emerged as one of the biggest stars of the game. He rushed for 134 yards and scored the lone Hokie touchdown. Ashley Lee, then a freshman linebacker, had 15 tackles for the Techmen.

INDEPENDENCE BOWL

In Tech's first trip to the Independence Bowl in 1984, Outland Trophy winner Bruce Smith led Tech against the Air Force Falcons. Tech's powerful defensive unit held Air Force to only three first downs in the first half, but the Falcons got rolling in the second half. Quarterback Bart Weiss, named the game's Most Valuable Player, was the ringleader as Air Force won the battle, 23-7.

1986 PEACH BOWL

Who will ever forget "The Kick"? It ended perhaps the most stirring bowl game of the 1986 season as Virginia Tech's Chris Kinzer booted a 40-yard field goal to vault the Hokies past North Carolina State in the New Peach Bowl. The 25-24 victory came with no time showing on the clock and provided Tech with one of its top moments in football history.

1993

INDEPENDENCE BOWL

Almost as dynamic was Tech's 45-20 win over Indiana of the Big Ten Conference in the 1993 Independence Bowl game.

The last minute of the first half of the Independence Bowl will be most remembered for its unbelievable action-packed ending. Virginia Tech was leading Indiana, 14-13, with only 35 seconds left until halftime. Indiana had the ball on the Tech 49-yard line, when DeWayne Knight exploded through the IU offensive line to cause a fumble. That is when Lawrence Lewis got "the world's greatest bounce," returning the loose ball 20 yards for a touchdown to give Tech a 21-13 lead over the Hoosiers.

The Hokies, however, were not finished with their dramatics. Tech's Jeff Holland blocked a Hoosiers' field goal try with no time left in the first half and Antonio Banks settled under the ball and raced 80 yards for a score to give the Hokies a 28-13 halftime lead.

1994 GATOR BOWL

At the end of the 1994 season, the Hokies fell to a tough Tennessee team, 45-23, in a transplanted Gator Bowl contest that was held at Florida Field in Gainesville.

The high-powered Volunteer offense totaled 495 yards in the affair behind another Manning, this time Archie's son Peyton, and highly touted tailback James (Little Man) Stewart. Stewart, Tennessee's all-time leading rusher, ran for three touchdowns and threw for another score en route to earning the game's Most Valuable Player award.

Tech's Dwayne Thomas would not be outdone, dazzling the 62,200 fans in attendance by rushing 19 times for 102 yards and one touchdown. Thomas had a 1-yard burst for a score in the second quarter and rambled 27 yards to set up Maurice DeShazo's 7-yard touchdown run in the third quarter.

1993 Independence Bowl

Bryan Still was named MVP of the 1995 Sugar Bowl after Tech beat Texas 28-10 and the Hokies jumped into the national limelight.

1995 NOKIA SUGAR BOWL

Tech's 28-10 Nokia Sugar Bowl victory over Texas in 1995 stands alone as the Hokies' biggest win in football postseason play.

The 1995 Sugar Bowl was special, indeed. It was, at the time, the most prestigious bowl appearance for the Hokies and they made the most of it. Tech overcame a 10-point deficit to beat Texas and earn one of the most stirring victories in the school's athletic history.

The momentum changed dramatically when game MVP Bryan Still returned a punt 60 yards for a Tech touchdown with 2:34 left in the first half.

Tech gained a lead in the third quarter (14-10) on a 1-yard plunge by Marcus Parker. Then Still hauled in a 54-yard touchdown pass from quarterback Jim Druckenmiller on a play that spelled doom for the Longhorns.

It was Tech's defense that accounted for the team's final touchdown with 5:06 left in the game. All-American Cornell Brown picked up his second sack of the game, causing a fumble, and tackle Jim Baron scooped up the ball and ran 20 yards to score.

1996 FEDEX ORANGE BOWL

In 1996, the Hokies played Nebraska in another Alliance bowl, the FedEx Orange Bowl. That game, too, was a pressure cooker from start to finish. Nebraska won, 41-21, but led by only three points at 24-21 late in the third quarter.

A crowd of 51,212 at Pro Player Stadium saw Tech quarterback Jim Druckenmiller throw three touchdown passes despite a fierce rush by Cornhusker defenders.

1998 GATOR BOWL

The Hokies made their second trip to the Gator Bowl following the 1997 season to face North Carolina.

The Tar Heels impressed a crowd of 54,116 at Alltel Stadium by holding Tech to a total of 185 yards, its lowest total of the season, and beating the Hokies, 42-3. Tech's only points came on a 40-yard field goal by Shayne Graham late in the third quarter.

1998 MUSIC CITY BOWL

Tech bounced back strong in 1998 by capping a 9-3 season with an eye-opening 38-7 victory over Alabama in the inaugural Music City Bowl in Nashville. A sellout crowd braved freezing rain and a wind chill that dipped below 15 degrees to watch Tech post its first ever win against the Crimson Tide.

Tech clung to a 10-7 lead at halftime before pulling away in the second half behind the defensive and special teams play of bowl MVP Corey Moore. The junior defensive end forced an interception that set up a Tech touchdown midway through the third quarter. Minutes later, he blocked an Alabama punt to pave the way for another Hokie TD. Tech went on to secure the win with two more touchdowns in the fourth quarter.

2000 NOKIA SUGAR BOWL

In the 1999 season, after a perfect 11-0 regular season campaign, the Hokies returned to the Nokia Sugar Bowl – this time to play for the national championship.

Tech once again put on a great show after a furious comeback led by quarterback Michael Vick. The Hokies led heavily favored Florida State heading into the fourth quarter before falling to the top-ranked Seminoles, 46-29.

2001 GATOR BOWL

For the second time in school history, the Hokies appeared in the same bowl back-to-back when they made the trip to the Gator Bowl in both 2001 and 2002.

Nearly 20,000 Hokie faithful watched Vick play his last game in a Tech uniform in the 2001 game in Jacksonville, Fla., against Clemson. Tailback Lee Suggs ran for three scores and the defense limited the Tigers to 88 yards rushing as the Hokies earned the fifth bowl win in school history. Tech capped its 10-1 season with 41-20 victory over Clemson.

2002 GATOR BOWL

Despite André Davis' 158 receiving yards in his final game as a Hokie, Tech was unable to hold off Florida State and lost the 2002 Gator Bowl, 30-17. The senior class that joined Davis in its last game at the Gator Bowl went down as the winningest class in school history, at the time, with a 39-9 record.

2002 DIAMOND WALNUT SAN FRANCISCO BOWL

The Hokies took their show to the West Coast following the 2002 season and captured a win in the Diamond Walnut San Francisco Bowl. Tech's 20-13 victory over Air Force gave the Hokies a 10-4 final record and marked the third time in four years that Tech had posted 10 or more victories. Tech quarterback Bryan Randall was named the game's most valuable offensive player. He completed 18 of 23 passes for 177 yards and did not have any turnovers.

2003 INSIGHT BOWL

Following the 2003 season, the Hokies made the trip out to Arizona, where they were downed by the California Bears 52-49 in the 2003 Insight Bowl, which was held in front of 42,364 fans at Bank One Ballpark in Phoenix. Cal kicker Tyler Frederickson made a 35-yard field goal on the final play of the game that lifted the Bears past the Hokies. The Hokies, who were playing in their 11th consecutive bowl game, finished the season 8-5 overall.

The loss overshadowed a brilliant game by Tech's offense. Randall had four touchdown passes and a rushing TD, while Keith Willis became the first Tech player ever to catch two touchdown passes in a bowl game. Ernest Wilford broke Antonio Freeman's career mark for receptions, and Kevin Jones, who played in his final game as a Hokie before heading to the NFL, led the Hokie rushing attack with 16 carries for 153 yards and a touchdown.

2005 NOKIA SUGAR BOWL

In the 2004 season, Tech capped its improbable run to the Atlantic Coast Conference title by beating Miami, which led to a berth in the Nokia Sugar Bowl for the third time. Like in 1995 and 1999, Tech fans came out in droves to support their Hokies as the game was a sellout and resulted in an economic impact of $209.92 million for the city and state.

Randall had a pair of touchdown passes, but the third-ranked Auburn Tigers held on for a 16-13 win over the Hokies in a hard-fought battle in New Orleans. Randall's final toss, an 80-yarder to freshman Josh Morgan, broke the Tech career touchdown passing mark. The loss couldn't take away from a dream season which saw the Hokies win the ACC title in their first year in the league while posting a 10-3 mark and a final national ranking of No. 10.

2006 TOYOTA GATOR BOWL

Although the Hokies got off to a slow start in the Toyota Gator Bowl after the 2005 campaign, they twice rallied from an 11-point deficit to beat Louisville, 35-24, on Jan. 2, 2006, to break a two-game bowl losing streak.

The high-powered Cardinals' offense scored on both of its first two possessions to take a 14-3 lead, but Tech cut that margin to 17-10 at the half. Louisville built the lead back to 11 at 24-13 before the Hokies scored 22 fourth-quarter points – capped by an interception return for a touchdown by linebacker James Anderson – to rally for the win. Cedric Humes was named the game's MVP, and the defense gave up 343 yards of total offense to finish the season ranked No. 1 in the nation in total defense.

2006 CHICK-FIL-A BOWL

The Chick-fil-A Bowl matchup with Georgia on Dec. 30, 2006 was a tale of two halves, with the Bulldogs emerging by a score of 31-24 to halt the Hokies' six-game winning streak. At the intermission, it looked as if Tech might waltz to an easy victory after holding Georgia to 47 yards of offense while building a 21-3 lead.

The Hokies collapsed in the second half, however, as their opponent racked up 28 unanswered points and Tech turned the ball over on four straight possessions. Despite the loss, the Hokies ended the season with at least 10 wins for the ninth time in their history, and finished as the nation's top-ranked defense for the second-straight year.

2008 FEDEX ORANGE BOWL

After winning the ACC championship, the Hokies were awarded a bid to the 2008 FedEx Orange Bowl, their 15th consecutive bowl game. Tech trimmed a 17-point first-half deficit to three points in the second half, but couldn't quite get over the hump, falling to the Kansas Jayhawks 24-21.

With the loss, Tech's season ended at 11-3 overall, and the Hokies saw their five-game winning streak snapped.

It certainly was not the best of evenings for the Hokies. Tech turned the ball over three times and those three turnovers led to 17 Kansas points. The Hokies also had a field goal blocked, allowed a first down on a fake punt that ultimately led to a score, and gave up five sacks.

Even with the loss, Tech's 20 seniors finished as the winningest class in school history, recording a 42-11 overall record.

2009 FEDEX ORANGE BOWL

The Hokies earned a return trip to the FedEx Orange Bowl after beating Boston College for the second straight season in the ACC Championship Game. This time Tech approached its bowl preparation in a different manner and it paid off with a convincing 20-7 victory over No. 12 Cincinnati.

After giving up a touchdown on UC's first drive, Tech manhandled the BIG EAST champion Bearcats for the final 57 minutes of the game. The Hokies controlled the football for nearly 40 minutes, piling up 258 yards on the ground.

Redshirt freshman tailback Darren Evans spearheaded the rushing attack, carrying the football 28 times for 153 yards on the way to MVP honors in the game. Evans and quarterback Tyrod Taylor ran for touchdowns, while kicker Dustin Keys contributed a pair of field goals.

The defense stalled the high-powered Cincinnati offense and intercepted a Tech bowl-record four passes. One of those interceptions, a pick by end Orion Martin at the UC 10-yard line early in the fourth quarter, was the play of the game for the Hokies.

The win capped a 10-4 season for the Hokies and vaulted them to No. 15 in the final AP poll.

2009 CHICK-FIL-A BOWL

Tech played a near-flawless second half on the way to an impressive 37-14 victory over the University of Tennessee in the Chick-fil-A Bowl. The win capped a late-season run that saw the Hokies win their final five games to finish 10-3 and earn the No. 10 spot in the final AP poll.

Record-setting tailback Ryan Williams helped Tech bolt to a 14-0 lead early in the game with a pair of short touchdown runs. The Volunteers managed to tie the game in the second quarter, but with just 18 seconds remaining in the half, the Hokies stole the Vols' momentum. With the ball at its own 33-yard line, Tech gambled, and quarterback Tyrod Taylor connected with end Jarrett Boykin on a 63-yard pass that set up a Matt Waldron field goal as time expired.

Taylor's play set the tone for what would be a dominating second half for the Hokies. Williams carried the football on seven straight plays on Tech's opening possession of the second half. On the eighth play, Taylor scored from a yard out to give Tech a 24-14 lead.

The Hokies' offense scored on four of five second-half possessions, with Waldron booting two more field goals and true freshman David Wilson adding a final touchdown. Waldron's three field goals were a Tech record for a bowl game.

Defensively, the Hokies were relentless, posting six QB sacks, intercepting a pass, causing and recovering a fumble and holding UT to just 240 total yards. Tennessee managed only 5 yards rushing on 31 attempts and converted just four third downs into first downs. The Tech defense finished the season without allowing a point in the second half of the final five games.

Discover Orange Bowl played in front of 65,453 fans at Sun Life Stadium. The loss snapped an 11-game winning streak, leaving Tech with an 11-3 overall record.

Stanford quarterback Andrew Luck led the Cardinal attack, which posted 534 yards of total offense. Luck completed 18-of-23 for 287 yards and four touchdowns.

Tech's lone touchdown came early in the second quarter. Trailing 7-2 at the time, the Hokies went 75 yards in 10 plays in a drive that ended with a miraculous play by Tyrod Taylor. The senior from Hampton, Va., scrambled to his left, avoided a Stanford defender, made a pirouette, and fired an 11-yard touchdown pass to tailback David Wilson, who managed to get a foot down before falling out of bounds. Taylor completed 16 of 31 passes for 222 yards, with a touchdown and interception.

Tech's other scores came on a safety and a field goal by Chris Hazley right before halftime. The Hokies trailed just 13-12 heading into the second half but a pair of missed opportunities by Tech, coupled with a number of long plays by the No. 5 ranked Cardinal, quickly put Stanford in charge.

2012 ALLSTATE SUGAR BOWL

Michigan kicker Brendan Gibbons booted a game-winning 37-yard field goal in overtime, as the Wolverines knocked off Virginia Tech 23-20 in a wild Sugar Bowl game played at the Superdome.

The game certainly wasn't without its share of controversy, but the biggest call of the night went against the Hokies.

Tech lost the coin flip in overtime, and Michigan decided to play defense first. On third-and-5 from the Michigan 20, Tech quarterback Logan Thomas appeared to have thrown a touchdown pass to receiver Danny Coale in the corner of the end zone. Officials originally ruled the play a touchdown, but reviewed it, and then reversed the call, saying Coale didn't maintain control of the ball.

The reversal forced Tech to attempt a field goal, and Justin Myer, subbing for starting kicker Cody Journell, pushed a 37-yard attempt wide right. That meant Michigan only needed a field goal to win.

2012 Russell Athletic Bowl

The Wolverines (11-2) ran the ball three straight times to set up Gibbons' attempt. He nailed it, giving Michigan the victory.

For the Hokies, it marked a bitter end to a game in which they dominated statistically. They finished 377 yards of offense and held the Wolverines to just 184. Tech's defense kept elusive Michigan quarterback Denard Robinson under wraps. Robinson rushed for just 13 yards and completed only 9 of 21 attempts, though he did throw two touchdown passes compared to one interception.

Still, the Hokies showed resiliency, coming back to tie the game twice. Trailing 17-6, Tech got a field goal from Myer with 4:48 left in the third and a 1-yard touchdown from Thomas with 10:22 left in the game. Thomas' pass to Marcus Davis gave the Hokies the needed two points to tie the game at 17.

2012 RUSSELL ATHLETIC BOWL

Virginia Tech kicker Cody Journell drilled a 22-yard field goal in overtime, and Rutgers kicker Nick Borgese misfired from 42-yards out on the Scarlet Knights' possession, enabling the Hokies to rally for a 13-10 overtime victory in the Russell Athletic Bowl played at the Florida Citrus Bowl.

Plagued by an inconsistent, struggling offense, Tech entered the fourth quarter down 10-0 and with just 79 yards of offense. But the Hokies' defense got stop after stop in the second half, and both sides of the ball came up with huge plays.

The first came when Logan Thomas completed a 32-yard pass to Dyrell Roberts and followed that with a 25-yard completion to Corey Fuller. Those two plays set up a 25-yard field goal from Journell that cut the Rutgers lead to 10-3 with 12:14 left in the game.

The second – and arguably the biggest – came moments later when cornerback Antone Exum intercepted a pass by Rutgers quarterback Gary Nova and returned it 32 yards to the Rutgers 21. The interception marked the fifth of the season for Exum, who was named the game's MVP.

Tech capitalized on the Exum interception. On third-and-10 from the 21, Thomas threw a perfect pass to Fuller toward the corner of the end zone, and Fuller hauled it in for the touchdown. Journell's extra point tied things at 10 with 10:56 left in the game.

Journell nearly won the game in regulation for the Hokies, but his 51-yard attempt with 2:20 remaining came up just short, and the game ultimately went into overtime.

FOOTBALL LOCKER ROOM

In November of 2010, the Virginia Tech football team moved into its new locker room – a locker room that ranks as one of the best in the nation.

The $18 million building is nearly 42,000 square feet. The locker room, which is on the first floor of the building and was named in honor of longtime coach Frank Beamer thanks to the generosity of several donors, is 14,800 square feet and has lockers that are among the biggest in the nation. The lockers, which are 42 inches wide and made of wood, include a ventilation system to keep football pads and helmets dry, as well as individual safes for players to store valuables. Each locker also has electrical outlets for cell phone chargers and other electrical equipment.

At the entrance to each small hallway of lockers are words that define the Virginia Tech football program. These words include family, loyalty, trust and consistency.

The locker room also includes showers, a cold tub, a hot tub, a steam room and a sauna that is used extensively to help players recover from injuries and everyday aches and pains. The coaches also have their own locker room, which is adjacent to the large room with the hot and cold tubs, and the steam room and sauna.

The locker room has a definite Virginia Tech feel to it. It features a time clock and a lunch pail as soon as a player walks through the main entrance. These two things signify hard work and that one needs to put in the time to reap the rewards.

The second floor of the building is 12,900 square feet and includes a players' lounge and a study room. The lounge area has multiple 65-inch high definition televisions, pool tables and couches for players to sit and re-hydrate after practice. The study area features 12 study stations, with a computer at each station.

Adjacent to the lounge area is a 2,900 square-foot balcony that overlooks the Steve Johnson Practice Fields. Grills on the balcony allow for team cookouts, while also providing an area for recruits to gather on game day.

The building contains a third floor, but that floor was constructed for the wrestling program, which uses it as a wrestling room for practices. The floor also holds the wrestling team's locker room and coaches' offices.

STEVE JOHNSON PRACTICE FIELDS

The Virginia Tech football practice fields, located between Lane Stadium and Cassell Coliseum, were renamed the Steve Johnson Practice Fields in recognition of the accomplishments and philanthropy of alumnus Steve Johnson of Bristol, Va.

A standout tight end for the Hokies in the mid- and late-1980s, Johnson earned a bachelor's of secondary education from Virginia Tech in 1988. Following his college career, Johnson played for the Dallas Cowboys and New England Patriots, and he currently serves as president and owner of Bristol, Va.-based Johnson Commercial Development, one of the largest commercial developers in the southeastern United States. Johnson Commercial Development is currently developing one of the largest commercial projects in the country, the Pinnacle, a 1 million-square-foot upscale retail development under construction in Bristol, Tenn.

Johnson is a generous supporter of the to-be-developed Virginia Tech indoor practice facility, having made a $1 million pledge toward construction. He previously contributed to the university to support construction of the Merryman Athletic Facility, which includes a room for speed and agility training that also bears his name. Johnson is a member of the Ut Prosim Society, a select group of Virginia Tech's most generous supporters.

Fundraising for the indoor practice facility is ongoing, with the project's expected cost dependent upon final site selection.

HOME OF THE HOKIES

LANE STADIUM/WORSHAM FIELD

The Virginia Tech football team has enjoyed over a decade of success, going to 20 straight bowl games and winning 10 or more games eight straight seasons from 2004-11. A big part of that success is the home-field advantage the Hokies enjoy at Lane Stadium/Worsham Field.

Billed as the toughest place in college football for opponents to play by Rivals.com, the Hokies play on not only one of the best playing surfaces in the nation, but with the south end zone and west side additions, the Hokies compete in one of the best stadiums in the nation.

Now entering its 49th season as an arena of collegiate football competition, Lane Stadium/Worsham Field has gone through numerous changes, renovations and additions. But through it all, it has always been regarded as one of the finest places to watch – and toughest places for opponents to play – a college football game.

A TOWERING NEW LOOK

The third in a series of upgrades was completed at Lane Stadium/Worsham Field prior to the 2006 season, finishing off a magnificent project on the west side of the stadium.

Ground was broken in November of 2004 for the project and crews began building around the former press box, laying the above and below ground settings, as well as removing the two light towers on that side of the stadium.

At the conclusion of the 2004 season, the old press box was removed and the structure was filled in to match what was built up during the 2004 season.

A new press area on the west side, toward the south end zone with a dining area and improved overall facilities, is just the tip of the iceberg.

Additional luxury suites, a new President's area, four private club seating areas, new concession stands, a ticket office, athletic fund offices, an athletics memorabilia area and a new student academic services area were also included in this project.

In addition, the fencing that surrounded the stadium was removed and the area on the west side exterior of the newly renovated stadium was landscaped with walkways and a weekday parking lot for ticket patrons as well as memorabilia-area and Hokie Club visitors. This includes a flagpole plaza near the southwest entrance. Dedicated to former football player and current Hokie Club supporter John Moody, it is a terrific meeting place with the U.S. flag flying alongside the commonwealth of Virginia flag and a Tech flag.

In the summer of 2003, $1.9 million was raised to fund the ongoing planning of the west side expansion, allowing for the ground breaking of the west side project.

In 2005, the inside of the stadium was also given a new look as Hokie Stone was added to the walls in each of the end zones, so there's no question as to where the game is being played for fans watching on television.

New kicking nets were installed in both end zones and a larger video board replaced the old one on the existing scoreboard. New lights that doubled the candlepower and reduced shadows on the field were added as part of the renovation.

With continuous additions and improvements, Lane Stadium has kept up its reputation as one of the best places for college football.

THE SOUTH END ZONE

Prior to the 2002 season, Tech added 11,120 seats in the south end zone to enclose that end of the stadium. The double-deck structure is similar to the Cleveland Browns' "Dawg Pound" section and has bleacher, bench-back and club seats. The structure is enclosed, but has gaps between the existing structure and the new one. This is because of new building codes and a desire to get fans closer to the field.

Below the south end zone stands are several features: A football visitor's locker room which can be divided and used for other sports' visiting teams in the winter and spring.

The June Oblinger Shott Media Center, which houses a press room, two press conference areas, three radio rooms, a dark room and several storage rooms.

The outside of the facility also received a new look, making the entrance more inviting. Walkways and landscaping give the south and west sides a more appealing entrance for fans and teams.

Another addition to the facility is the turf and drainage system that was replaced in the summer of 2001 as Tech became the first collegiate football team to have a new state-of-the-art GreenTech ITM natural Bermuda grass sports field system. It provides excellent drainage with irrigation lines and a vacuum system that can handle up to 16 inches of rain an hour. In the winter of 2003-04, a heating system was installed to keep the grass at an optimum temperature during the winter months.

This innovative system is in place in just a handful of other stadiums in the world and makes Worsham Field one of the finest playing surfaces around.

A WINNING TRADITION

On Sept. 22, 1994, Tech won its 100th game in Lane Stadium in memorable fashion before a national television audience on ESPN with a 34-6 win over rival West Virginia.

On Nov. 1, 2003, Tech upset No. 2 Miami 31-7 to pick up its 150th all-time win at Lane Stadium, marking the highest-ranked opponent the Hokies have ever defeated.

Tech's overall record at Lane Stadium is 201 wins, 70 losses and six ties in 48 years of play. The Hokies are 128-33-1 at home during Coach Frank Beamer's tenure at Virginia Tech and more impressively, are 111-19 in Blacksburg during the last 20 seasons.

Since joining the ACC prior to the 2004 season, Tech has accumulated a record of 51-8 at home, including a conference mark of 29-7. The Hokies went 32-9 at Lane Stadium/Worsham field while a member of the BIG EAST.

HOME OF THE HOKIES

LANE STADIUM/WORSHAM FIELD

In 1991, a new scoreboard bearing BIG EAST Conference logos replaced the old scoreboard at the south end of the stadium, while a new auxiliary scoreboard was placed at the north end. In the spring of 1994, renovations were completed on seven lower sections of the east stands. Renovations included replacing concrete risers and the addition of wheelchair seating.

Before the 1994 season, plaques bearing retired jerseys of Tech heroes Bruce Smith, Carroll Dale, the late Frank Loria and Jim Pyne were added to the wall in the north end zone. With the addition of the north end zone seats, the four retired numbers now fly on flag poles above those stands.

In 2002, three more flags – those bearing the names and numbers of Frank Beamer, Michael Vick and Cornell Brown – were added, retiring their jerseys, but not their numbers. In 2006, a banner for center Jake Grove was added to that collection, as well as one for Corey Moore in 2009.

In 2008, banners were placed on both the east and west sides on beams honoring conference player of the year and national award honorees, including Bronko Nagurski Trophy and Lombardi Award winner Corey Moore and Outland Trophy honoree Bruce Smith.

Prior to the 1998 season, the oldest bleachers were replaced with new locust wood and the stands were waterproofed and top coated. On the east side, the roof on the former visitors' locker room was replaced along with the wooden bleachers in the three sections above the dressing room. Also, additional handicapped seating was added.

In addition to the seats in the north end zone constructed before the 1999 season, the interior block walls and concourse tunnels were seal-coated to match the exterior of Cassell Coliseum and the Merryman Center.

Before the 2000 season, a new scoreboard, complete with "Hokievision" was installed behind the north end zone bleachers. That board will be replaced by a massive structure for this season.

The south end zone construction project eliminated the old wooden bleachers in that area. But the north end zone bleachers were expanded down to the field, adding close to 600 new, permanent seats to make the north end zone look similar to the new south end zone. This is where The Marching Virginians – one of Tech's two marching bands – sit. These moves cut the capacity to 53,662.

Prior to the 2000 season, approximately 3,000 permanent bleacher seats were added in the north end zone, and, prior to the 1999 season, 2,100 permanent seats were added in the same end zone. In 2003, permacaps were installed over all the wooden seats to enhance fan comfort.

In the summer of 2013, a distributive antennae system (DAS) was erected behind the east stands as part of a campus-wide upgrade of cellular phone service. It increases cell phone capacity across campus and particularly on game days when nearly 60,000 people — many with smart phones — enter the stadium.

HOKIEVISION GETS A NEW LOOK

Fans coming to Lane Stadium this fall will notice a big difference, literally, in the north end zone as the Virginia Tech Athletics Department will unveil a new videoboard and scoreboard to replace a 13-year-old structure. Complete with a new sound system, this high-definition videoboard will total 61'-by-145' with a videoboard that takes up approximately 5,184 square feet to make it one of the 10-largest videoboards for an on-campus stadium. The project is expected to be completed by August. A new production studio with state-of-the-art equipment will be built in Merryman Athletic Center to run the new videoboard in Lane Stadium, plus the two new ones that will be erected in Cassell Coliseum.

HALL OF FAME MUSEUM

Since the start of the 2008 football season, fans have had the opportunity to visit Virginia Tech's Hall of Fame museum located on the west side of the football stadium. Covering two stories, the museum features all Hokie sports with galleries, display cases and interactive screens. Individual athletes honored include All-Americans, Academic All-Americans and Tech's Hall of Fame members. Fans can review the history of Tech athletics through a photo timeline. The museum is open to the public Monday through Friday between 9 a.m., and 3 p.m. It is closed on weekends and on game days.

PROS PRIDE AND JOY OF VIRGINIA TECH FOOTBALL

Special teams are an integral part of Hokie football and one of the units is called "Pride and Joy." These NFL players and Tech support staff are also a source of pride and joy due to their commitment to Virginia Tech on and off the field. Virginia Tech has a prominent display in the Hall of Legends in the Merryman Athletic Center to honor such former players.

John Engelberger was a dominating defensive end who went from walk-on, to four-year starter at Tech, to second-round NFL Draft pick, earning All-America honors and his college degree along the way.

Waddey Harvey was a standout who started three seasons at defensive tackle and won the coveted Williams Award for leadership and character before joining the Buffalo Bills. Frank and Cheryl Beamer sponsored Harvey for recognition on the Pride and Joy display.

Before starting an NFL career, Jim Pyne, a powerful center in the early 1990s, started 41 games and allowed just one sack in over 2,700 snaps on his way to becoming the Hokies' first unanimous All-American.

Michael Vick was an electrifying quarterback who made a lasting impact on college football while helping Virginia Tech to a national championship game and back-to-back 11-1 seasons before becoming the top NFL Draft pick in 2001.

A two-time All-American, Cornell Brown became the first Virginia Tech football player to gain consensus All-America honors as a junior when he was named to five first teams in 1995. He was selected National Defensive Player of the Year by Football News in 1995.

Lester Karlin is a veteran member of the Virginia Tech staff who made his first contribution to Hokie athletics as a student assistant in the football equipment room from 1971-73 and now as the equipment manager since 1978.

Pierson Prioleau saw action on more than 2,000 plays at rover and on special teams, while starting 36 consecutive games for the Hokies from 1995 through 1998. After helping Tech to two bowl championships, Prioleau began a productive NFL career that included a Super Bowl title with New Orleans in 2010.

Mickey Fitzgerald was a bruising tight end and fullback at Virginia Tech in the late 1970s who earned the nickname "The Incredible Hulk" with his physical style of play. In 1977, Fitzgerald became the first Tech back of the modern era to rush for over 100 yards in each of his first four starts as a running back.

Shayne Graham is a local product out of Dublin, Va., who earned All-BIG EAST honors as a place-kicker. He helped lead the Hokies to the 1999 National Championship game, kicking a game-winner as time expired to beat West Virginia and keep the perfect season alive. He has gone on to become one of the most accurate kickers in NFL history.

Nick Cullen played in 35 games as a wide receiver over a four-year career from 1987-1990 for the Hokies. In his senior season, he flourished, catching 37 passes for 568 yards and three touchdowns, including 13 passes in a single game against Southern Miss, which still stands as a school record for most receptions in a single game.

Steve Johnson is a long-time contributor to the Tech program and has the practice fields named in his honor. The tight end had eight touchdown catches in his Tech career and played two seasons in the NFL with the New England Patriots.

NCAA COMPLIANCE

VIRGINIA TECH ATHLETICS WINNING THE RIGHT WAY

INFORMATION FOR PROSPECTS AND THEIR PARENTS

Compliance with NCAA rules is a never-ending process that requires diligence on the part of the Virginia Tech Department of Athletics and the entire university community. Below is a brief summary of the basic issues that may face a potential student-athlete during his/her recruitment by a Division I college or university.

1. For NCAA rules purposes, you become a "prospective student-athlete" – commonly referred to as a prospect – once you have started classes for the ninth grade (seventh grade for men's basketball).
2. A "representative of an institution's athletics interests" (commonly referred to as a booster) is defined by the NCAA as anyone who:
 - Is now, or previously has been, a member of any organization promoting the institution's intercollegiate athletics program;
 - Has made a financial contribution to the athletics program or an athletics booster organization;
 - Has helped arrange any employment for a student-athlete;
 - Has been involved, in any way, in the promotion of the athletics program.
3. Please be aware that any former Virginia Tech student or former or current member of the Hokie Club is automatically considered a Virginia Tech booster. According to NCAA rules, once an individual is identified as a booster, he/she retains that status forever.
4. A booster may not solicit the enrollment of a prospect with the goal of athletics participation in any manner (no phone calls, letters or in-person encounters). On those occasions when a booster unavoidably comes into contact with a prospect, conversation must be limited to normal civility. The conversation must conclude quickly, and no recruitment may occur.
5. It is not permissible for you (or your family) to receive any benefit, inducement or arrangement such as cash, clothing, cars, improper expenses, transportation, gifts or loans to encourage you to sign a National Letter of Intent or to attend any college.
6. A "contact" is any off-campus, face-to-face encounter between you or your parent(s) or a legal guardian and a member of a college coaching staff during which any dialogue occurs beyond an exchange of greeting. NCAA rules do not permit contacts until July 1 prior to a prospect's senior year. (In men and women's basketball, contact is permitted on a prospect's first day of classes their junior year.)

7. An "evaluation" is any off-campus activity by a member of a college coaching staff designed to assess your academic qualifications or athletic ability, including any visit to your high school (during which no contact occurs) or the observation of any practice or competition in which you participate.

8. The timing for phone calls depends on the sport that is recruiting you. Football coaches may begin on April 15 of the prospect's junior year (one call between April 15 and May 31 is permitted). After May 31, regular calls not to exceed one per week may begin for football on September 1 after the junior year.

If you are a prospect, unlimited calls to you or your family may be made under the following circumstances:

- During the five days immediately before your official (paid) visit to a collegiate institution;
- On the day of a coach's off-campus contact with you;
- During the time beginning with the initial National Letter of Intent signing date in your sport, through the two days after the signing date; and
- In the sport of football only, during the 48 hours prior to and 48 hours after 7 a.m., on the initial signing date for the National Letter of Intent.
- In the sport of football, baseball, men's & women's basketball, cross country/track & field, women's lacrosse, softball and volleyball, during the permissible off-campus contact periods.
- The calendar day after you sign a National Letter of Intent or Virginia Tech's written offer of admission and/or financial aid; or Virginia Tech received a financial deposit in response to your offer of admission.
- In men and women's basketball, coaches may make unlimited phone calls at any time starting June 15 after a prospect's sophomore year.

Coaches also may accept collect calls, and athletics departments are permitted to utilize a toll-free number to receive telephone calls from you (or your family) on or after July 1 following your junior year. You or your family may call a college coach at your expense at any time.

9. In all sports except men and women's basketball, letters to you from coaches are permitted beginning September 1 following your sophomore year in high school. A Division I school may provide you with the following printed materials. These following materials must be sent via regular first-class mail service:

- General correspondence, including letters, U.S. Postal Service postcards and institutional note cards;
- Game programs which may not include posters and one Student-Athlete Handbook;
- NCAA educational information;
- Pre-enrollment information after signing a National Letter of Intent or other written commitment to the university;
- Official academic, admissions and student services publications published or videotapes produced by the institution and available to all students;
- Schedule and business cards;
- Questionnaires which may be provided at any time; and
- Camp brochures, which may be provided at any time (provided it is not at a competition).

10. An "Official Visit" is a visit by a prospect to a college where the college pays for some or all of the prospect's expenses. These expenses may include transportation, lodging, meals and/or entertainment. Official Visits are permissible once a prospect has started classes for their senior year.

The purpose of the Virginia Tech Compliance Office is to help make you aware of relevant NCAA rules and assist you in guarding your eligibility. Ultimately, however, you are responsible for protecting your eligibility. This page is provided as a quick-reference guide to give you a basic understanding of NCAA recruiting rules. We encourage you to visit our webpage at www.athletics.vt.edu/compliance for additional information and links providing comprehensive guidance concerning the full range of NCAA regulations. Also, please feel free to call or e-mail any member of the Hokie Compliance Team if you have any questions.

UNIVERSITY AND MEDIA INFORMATION

VIRGINIA TECH

Dedicated to its motto, Ut Prosim (That I May Serve), Virginia Tech takes a hands-on, engaging approach to education, preparing scholars to be leaders in their fields and communities. As the commonwealth's most comprehensive university and its leading research institution, Virginia Tech offers 215 undergraduate and graduate degree programs to more than 31,000 students and manages a research portfolio of more than $450 million. The university fulfills its land-grant mission of transforming knowledge to practice through technological leadership and by fueling economic growth and job creation locally, regionally, and across Virginia.

LEARNING

Virginia Tech's challenging academic standards and hands-on, minds-on teaching philosophy attract high-achieving students. More degree programs are available through the university's eight colleges (Agriculture and Life Sciences, Architecture and Urban Studies, Engineering, Liberal Arts and Human Sciences, Natural Resources and Environment, Pamplin College of Business, Science, and Virginia-Maryland College of Veterinary Medicine) and Graduate School than at any other university in the commonwealth. Some 93 percent of all departments offer e-learning courses.

DISCOVERY

The university's groundbreaking research transforms lives and communities. Virginia Tech ranks in the top 50 research universities in the United States, and with more than 100 research centers and seven university-wide research institutes, the university also consistently ranks among the top institutions in industry-supported research. Tech's nationally and internationally recognized faculty and motivated students are involved in thousands of research projects in fields ranging from biotechnology to materials, from the environment and energy to food and human health, and from transportation to computing information. The university also boasts an award-winning park that is home to more than 140 companies.

ENGAGEMENT

As part of Virginia Tech's outreach mission and in adherence to its motto, the university serves and engages the citizens of the commonwealth, the nation, and the world. The university is involved in a multitude of economic and community development projects. It manages more than $92 million in funded economic development projects in 44 countries and encourages faculty members to develop global course content and study-abroad opportunities for students. Virginia Cooperative Extension, operated jointly by Virginia Tech and Virginia State University, has been helping people improve their economic, cultural, and social well-being for nearly a century.

INTERESTING FACTS & FIGURES

- The university's annual budget for 2012-13 is more than $1.2 billion.
- Virginia Tech has approximately 230,000 living alumni from every state and more than 100 countries.
- Virginia Tech's fully computerized library contains more than 2.3 million volumes, an array of specialized collections and numerous electronic databases.
- Virginia Tech is one of three public universities in the country that offers the combined advantages of a military-style leadership development program – here it is through the Virginia Tech Corps of Cadets – and a traditional academic and social life.
- U.S. News & World Report ranked Virginia Tech 28th nationally among public universities in its "America's Best Colleges 2013."
- U.S. News & World Report also ranked the College of Engineering's undergraduate program 16th in the nation and its graduate program 24th. The Pamplin College of Business undergrad program ranks 40th in the nation.
- A Wall Street Journal survey of 479 employers in 2010 ranked Virginia Tech 13th in the nation for preparing graduates to succeed on the job.
- Design Intelligence ranked Virginia Tech's undergraduate architecture program second in the nation for 2013. It also ranked the graduate landscape architecture program second in the U.S.
- Dining Services was ranked second in the nation for Best Campus Food in 2011 by the Princeton Review.
- The university's Department of Forest Resources and Environmental Conservation was ranked second in North America in recent study conducted by Auburn University.

The university continues to win various awards for sustainability, promoting commuting, saving energy, and for other environmental efforts.

AT A GLANCE

- Main campus in Blacksburg, Virginia
- Comprised of eight colleges and the Graduate School
- Approximately 65 bachelor's degree programs
- Approximately 150 master's and doctoral degree programs
- Total enrollment on and off campus is about 31,000
- Main campus includes more than 125 buildings, 2,600 acres, and an airport
- Ranks 41st in university research expenditures in the United States
- Adjacent Corporate Research Center
- The Virginia Tech Carilion School of Medicine graduates its first class in spring 2014
- The Virginia Tech Research Center – Arlington opened in 2011

CHARLES STEGER

UNIVERSITY PRESIDENT

With a bold vision built on demanding quality throughout the academic enterprise, Dr. Charles Steger has led initiatives to cement Virginia Tech's position among the nation's premier research institutions. In May he announced his intention to step down from the presidency and will serve until his replacement arrives.

"These years have been the highlight of my career in higher education, and it has been my privilege to serve as president during a period in which we have strengthened our academic programs and expanded our research and outreach programs," Steger said.

Virginia Governor Bob McDonnell on Steger's retirement, "The Commonwealth will forever be indebted to Dr. Steger for his stalwart leadership and strategic vision in transforming the land grant institution into one of the leading research institutions in the nation."

U.S. Senator Mark Warner says, "During his tenure, President Steger directed significant growth in the national stature, program quality, enrollment and endowment of Virginia Tech. He also has molded Tech into a research and development powerhouse that routinely attracts talented graduate and undergraduate students from across the country and around the world."

Steger has spent virtually his entire career at Virginia Tech, leading it from one superlative to another. Since becoming president in 2000, the university has increased its research portfolio by more than 300 percent, grown enrollment from 27,869 to 31,087, increased graduate enrollment by 12 percent, raised more than $1 billion in private funding, added more than 2.5 million square feet of buildings, formed a school of biomedical engineering, created a school of medicine and joined the Atlantic Coast Conference.

Early in his tenure, Steger charted a course to bolster the research enterprise and compete among the nation's elite universities. He oversaw creation of broad-based research institutes capable of garnering large-scale, multi-disciplinary sponsored research grants. He made significant investments in selected life science programs. University sponsored research moved from $192 million in 2000 to more than $450 million today.

Virginia Tech is the only Virginia university to rank in the top 50 out of 679 universities in the nation in sponsored research.

Over the course of his presidency, Virginia Tech has increasingly become a first-choice school in the mid-Atlantic region for highly achieving students. The grade point average of incoming freshmen moved from 3.54 to 3.92 and SAT average changed from 1,173 to 1,212 during his time at the helm.

Steger partnered with Carilion Clinic to create the innovative Virginia Tech Carilion School of Medicine and Research Institute forming the fifth medical school in Virginia. The VTC Research Institute is fully operational in a new 152,000-square-foot building in Roanoke. VTCRI is now the hub for the world-wide interactive functional brain imaging network.

Other highlights of his presidency include the Principles of Community (2005) and the Virginia Tech Climate Action Commitment (2009).

In the minds of many, Steger will best be remembered for making the impossible a reality. He will be forever credited with negotiating Virginia Tech's entrance into the Atlantic Coast Conference in 2004 – a 50-year dream-come-true for Hokie fans. He recently completed a term as chair of the Presidential Oversight Committee of the Bowl Championship Series and continues to represent the Atlantic Coast Conference on the committee.

The Virginia Tech campus has been a construction zone for the better part of Steger's presidency. Under Steger, the university built 40 major buildings, exceeding all growth from 1872 to 1960.

One of the most exciting new initiatives to become reality was the completion of the new 144,000-square-foot Virginia Tech Research Center-Arlington in 2011 to enhance the university's presence in the National Capital Region and ability to compete for major research grants and contracts.

Another initiative on the horizon is the new Center for the Arts that will open in the fall of 2013. This 130,000-square-foot facility will feature a 1,300-seat performance hall, visual art galleries, and innovative creative technology lab spaces. At the intersection of North Main Street and Alumni Mall, its location symbolizes the university's commitment to the arts and its importance to the university and the broader community.

Concurrent with the expanding research agenda, the university has expanded its outreach efforts like never before. Taking the land-grant university mission in a new direction, Steger led an effort to create Southside Virginia's Institute for Advanced Learning and Research in Danville.

With his leadership, the university has reaffirmed its core mission of undergraduate education. The university is dedicated to fostering a research-intensive environment that offers students an opportunity to learn the scientific process while enhancing their critical-thinking skills. Recognizing that graduates will be entering a global economy, Virginia Tech initiated a comprehensive International Strategic Plan and has doubled the number of students participating in international education opportunities.

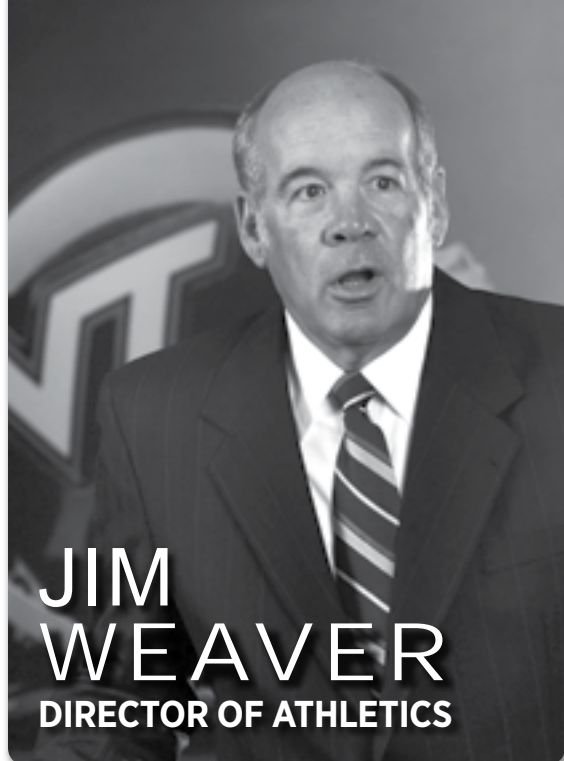

During his presidency, five international centers have been established around the globe, and another is being developed in India. While dean of CAUS, Steger was the driving force behind the establishment of Virginia Tech's Center for European Studies and Architecture in Switzerland, which has hosted hundreds of study abroad students from departments across the university.

Credited with calm leadership during a very difficult period, President Steger led the university through an extended recovery period in the aftermath of the April 2007 tragedy.

In 2009, President Steger received the Chief Executive Leadership Award from the Council for the Advancement and Support of Education (CASE) District III for outstanding leadership and service in support of education. In 2010, Steger was selected as a recipient of the Michael P. Malone International Leadership Award, sponsored by the Association of Public and Land-grant Universities.

Steger is a Fellow in the American Institute of Architects (AIA) and holds the William C. Noland Award and the Distinguished Achievement Award from the Virginia Society AIA. He is a member of the National Council on Competitiveness, the Association of Governing Boards, the Economic Club of Washington, D.C., the National Institute of Building Sciences (NIBS), the Senior Advisory Group of the Northern Virginia Technology Council Board of Directors, and the Board of the Innovative Technology Authority that oversees Virginia's Center for Innovative Technology. He is Chairman of the Virginia Council of Presidents and chair of the Virginia Space Grant Consortium.

Steger received his Bachelor of Architecture degree, Master of Architecture degree, and Ph.D., in Environmental Science and Engineering from Virginia Tech. He returned to Virginia Tech and when he became Dean of the College of Architecture and Urban Studies in 1981 at the age of 33, he was the youngest architecture dean in the nation. After 12 years in that role, he was appointed Vice President for Development and University Relations (1993-2000) before being named President in 2000.

JIM WEAVER

DIRECTOR OF ATHLETICS

James C. Weaver, whose innovative ideas and work as a reformer have made him one of college athletics' most popular administrators, is the director of athletics at Virginia Tech.

Weaver, 68, was appointed on Sept. 24, 1997, and has been a tireless leader on behalf of Tech athletics. His efforts were recognized in 2009 when he accepted the prestigious John L. Toner Award, which is presented annually by the National Football Foundation & College Hall of Fame. The award is given to a director of athletics who has demonstrated superior administrative abilities and shown outstanding dedication to college athletics and particularly college football.

In his 16 years on the job at Tech, Weaver has taken steps to place increased emphasis on projects benefiting student-athletes. Under his leadership, the athletics department entered into a comprehensive agreement with NIKE beginning in 2007-08 that provides uniforms, clothing and equipment for all Virginia Tech varsity teams over an eight-year period. He created a comprehensive awards program for letterwinners and has initiated and funded an annual awards banquet. The Monogram Club was revitalized in 1998 and provides several benefits to former Hokie athletes, trainers and managers.

A top personal priority for Weaver is the continuing improvement of Tech's facilities. Progress is evident in a number of new facilities now in use or currently under construction.

A new football locker room and lounge has been constructed adjacent to Jamerson Athletic Center. The three-story building was completed in 2010 and features a spacious locker room for players and coaches, as well as a lounge on the second floor and a wrestling facility on the third floor. The vacated space in Jamerson has been renovated to provide expanded weight training, sports medicine and locker room facilities for Olympic sport teams.

Also, a new L.E.D. video display screen was constructed in the north end zone of Lane Stadium this past summer, offering a larger screen and expanded advertising opportunities. Weaver negotiated an extension with Tech's multimedia rights contract holder, IMG College, to pay for the new video display and also new video display screens for Cassell Coliseum. The agreement extends the current contract into the year 2027 and provides enhanced revenue for the athletics department.

Plans for a new indoor football practice facility have been approved. This project calls for a regulation-sized artificial turf surface in a field house tall enough to allow for punting and kicking, and it will be conveniently located near the outdoor football practice field. This field house will allow the indoor track to stay up year-round in Rector Field House.

Other facility projects that have taken place during Weaver's tenure include the remodeling of Lane Stadium's west side, which was completed in time for Tech's 2006 home opener. It involved the construction of additional new luxury suites, a new President's area, four private club seating areas, a ticket office, athletic fund offices, a memorabilia area and a new student academic services area.

Also, Tech's basketball staffs and teams moved into their new practice facility in 2009. The $20 million building boasts two practice gyms, a 3,000 square-foot basketball weight room, coaches' offices, film rooms and locker rooms.

Weaver presided over Tech's move into the Atlantic Coast Conference in 2004-05, when Virginia Tech and Miami were officially introduced as the 10th and 11th members of the ACC, effective July 1, 2004.

Weaver came to Tech from Western Michigan University where he was director of athletics from January 1996 until he came to Blacksburg. While at Western Michigan, he announced creation of a $7 million football center, stabilized fluctuating revenues and installed a CHAMPS Life Skills program.

Prior to that, he was AD for three and a half years at UNLV, where he reconstructed a troubled athletic department. He drew rave reviews at UNLV for his fundraising expertise. He generated nearly $15 million in his time there and built a new athletic complex.

Prior to landing the athletic director's job at UNLV, Weaver spent nine years at the University of Florida. He was a strong force at Florida in the field of compliance and concluded his time there as associate athletics director.

Weaver says that various schools' interest in him as a reformer through the years can be traced to Penn State. It was with the Nittany Lions' football team that Weaver first made a name for himself in athletics. He was a center and linebacker on Penn State teams coached by the legendary Rip Engle and Joe Paterno. A native of Harrisburg, Pa., Weaver was recruited to Penn State by Engle.

Weaver graduated from Penn State in 1967 with a bachelor's in psychology and rehabilitation education. He received a master's in college counselor education, also from Penn State, in 1968.

Weaver started a coaching career as an assistant at Penn State for six seasons. During that time, the Lions played in five bowl games – the Cotton, Gator, Sugar and Orange (twice).

He later was the offensive coordinator at Iowa State and head coach for one season at Villanova in 1974. He also spent five years as an assistant professor at Clarion State and three years as director of franchise sales at Athletic Attic.

Weaver and his wife Traci have four sons – Josh, Paul, Cole and Craig.

HOKIE CLUB WORKS TO KEEP TECH'S MOMENTUM BUILDING

The Virginia Tech Athletic Fund has been supporting Tech Athletics since 1949 and 2012 was another successful year. The Hokie Club staff would like to thank all of the members who gave generously in support of athletic scholarships, new and renovated facilities and programmatic needs. We want to welcome the new members who have joined the Hokie Club in 2012 as they will help meet the rising cost of tuition, room and board for our student athletes.

"Our membership takes pride in Virginia Tech's competitive posture in the Atlantic Coast Conference and on a national level. They express this pride with their financial support, purchase of season tickets and attendance at games both at home and on the road," said Lu Merritt, Senior Director of Development for Intercollegiate Athletics.

Donors make gifts in outright forms such as cash and real estate, or through planned or deferred gifts such as a will or retirement plan. Visit the website at www.hokieclub.com.

The Athletic Fund is proud of its staff and its volunteers who help ensure that the 65 Hokie Clubs throughout the region continue their active efforts to support and promote athletics at Virginia Tech.

Glenn Reynolds of Blacksburg, Va., is the current president of the Athletic Fund and Jim Pearman of Salem, Va., is the vice president.

THE MONOGRAM CLUB

STAYING CONNECTED WITH FORMER TEAMMATES AND COACHES

Virginia Tech's student-athletes hold a special place at the university, even after their playing days are over. That is why the Tech Athletics Department created the Virginia Tech Monogram Club, an organization that caters to former athletes, cheerleaders, dance team members, student, video staff, trainers and managers.

Current Athletics Director Jim Weaver resurrected the Monogram Club in 1998 and has added several incentives for former athletes. After being hired in 2001, former track and field coach Russ Whitenack has guided the Club to new prominence. Under his leadership, the Club has served as host for tailgates after most home football games and prior to bowl games. During the weekend of the Spring Game, the Monogram Club holds a golf tournament and several socials for members and their families. Whitenack also organizes many team and sport reunions as part of his role.

Club members receive several other benefits. Each member receives a complimentary subscription to Inside Hokie Sports. Additionally, the Monogram Club receives an allotment of 100 tickets for each home football game that it can sell on a first-come, first-serve basis. For many games, Club members are the only people who can buy individual game tickets.

The Monogram Club maintains a website for its members – www.vtmonogram.com. The site offers several new features such as the ability to search for the addresses of former teammates and get information about upcoming events and reunions. You can also use the link from Hokiesports.com

In hopes of helping former athletes reconnect with their teammates, all registered with the Monogram Club get invitations to Virginia Tech athletics reunions and all social events.

These added perks have naturally translated into larger membership numbers for the Club. However, Whitenack wants to see those numbers continue to grow, particularly among recent graduates. A one-year membership costs $40. A five-year membership costs $160, and a lifetime membership costs $800. Recent graduates are given a three-year complimentary membership if they register on line.

If you are a former Hokie athlete, trainer or manager, contact Russ Whitenack to join the Monogram Club at 540-231-9156 or rwhitena@vt.edu. It is one of the best values in Tech athletics, and it is the department's way of continuing to say thank you for your service to the university.

Russ Whitenack

VIRGINIA TECH IMG SPORTS MARKETING

IMG College, a national leader in the collegiate sports marketing industry, is in its 18th year as the exclusive worldwide multimedia and advertising rights holder for Virginia Tech Athletics through its 2010 acquisition of ISP Sports.

In this partnership with the athletics program, Virginia Tech IMG Sports Marketing develops, produces and sells an extensive range of sports marketing opportunities for Tech. Radio play-by-play and call-in shows, television coaches shows and other related programming, Lane Stadium and Cassell Coliseum venue signage, video board and promotions, along with print and Internet advertising are available.

During its very successful partnership with Virginia Tech, IMG College has developed the Virginia Tech IMG Sports Network into the largest collegiate sports radio network in Virginia. Broadcast coverage includes the commonwealth of Virginia, as well as portions of Maryland, North Carolina, Tennessee, Kentucky, Washington, D.C., and West Virginia.

The network's television coverage of Tech athletics is centered around Virginia Tech Sports Today, a Sunday morning magazine show aired on a network of affiliates throughout the region, including WDBJ7 in Roanoke, Comcast SportsNet in the mid-Atlantic region, and FoxSports South in the Southeast. The 30-minute show features an action-packed, magazine-style format. With its superior production, animation and videography, it has the look and feel of a national sports telecast. Virginia Tech Sports Today airs from mid-August until mid-March.

IMG College also offers Hokie Playback, a weekly re-broadcast of Virginia Tech football games.

Other advertising and marketing opportunities managed by Virginia Tech IMG Sports Marketing include the state-of-the-art videoscreens ("HokieVision") in both Lane Stadium and Cassell Coliseum, venue signage, ribbon board LED advertising and promotion, pre-game hospitality events and a wide array of print and digital opportunities across all sports.

The company provides a wide variety of sponsorship opportunities for Tech supporters at every level, through not only football and basketball but every other Virginia Tech varsity sport as well.

So, whether your interest is in radio or television media, print, promotions, signage, video board, event impact or digital ... Virginia Tech IMG Sports Marketing is your corporate connection to Virginia Tech athletics.

• Brandon Forbis is in his seventh year with IMG, serving as general manager for the company's Virginia Tech property. Prior to joining the Virginia Tech-IMG staff in February, Forbis served as general manager for IMG at the University of Richmond and the Air Force Academy, as well as associate general manager at the University of Georgia. His duties include sponsorship sales and development, daily property management and serving as the primary liaison with Tech Athletics Department administration. Forbis is a graduate of East Carolina University and holds a master's in sports management from the University of Georgia.

• Kyle Winchester joined the staff at Virginia Tech as an account executive in 2006 after working on the ISP Sports Clemson team. Winchester was named associate general manager for Virginia Tech in 2012, and assists in all aspects of sales, sponsorship fulfillment and management of the property. He graduated with a B.S., in communication studies and political science from University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill.

• Jon Zeitz joined the Virginia Tech IMG Sports Network in April of 2011 as a senior account executive. Prior to joining the Virginia Tech team, Zeitz was the general manager of marketing partnerships for Indiana University Purdue University Fort Wayne for three years, and director of sales for the Class-AA Tennessee Smokies minor league baseball team prior to that. Zeitz is a proud Virginia Tech graduate with a degree in sports management.

• Eric Yopp joined Virginia Tech IMG Sports Marketing in April of 2013, as senior account executive. Yopp brings over 13 years of sales, marketing, and management experience to the Virginia Tech IMG team. Prior to joining IMG, he spent the majority of his career with U.S. Cellular in a variety of sales and marketing roles, most recently as a marketing manager overseeing all of U.S. Cellular's corporate sponsorships in the region. Yopp is a native of Christiansburg, Va., and a graduate of Radford University.

• Win Joyner joined Virginia Tech IMG Sports Marketing in November of 2012, serving previously on IMG's Ticket Solutions team at the University of Tennessee. Joyner is a native of Ahsokie, N.C., and a graduate of Wake Forest University.

• Chris Saccoccia joined Virginia Tech IMG Sports Marketing in November of 2012, after working as an intern for the previous year. Saccoccia is 2012 Virginia Tech graduate and served as the HokieBird during his time as an undergraduate student.

'FROM THE BLUE WATERS OF THE CHESAPEAKE BAY TO THE HILLS OF TENNESSEE, THE VIRGINIA TECH HOKIES ARE ON THE AIR!'

That familiar refrain – delivered by Bill Roth, the Voice of Virginia Tech football – opens every Tech sports broadcast and reflects the network's goal of reaching Hokie fans everywhere. So, whether they're sailing off Virginia's eastern shore, hiking in the Blue Ridge Mountains, or sitting in their homes anywhere throughout the Commonwealth, Tech fans know they're always within range of a Tech network radio station.

With a massive network of radio and television stations throughout the region, the Virginia Tech IMG Sports Network serves as the main communications link between Tech's football program and the Hokies' avid legion of fans.

Roth – who has been named Virginia's Sportscaster of the Year 10 times by the National Sportswriters and Sportscasters Association – is in his 26th season as the Voice of Virginia Tech football and basketball. A native of Pittsburgh, Pa., Roth graduated from Syracuse University in 1987, earning a degree in broadcast journalism. He also won the distinguished Robert Costas Academic Scholarship in 1986. This past spring, Roth received a special honor when he became just the seventh broadcaster in state history to be inducted into the Virginia Sports Hall of Fame.

Roth's cries of "TOUCHDOWN TECH!" have become a favorite of Hokie fans of all ages, and his accurate and exciting descriptions of Tech football and basketball have made him one of the most popular figures on the Tech athletic scene.

"Bill Roth is very much a part of what we're all about here," head coach Frank Beamer said. "When you hear his voice, you immediately think Virginia Tech football."

Roth hosts weekly radio and television shows featuring Tech coach Frank Beamer and his column, The Kroger Roth Report, appears on hokiesports.com and in Tech's official monthly news magazine, Inside Hokie Sports.

Former Virginia Tech tight end Mike Burnop is serving his 31st season in the booth as the network analyst. Burnop, a star for the Hokies in the early 1970s, was inducted into Virginia Tech's Hall of Fame in 2000. He still holds the Virginia Tech record for receptions in a season by a tight end with 46. Burnop owns New River Office Supply, a business operating in Blacksburg, Pearisburg and Salem, Va.

In addition to his role as analyst, Burnop handles all post-game interviews from Tech's locker room. He has shown his versatility as a broadcaster by shining as the analyst on Tech's basketball broadcasts over the years.

Virginia Tech IMG Sports Network Television programming includes Virginia Tech Sports Today, a weekly 30-minute program that is seen every Sunday on a network of TV stations and cable networks throughout the mid-Atlantic and Southeast regions. The program features highlights of every Virginia Tech game, features and interviews with Tech players and coaches.

Hokie Playback is a weekly television re-broadcast of Virginia Tech football games shown each Sunday.

VIRGINIA TECH IMG SPORTS NETWORK STAFF

• Andrew Allegretta is in his third season as the assistant director of broadcasting for the Virginia Tech IMG Sports Network. He serves as the play-by-play broadcaster for Virginia Tech's women's basketball and baseball teams, anchors the coverage of Tech Olympic sports broadcasts on the Hokies' digital platforms, and contributes to Virginia Tech football and men's basketball radio broadcasts. He's also a contributor to Virginia Tech Sports Today, the network's weekly regional television program. A native of Yarmouth, Maine, Allegretta graduated from Syracuse University with a degree in broadcast journalism.

• Adam Witten serves as the producer and host of Virginia Tech football broadcasts. Witten provides pre-game, in-game, and post-game reports during the course of each game broadcast. A native of Sarasota, Fla., Witten graduated magna cum laude from Appalachian State University in Boone, N.C., in 2004 with a degree in electronic media/broadcasting. Witten also spent five years with the Appalachian Sports Network, serving a variety of roles on the radio airwaves including football sideline reporter and tailgate show host, men's basketball courtside host and analyst, women's basketball play-by-play announcer and host of the Mountaineers' football and basketball call-in shows.

Donna Smith

Dave Smith is beginning his 39th year with the Virginia Tech Athletics Department and his 21st full-time season with the Hokie football team. He has been involved with the football team each of his 38 years at Tech.

Smith works with head coach Frank Beamer and the rest of the Virginia Tech coaching staff, while overseeing the day-to-day working of the Athletics Communications Office. Smith also travels with the team to road games.

Smith is a 1970 graduate of Virginia Tech with a degree in English.

All interview requests for Beamer or any coach should be made through Smith by calling (540) 231-6726.

Bryan Johnston is in his 15th year with the Virginia Tech Athletics Department and his 14th with the Hokie football team.

His main duties with the football team include acting as a liaison between the media and the Virginia Tech football players and setting up the weekly press conferences, laying out the game notes as well as traveling with the team to road games.

A native of Chesapeake, Va., Johnston is a 1999 graduate of the University of South Carolina with a degree in sport administration.

All interview requests for any player should be made through Johnston by calling (540) 231-3387 or by email at blj@vt.edu.

Dave Knachel is in his 18th year as a full-time employee at Virginia Tech, and has been photographing Hokie sports for 32 years, since he came to the university as a student in 1981.

Prior to joining the Tech staff in 1996, he worked for local newspapers. He has also volunteered extensively in many capacities with Special Olympics Virginia.

Knachel is responsible for photographic coverage of all varsity sports at Tech as well as producing athletics department publications.

Media requests for digital images of Tech players, coaches and administrators should be made to Knachel preferably by email at dknachel@vt.edu or by calling 540-231-1838.

JUST VIRGINIA TECH, PLEASE

While the full name of the school is Virginia Polytechnic Institute and State University, the school is commonly referred to as "Virginia Tech." Founded in 1872, as Virginia Agricultural and Mechanical College, the university changed its name to Virginia Polytechnic Institute in 1896. Fans of the athletics department, as well as media covering the Hokies, shortened the name to VPI, but it eventually became Virginia Tech. The "State University" was added in 1970 to bring the official title to what it is today.

Those covering Hokie athletics are asked to refer to the university as simply "Virginia Tech." Virginia Tech University, VPI and SU, VPI&SU, "Vah Tech," VT or VA Tech are not recognized names and should not be used.

MEDIA INFORMATION

ATHLETICS COMMUNICATIONS

Football media services are coordinated by the Athletics Communications Office, headed by Assistant Athletics Director Dave Smith and Associate Director of Athletics Communications Bryan Johnston. Please direct interview requests for any of the coaches, as well as credential requests to Smith. All player interview requests should be made to Johnston. For photo requests, please contact photography coordinator Dave Knachel.

The Athletics Communications Office is located on the fourth floor of the Jamerson Athletic Center, which is connected to Cassell Coliseum and the Merryman Athletic Center. The office is next to the Bowman Room.

All media members coming to campus during the week need to stop by the Visitor and Undergraduate Admissions Center at 925 Prices Fork Road to obtain a parking pass.

Media will be responsible for paying any fines they incur while on campus.

THE PRESS BOX

The press box at Lane Stadium/Worsham Field comprises seven levels. Newspaper, radio and television reporters work on the fifth level.

The media area of the press box is accessible via elevators Nos. 4 & 5, which are located on the west side, in the south tower.

Admission to the press box is by credential only. Smoking is not allowed in the stands or in any enclosed area of Lane Stadium, including the press box and rest rooms.

PRESS CREDENTIALS

Virginia Tech issues media credentials under the priorities listed below. These priorities are designed to achieve efficient use of space available for working members of the media at Virginia Tech intercollegiate athletic events.

The Virginia Tech Athletics Communications Office uses an online credentialing system for individual game requests. Email Bryan Johnston at blj@vt.edu for information on how to apply. Requests the week of the game will be honored on a space-available basis and will be left at the Will Call window at Lane Stadium/Worsham Field if they cannot be mailed. Parking passes can not be left at will call.

Spouses, dates, children, equipment carriers and non-workers are restricted from the press box, sidelines and locker rooms. Any abuse of a working credential will result in the media agency losing credential privileges. Credentials will not be issued to any person under the age of 18.

In some instances, due to space limitations, meeting the identified criteria does not guarantee credentials.

Space for the working press, radio and television is allocated by the Virginia Tech Athletics Communications Office, which reserves the right to deny credentials to any outlet.

Virginia Tech does not allow radio stations to broadcast live shows or segments from the 5th level of the press box – before, during or after a game.

Priorities

1. Originating radio and television personnel involved in a live television or radio broadcast of a Virginia Tech intercollegiate athletic competition.
2. Daily newspapers, wire services, and regional and national publications that regularly and substantially report on Virginia Tech intercollegiate athletics.
3. Non-originating radio and television personnel producing reports on a Virginia Tech intercollegiate athletic competition. Only local radio stations with a full-time sports director conducting a regular and substantial sports show reporting on Virginia Tech intercollegiate athletics receive consideration for credentials.
4. Officially recognized Virginia Tech student publications and daily student electronic media outlets that regularly and substantially report on Virginia Tech intercollegiate athletics.
5. Requests submitted by the opposing team's Sports Information Director.
6. Official websites of Atlantic Coast Conference schools, non-conference opponents, and the Atlantic Coast Conference office.
7. Non-daily newspapers or publications that regularly and substantially report on Virginia Tech intercollegiate athletics.
8. Pro scouts.
9. Online entities that meet the requirements set out in guideline 7, below.

Guidelines

1. Season media credentials are issued to those organizations that report on Virginia Tech intercollegiate athletics on a regular and substantial basis, as outlined above.
2. With the exception of Hokie beat reporters reporting on the team on a daily basis and producing daily reports, all passes are approved and issued on a game-by-game basis.
3. All passes and credentials are non-transferable without prior approval from the Virginia Tech Athletic Communication Office. Passes used by any member of a credentialed outlet without specific editorial assignment or by non-working members of the organization are subject to revocation upon University request.
4. Due to limited space and to ensure compliance with NCAA guidelines, credentials for "freelance" writers or photographers will not be considered without a specific assignment received in writing by the assigning organization.
5. Virginia Tech and the NCAA prohibit the issuance of credentials to representatives of an organization that regularly publishes gambling information, such as "tout sheets" or "tip sheets." Virginia Tech will not issue credentials to organizations whose primary function is to deliver news related to the recruitment of student-athletes, unless owned and operated under a national parent company.

6. No credentials will be issued to individuals under the age of 18. Admission to media facilities are for working media only.
7. Credentials may be issued: a) to online entities that are affiliated with a national media organization; or, b) to online entities that host a website that regularly and substantially reports on Virginia Tech intercollegiate athletics, and employs for that Virginia Tech-dedicated website at least two full-time, salaried employees who write a substantial majority of all material posted on the site. Neither independent bloggers, nor fan sites where anyone can submit articles for publication, will be credentialed. Online entities must register at least 20,000 legitimate unique users per month in each of the past 12 months, and must have been in existence for a minimum of three years, to be given consideration.

An online entity that meets the requirements of either 7.a) or 7.b) and which sponsors message boards (free or pay) or chat rooms may be credentialed only if the entity enforces its policies regarding abusive, discriminatory and inflammatory material.

8. University personnel may deny or revoke credentials without notice and an individual shall surrender his/her credential upon request for: noncompliance with the priorities or guidelines set out in this policy; noncompliance with health, safety, or security directives issued regarding University athletic events; violations of University, Department of Intercollegiate Athletics, NCAA, or ACC policies; and for conduct for which there are reasonable grounds to believe violate state or federal law, or constitute a breach of professional ethics, including inappropriate dress and/or intoxication. Any organization that wishes to contest a denial or revocation shall: a) request the Athletics Communications Office provide a written rationale for the denial or revocation; b) submit a written response to that rationale to the Associate Athletics Director for External Affairs. After reviewing the response, the Associate Athletics Director for External Affairs, in consultation with appropriate University officials, shall issue a decision to uphold or reverse the denial or revocation. The Associate Athletics Director's decision shall be final.
9. The Virginia Tech Athletics Communications Office reserves the right to change this policy at any time.

REAL-TIME TRANSMISSION

The "Real-time" transmission of digital images, audio and data, including live game play-by-play and statistics, of any home game or any Tech-sponsored media event is the exclusive property of Virginia Tech and/or its rights holder(s). "Real-time" is defined as "live continual coverage or description of an event."

Media members blogging or using Twitter from the press box are subject to all of Virginia Tech's real-time policies.

The Atlantic Coast Conference has adapted an Internet Real-Time Policy. Virginia Tech adheres to this policy.

MEDIA WILL CALL

In most cases, credentials will be mailed. Credentials may be picked up through Friday of a game week from secretary Donna Smith in the Athletics Communications Office. Credentials not mailed or picked up will be held at the public Will Call window located a few steps from elevator No. 5, outside the press entrance to Lane Stadium/Worsham Field. Parking passes can not be left at will call.

PHOTO CREDENTIALS

The NCAA has established a control policy to keep the field free from congestion. Only photographers on assignment and members of the television media are given photo credentials. Freelance or amateur photographers will not be issued credentials.

All photographers must work outside the 30-yard lines as prescribed by the NCAA. Photographers are not permitted in the bench area. On the front line of the sidelines, as well as in the south end zone, photographers are required to kneel. Those photographers shooting from behind the second line, as well as in the north end zone, are allowed to stand.

For those who need to transmit photos electronically, a work room for photographers is available. This room is located in the June Oblinger Shott Media Center, on the ground level beneath the south end zone. A member of the Athletics Communications staff will be on the sidelines to lend assistance during the game.

RIGHTS RESTRICTION

Virginia Tech is and shall be the sole owner of any and all copyrights, intellectual property rights and proprietary rights for images, sounds and data arising from or during Virginia Tech home athletics contests and Tech-sponsored media events.

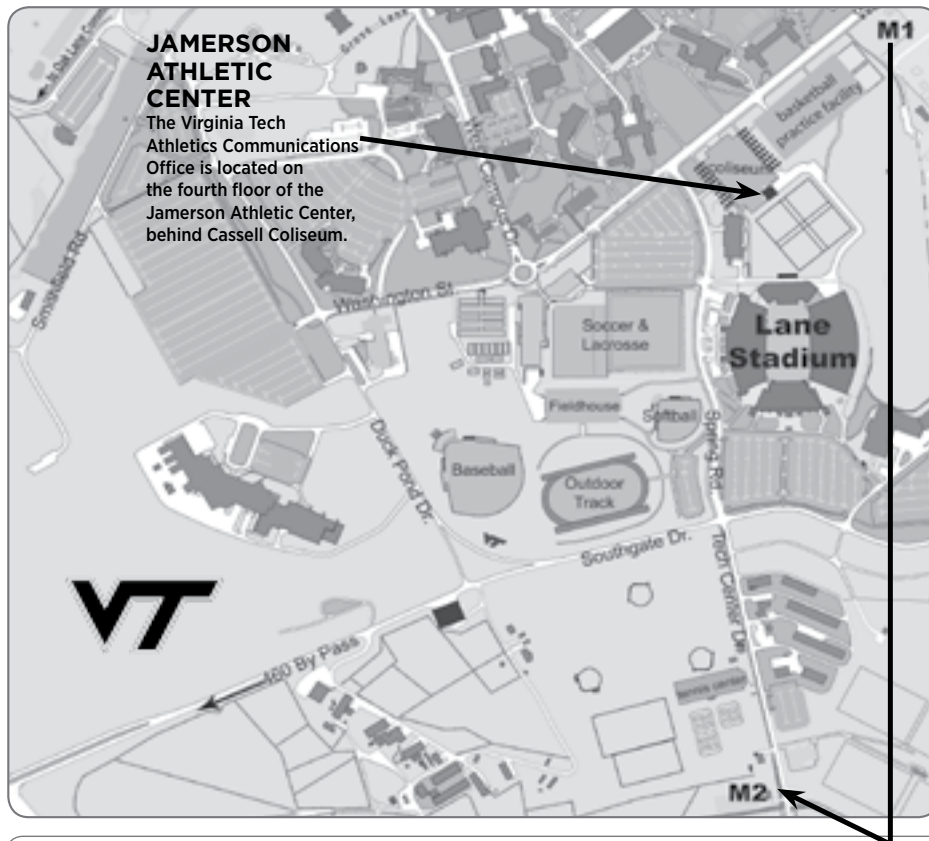

The use of photographs, video and/or audio for purposes other than traditional news coverage is forbidden. No redistribution is permitted.

ENG CREW RESTRICTIONS

Electronic news gathering ("ENG") crews acknowledge and agree they shall abide by the following restrictions regarding the use of television footage of home football games of Atlantic Coast Conference ("ACC") schools. If the ACC football game is telecast by ABC or ESPN ("ABC/ESPN Games"), ENG crews (i) may not use television footage of the ABC/ESPN Game, except for excerpts consistent with ABC's or ESPN's, as applicable, news access guidelines, and (ii) may not authorize the use of any such television footage by any third parties. ENG crews acknowledge and agree that ABC and ESPN have the exclusive right to telecast live home football games of ACC schools between 3:30 p.m., and 11 p.m., east coast time (excluding telecasts of games commencing at noon east coast time that extend into overtime or whose start times are delayed by extraordinary circumstances, such as inclement weather).

PARKING

Game day media parking is available on a limited basis in two media-designated areas. Requests for parking credentials should be requested when credentials are requested. If you plan to visit the Tech campus Monday through Friday, you must obtain a visitor parking permit.

GETTING TO CAMPUS

The campus is located in Blacksburg, Va., about 40 miles southwest of Roanoke, Va. To reach the campus from Interstate 81, take Exit 118-B (Christiansburg) onto U.S. Route 460 West. Follow the 460 Blacksburg Bypass and turn right onto Rt. 314.

BY AIR

Roanoke Regional Airport in Roanoke, Va., is served by major domestic airlines. Limousine services provide transportation between the airport and campus. Private planes may land at the Virginia Tech Airport, on campus.

GAME DAY MEDIA PARKING (MEDIA PARKING PASS REQUIRED)

Media parking will be assigned in one of these two locations (M1 or M2).

VISITOR PARKING PERMITS (NON-GAME DAYS)

Visitor parking permits are available at the Visitor Center on 965 Prices Fork Road, Monday-Friday 7:30 a.m.-6 p.m., Saturday 8:30 a.m.-2:30 p.m., and Sunday 1 p.m.-5 p.m. Visitor permits must be signed and dated by an authorized official and displayed 7 a.m.-5 p.m., Monday through Friday, unless otherwise noted by a sign.

TELEPHONES

Newspeople desiring their own telephone or ethernet lines should submit requests to Virginia Tech CNS at (540) 231-4350. If you request your own phone, please notify the Athletics Communications Office so we can give the phone company the proper location. The same applies for photographers wishing to activate a phone or ethernet line in the south end zone work room, where two pool phones and one pool ethernet line are provided. Please make all requests well in advance of the game.

WIRELESS INTERNET

Virginia Tech offers free wireless Internet to members of the media working the game. To be able to use this feature, you must have a wireless (802.11 compatible) card in your laptop, tested and configured prior to arriving. To register for this service, you are encouraged to sign up prior to arriving on game day, or in the press box or south end zone when you arrive. To obtain the URL, please contact Tommy Regan in Athletic Computing Services at vtacs@vt.edu. After registering, your e-mail address will serve as both your user name and password.

POSTGAME INTERVIEWS

All postgame interviews take place in the June Oblinger Shott Media Center, located on the ground level of the south end zone. After a short cool-down period, Coach Frank Beamer will address the media on the podium, followed by four top players. When that session is completed, 4-5 of the remaining top requested players will meet with the news media after each home game. Media members with special player requests need to make those known prior to the fourth quarter.

A separate room, located directly across the hall from the Tech interview room, is available for interviews with the coaches and players from the visiting team. Directions to both interview areas will be available in the press box or through the Athletics Communications Office. Media access to visiting players will be determined by the visiting SID.

THE ACC ON THE WEB

The ACC site on the Internet is available at www.theACC.com. The site contains current information on all facets of the Atlantic Coast Conference. In addition, in-game scores for football contests involving ACC teams will be updated in-progress. Please contact Mike Finn in the ACC media relations department for more information.

ACC MEDIA SITE

CollegePressBox.com is the official media website for ACC football. Access and download weekly game notes, quotes, statistics, media guides and more for the conference and each of its 12 member schools throughout the season. Login information will be distributed to accredited media.

INTERVIEW POLICY

Virginia Tech's coaches and players will be available throughout the season for interviews with members of the news media on Mondays and Tuesdays of a normal game week. It is important, however, that all requests for interviews be made through the Athletics Communications Office.

Interviews with players and assistant coaches (offense one day; defense the other) will be held in a 20-minute session after Monday's and Tuesday's practices (10 minutes for players; 10 minutes for coaches). Any media person wishing to come to practice and talk to a specific player or coach needs to contact the Athletics Communications Office before practice to get those requested on the master list. All requests for pre-practice interviews need to be submitted to Bryan Johnston by 1 p.m. You may call him at (540) 231-3387 or e-mail him at blj@vt.edu.

Players may be requested for features only before meetings on Mondays and Tuesdays if it can be arranged around the player's schedule. All phone interviews must be done before practice.

Monday's practices are closed to the media. On Tuesdays, the stretching and warm-up sessions, plus the first two periods are open to media and pro scouts. A 20-minute interview session will follow these two days for those who were requested before practice.

At no time will a player's phone number be given out and media are asked not to call, e-mail or contact the players or coaches through social networking websites (i.e., Facebook, Twitter, etc.) or ask for their contact information.

Meeting rooms, the weight room, training room, the coach's hallways and office are off-limits to media unless accompanied by a member of the Athletics Communications staff.

BEAMER TELECONFERENCE

On Mondays during the season, Coach Frank Beamer will be available via teleconference for approximately 15-20 minutes. The interview session will begin at 11:40 a.m. Media interested in this opportunity are asked to call the Athletics Communications Office at (540) 231-6726 for the phone number.

WEEKLY PRESS INTERVIEW SESSION

On Tuesdays prior to each Tech game, Coach Frank Beamer and selected members of the Tech team will be available to meet accredited media in the Shott Center, located in the south end zone. A light lunch will be served at approximately noon with 2-3 players going at 12:30 p.m., after the meal is served. Coach Beamer will begin his interview session at 1 p.m. All interviews will be held on the podium in the home interview room.

A video feed of Beamer, along with the players, is available both live and archived on hokiesports.com.

TALKING TO COACH BEAMER

The best ways to reach Coach Frank Beamer are on his Monday teleconference, his weekly press interview session on Tuesdays, on the ACC teleconference on Wednesdays or after practice.

Any additional requests should be made through Dave Smith at (540) 231-6726.

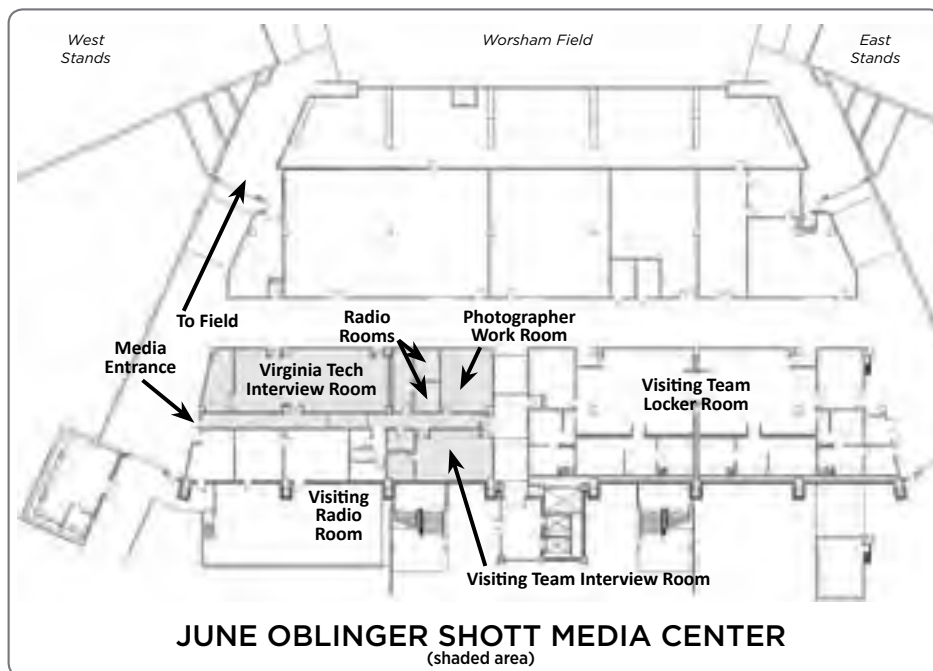

ACC TELECONFERENCE

The ACC football coaches will be featured on a weekly teleconference, beginning on Wednesday, Aug. 28. The final teleconference, for the Virginia game, will be on Wednesday, Nov. 27. Each coach will be available for 10 minutes.

The teleconference number will be mailed to media members who cover Virginia Tech football. Members of the media can also secure the number and schedule by contacting the ACC office at (336) 851-6062.

SATELLITE FEED

The ACC provides weekly feeds with highlights, along with coach and player interviews. Information is available through the ACC office.
